GRILL CONVICT IN KIDNAPING

HITLER VISIONS SELF GERMANY'S MIRACLE MAN

Pledges to Cure All of Nation's Woes.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 11.—At 3,000 meetings each night, the lieutenants and aids of Adolf Hitler, leader of the Fascist party, are telling the German masses of the happiness in store for them if they elect him president of Germany. These meetings will last until Sunday — election day.

"Our program is clear; everything must be changed," he said. "How it will be changed, I cannot tell you because the police won't let us say everything we think."

Public Enjoys Fanfare.

The Nazi leaders make these hazy statements with a flourish; they intersperse them with grains of truth: young, enthusiastic, idealistic boys stand at attention while the leaders make these speeches. They march and sing the "good old army songs" and the public enjoys it.

Chancellor Heinrich Bruening today denounced the Hitlerite tactics of exploiting misery in Germany in a campaign speech in behalf of President Paul von Hindenburg. The chancellor exhorted the voters to reelect Von Hindenburg, a "man who has proved his greatness." He characterized Hitler as "a man who lures voters with glamorous words and promises." Bruening particularly appealed to the women voters, who outnumber the male electorate by 2,100,000, to "remain true to a great leader."

The National Socialist party has twenty-five planks in its platform. Republicans call the Nazi program communistic, involving a complete overthrow of present economics. Communists say it is chauvinistic, with a "Socialistic veneer." Hitlerites say it is "patriotic" and "national," drawn up for the good of the nation; that the republic in its fourteen years of existence failed to bring happiness to Germany, and that their system will "help Germany reconquer her place in the sun."

War Is Glorified.

The spirit or heroic comradeship, which glorifies the war in the memory of those who lived through it, plays a part in the spectacular progress of Hitler's self-made party of seven men—a party which today claims the votes of fifteen million.

The first points of Hitler's program are inspired by Germany's hatred of "the fetters of Versailles." They follow:

"1. All Germans in Europe be allowed to unite, on the strength of the right of self-determination for all nations, into a 'Big Germany.'

"2. People of Germany be given the same rights as other nations. They can be secured only after the treaties of Versailles and St. Germain are canceled.

"3. Germany must be given land [colonies] to feed and settle her surplus population.

"4. Only members of the nation can be citizens. To be a member of the nation one must be of German blood, regardless of religion. Therefore, no Jew can be a member of the nation.

"5. Those not pure blooded Germans may be guests, but they must be placed under special legislation for foreigners.

"6. Only German citizens may become officials. We fight against corrupting parliamentarism, and appointments made on the strength of partisanship.

Demand Jobs for All.

"7. The state must provide jobs for its citizens and help them find means of livelihood. If the country cannot feed its citizens, its 'guests' must be expelled.

"8. All further foreign immigration is prohibited. Whoever came to Germany after Aug. 2, 1914, must be expelled.

"9. All citizens must have equal rights and duties.

"10. The first duty of a citizen is to work bodily or mentally.

"11. Abolition of all incomes acquired without work or effort.

"12. Complete confiscation of war profits.

"13. All companies belonging to

A. OF C. SEEKS LEGAL BEER TO END DRY EVILS

Prohibition Assailed by Trade Body.

Modification of the Volstead act to legalize 2¾ per cent beer was recommended yesterday in a resolution unanimously adopted by the executive committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce. The resolution attacked prohibition as fostering crime, disregard of law and as increasing the national debt.

J. P. HAYNES.

The action of the executive committee is the first expression on the wet and dry question of this organization, which numbers 6,500 members, representing practically every important industrial and commercial institution in the city. With the adoption of the resolution calling on congress to act for modification, the association pledged itself to seek support of its stand by all other similar organizations in the country.

Seek National Vote.

The resolution is to be presented at the annual meeting of the United States Chamber of Commerce in San Francisco on May 17. J. P. Haynes, executive vice president of the Association of Commerce, said the national body will be asked to adopt a similar resolution and to order a referendum of its member bodies and their membership on modification.

The resolution was prepared by the committee on resolutions for the United States Chamber of Commerce meeting. It was debated at a closed session of the executive committee and adopted without a dissenting vote. It reads:

"The Chicago Association of Commerce deems it appropriate that the Chamber of Commerce of the United States invite the attention of congress to a matter directly affecting, and of great importance to the moral and economic welfare of the nation.

Law Violated Hourly.

"It is a matter of common knowledge and official record through the report of the Wickersham commission that the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act are being violated daily and hourly throughout the Union and that the violations of these laws are causing disrespect for all law and a complete breakdown of public and private morals, and are particularly harmful to the youth of our land.

"It is also a matter of common knowledge and official record that the unlawful traffic in intoxicating and alcoholic liquors used illegally for beverage purposes has enriched and built up a huge criminal organization for the manufacture, importation, distribution, and sale of such intoxicating liquor and that the prosecution, conviction, and imprisonment of the violators of these laws has not served to stop the traffic.

"It is a demonstrable fact that liquids containing not more than 2¾ per cent of alcohol by volume are not intoxicating in fact, and that their sale and manufacture is, therefore, not in violation of the eighteenth amendment and that the limitation of one-half of 1 per cent is an unjust and unreasonable limitation.

Congress Has the Power.

"Congress has the power to authorize sale of such malt beverages. Such restoration of the brewing industry would put an end to the profitable selling of illegal beer, would cut the revenue of organized crime, and would enable the government to collect taxes estimated at $300,000,000 to $500,000,000 a year, which would materially help to solve the difficult task of balancing the budget.

"A civilized nations, the United States excepted, derive a large part of their revenues from the taxation of alcoholic beverages. The eighteenth amendment prohibits the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquor for beverages, but does not affect in any way those not intoxicating in fact.

"An amendment to the Volstead act bringing about such manufacture and sale will bring about the restoration of an industry which some years ago ranked as one of the greatest of the country. The work of rehabilitating the breweries will place in circulation many millions of dollars, and their operation will put new life into scores of industries.

"The record of 13 consecutive years of attempts at enforcement is sufficient evidence that it cannot be enforced."

HARVARD HORDE USES RIPE EGG BARRAGE TO SAVE SIMPSON'S CAR

Cambridge, Mass., March 11.—(AP)—Four hundred Harvard students organized their own "filibuster" today, laying down a barrage of ripe fruit and stale eggs, to save a student's automobile from the hands of a constable.

William A. Simpson of Chicago had his collegiate car repaired and apparently had forgotten to pay the bill of $83.20.

Constable Edward A. Specter and his aide, Ernest Basford, went to collect the bill or the car just when classes were letting out.

When the officers attempted to enter the automobile some one sounded the call to arms on the Harvard Lampoon bell and from dormitory and hall poured the recruits.

Their ammunition consisted of eggs, pineapples, bags of water, grapefruit and such other non-wounding materials as could be gathered hurriedly.

Meanwhile other students had driven their cars to form a barricade about the beleaguered officers. When the melee neared riot proportions a call for police was dispatched.

Before the officers arrived, however, Simpson had raised the necessary funds in the form of a certified check and the order to cease firing had been given.

BRITON FORCES AMERICAN WIFE TO QUIT POLITICS

LONDON, March 11.—(AP)—A little difference between Sir Frederick William Butterfield and Lady Butterfield—the former Hilda Johnston of Milwaukee, Wis.—has been settled in accordance with the desires of his lordship.

Lady Butterfield was unanimously elected president of the Keighley, Yorkshire, Women's Conservative association. Her husband informed the association that her knowledge of politics was very slight and he thought some one better equipped should be selected.

Husband Ordered to Pay His Alimony in Shotguns

Mrs. Martha Pugh, 25 years old, 3088 Elbridge avenue, informed Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude yesterday that her husband, Jesse, had fallen $500 in arrears in a temporary alimony order granted pending the hearing of her divorce suit. Pugh, a milkman, from whom she separated last Feb. 2, also appeared. He admitted owning a dozen fine shotguns worth as much as $50 apiece.

"That being the case," Judge Trude concluded the hearing, "just give your wife ten of those guns and call the debt squared."

Groom Recites His Wooing, Aids a Friend

A blushing bridegroom appeared yesterday to defend Mrs. Louise Marion Reinken, 114 East Walton place, against the spyglass testimony on which Dietrich G. Reinken, gold coast interior decorator, is seeking to divorce her.

The bridegroom's testimony was given before Judge Craig Hood in the Circuit court, where Reinken's bill for divorce, charging desertion and adultery, and her cross-bill, charging desertion and conspiracy to defame her, are being heard. Reinken names Charles F. von Zukeschwerdt, 207 Kedzie street, Evanston, official of a baking company as a co-respondent.

Calls Three Detectives.

Attorney Wilfred M. Doherty called three private detectives to testify for Reinken. They said that they had rented a room in the Hotel Maryland, 900 Rush street, from which they were able to see with binoculars into the apartment of Mrs. Reinken, who then lived in the Delaware Towers, 25 East Delaware place.

They testified that on June 4, 11, 27 and 28, and July 2 and 4, 1930, they saw a couple embracing and kissing in Mrs. Reinken's apartment. Although there were curtains and drapes over the windows, they said they were able to identify the petters as Mrs. Reinken and Von Zukeschwerdt.

Former Judge Charles S. Cutting, representing Mrs. Reinken, introduced the curtains and drapes, which were of heavy material, in evidence to support the defense contention that it was impossible to distinguish persons clearly behind them. Then he called as a witness Dr. Ralph M. Grassle, 4000 Irving Park boulevard, a dentist.

Dentist Blushes.

Dr. Grassle, tall and slim, grew red faced behind his horn rimmed glasses as he testified. In June, 1930, he said, he was engaged to be married to his present wife, Mary. They visited Mrs. Reinken in her apartment on the evenings of June 4, 11 and 27, he said, and on those visits indulged in some of the expressions of affections common to engaged couples. Mrs. Reinken and Von Zukeschwerdt were present on those occasions, but at no time did they do any petting, Dr. Grassle said.

Early on July 4, 1930, Reinken and one of the detectives raided the apartment, arrested Mrs. Reinken and Von Zukeschwerdt, who were in pajamas, and took them to the Chicago avenue police station, where they were charged with disorderly conduct. The charges were dismissed later.

Mrs. Reinken described the raid.

Son with Them, She Testifies.

"Mr. Von Zukeschwerdt and Ralph Ellis, 20 years old, my son by a previous marriage, had been shopping in preparation for a Fourth of July picnic the previous evening, and when they returned home Mr. Von Zukeschwerdt and my son went to bed in the bedroom. I slept on a daybed behind a screen in the living room.

"About 4 a. m. I was awakened by pounding on the door. Some one said, "We're police," so I let them in. It was my husband and a detective, who was brandishing a shotgun. The detective told me that if I would go to the office of my husband's lawyer and sign some papers I would not be arrested. I refused."

Los Angeles, Cal., March 11.—[Special.]—Property of the Rev. Aimee Semple McPherson-Hutton, evangelist, and her husband, David L. Hutton, was ordered attached by the sheriff today. It includes the interests of Mr. and Mrs. McPherson-Hutton or her husband in the Angelus Memorial association, Temple Tower Apartments, Inc., the Echo Park Evangelical association, and seven lots adjoining the Angelus temple.

The suit for $9,782.58 is by R. D. Clarke, as assignee of Lynden Bowring, a local attorney, against the Angelus Memorial association, Mrs. McPherson-Hutton and her husband.

AUSTRALIA PUTS A GARNISHEE ON STATE'S REVENUE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CANBERRA, Australia, March 12.—[Saturday.]—After a stormy debate lasting three days, the federal parliament today passed special legislation attaching the New South Wales state revenue to satisfy that state's default of $5,800,000 in interest to overseas bondholders.

Prime Minister Lyons announced immediate action by the government to garnishee the state's taxes until the entire debt is satisfied.

Simultaneously Australia's "new guard," composed of 100,000 citizens, presented a petition signed by 500,000 persons to Sir Philip Game, royal governor of New South Wales, asking King George to dissolve the New South Wales parliament.

Girl Scout Captain Ends Life in Hinsdale Store

Miss Alice B. Mochel, 25 years old, of 48 Eastern avenue, Clarendon Hills, just west of Hinsdale, ended her life yesterday by swallowing poison in the hardware store of her father, E. G. Mochel, in Prospect avenue, Hinsdale. Illness which forced her to give up her position at the First National bank in Hisdale after ten years of service was ascribed as the motive. Miss Mochel was a Girl Scout captain and Sunday school teacher at the Presbyterian Community church in Hinsdale.

Altruism Stirs Tough Eggs in Hunt for Baby

New York, March 11.—[Special.]—Criminals in prisons from coast to coast felt the stir of altruistic motives in their breasts today following the receipt of news that Al Capone had offered to have his brother take his place in jail and join in the search for the Lindbergh baby. All the prisoners insisted that freedom was only an incident to their offer; that they were actuated by a desire to serve humanity.

Loeb and Leopold Ready.

Joliet, Ill., March 11.—[Special.]—Richard Loeb and Nathan Leopold are figuring on seeking a parole from the penitentiary here so they can join in the hunt for the Lindbergh baby. The two young men, who are serving life sentences for kidnaping and killing little Bobby Franks, consider they are well fitted to make the search, according to prison "grapevine" reports. They argue that they are not ordinary murderers. They merely happened to commit a homicide in which a little boy was a victim while they were making a sociological experiment to work out a perfect crime.

The two young convicts are said to be ready to match their university trained minds against Al Capone with all his brewery experience. It is reported, without verification, however, that they might offer to let the warden taken their places while they hunt kidnapers.

Terry Gets the Idea, Too.

Leavenworth, Kas., March 11.—[Special.]—"I am sure I can get a volunteer to take my place in prison while I hunt the kidnapers," said Terry Druggan today. Terry is serving a federal sentence for failure to account for his profits in his income tax returns. Terry explained that he could not be classified as an ordinary criminal, and he was ready to invite the sultan of Sulu to take his place in Leavenworth while he hunts kidnapers.

"I made money supplying sound beer for thirsty souls," said Terry. "Is there any crime in that? The income tax case was a bum rap. I was ready to pay Uncle Sam what I really owed."

Fred Burke Also.

Marquette, Mich., March 11.—[Special.]—Fred [Killer] Burke, serving a life sentence for the murder of a policeman in St. Joseph, wants to be freed so he can hunt for the Lindbergh kidnapers, it was said at the state penitentiary here today. Burke is notorious as the chief of a kidnaping and robbery gang, but he insists that the world is doing him wrong, and he wants a chance to redeem himself by finding the kidnaped baby. He pleads that, although he was convicted of murder, all he did was to commit a homicide.

Gandhi Sees Way Out.

POONA, India, March 12.—[Saturday.]—A group of his disciples left Yerawda jail here today after a visit with Mahatma Gandhi, declaring that they would appeal to Viceroy Willingdon to release the mahatma that he might go to the United States and aid in the search for the Lindbergh kidnapers. The mahatma is willing to leave his goat and spinning wheel with the jailer as security for his return.

Virgil Kirkland Chimes In.

Pendleton, Ind., March 11.—[Special.]—Virgil Kirkland, serving a term in the Indiana state reformatory here for the attack on Arlene Draves of Gary which resulted in her death, was reported today to be writing a letter to Gov. Leslie of Indiana, asking that he be paroled to help seek the Lindbergh kidnaping gang.

Guards said that Kirkland denounced the depravity of the gang in terms even more violent than those

TOMBS INMATE QUIZZED ABOUT LINDBERGH PLOT

BULLETIN.

New York, March 12 (Saturday).—(AP)—It was learned on good authority early today that the inmate of the Tombs prison taken yesterday to the home of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh at Hopewell, N. J., was one of five men whom the police suspected of fashioning a kidnap plot against the Lindberghs last November. The man, whose identity was closely guarded, now is in prison in connection with an offense not related to the abduction of the Lindbergh baby. The police were proceeding, it was learned, on information that a gang of five obtained detailed knowledge of the Lindberghs' activities last November, but were understood to have abandoned their plot. A second member of the gang is believed to be in prison elsewhere and an effort is being made to locate him for questioning. The Tombs inmate was questioned both at Hopewell and Newark before being returned to prison here.

BULLETIN.

Hopewell, N. J., March 12 (Saturday).—(Special.)—It was reported here early today that there would be a conference in New York this morning between a representative of the Lindbergh family, Police Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney, and several agents from the Detroit underworld. The topic will be tips concerning the search for the Lindbergh kidnapers turned up in the Detroit underworld.

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hopewell, N. J., March 11.—[Special.]—A nation-wide police distribution of circulars describing the kidnaped Lindbergh baby was accepted here tonight as definite indication that the best efforts of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and the law enforcement agencies of the state had failed to uncover any authentic trace of the stolen child.

As the tenth night of the search passed it became apparent that the police hunt was right where it was on the night of March 1 when the abductors entered the Hopewell home and stole the child from his crib.

Police Without Word.

Further evidence of the stalemate reached by the police was revealed in the 11 o'clock statement made by Col. Norman Schwartzkopf at Trenton, superintendent of New Jersey police. He said:

"The police have received no notification from the kidnapers nor have they made any contact with them. They have received no underworld aid and have asked for none but will welcome help from any one who can render any assistance and keep it confidential."

"Treated with Confidence."

Schwartzkopf's anouncement scouted the word "immunity," but the phraseology of the circular made it clear that all information from whatever source will be "treated with confidence."

"This guarantee of confidence is repeated in the circular and we will adhere strictly to it," the police official said.

Heretofore the state police and Gov A. Harry Moore have refused to follow the example of Col. Lindbergh and pledge immunity to the kidnapers if the baby is returned alive and unharmed. Now, in desperation, the police pledge what really amounts to immunity.

The denial of police progress, however, may be a smoke screen to cover Col. Lindbergh's private efforts to win the release of his infant son from the kidnapers.

It became known tonight that a penitentiary prisoner was taken out of the Tombs in Manhattan last night and hurried out to Hopewell just as all avenues of the search were being closed up. Efforts to obtain confirmation of the visit of the prisoner to the Lindbergh home met with little success. There were the customary denials to which reporters here have become accustomed on virtually all information sought.

Rosner Questions Prisoner.

This is the story of the visit of the prisoner as revealed here:

Morris Rosner, one of the several undercover agents named by Col. Lindbergh to act as go-between with the kidnapers, visited the Tombs before dawn Friday to question the prisoner, whose identity has been kept a deep secret.

Rosner, who is under indictment in New York for "stock kiting," has been reported in various parts of the country in recent days, but observers in Hopewell insist he has taken up quarters in the Lindbergh home and is working as confidential agent along with Col. Henry Breckinridge, the Lindbergh attorney. Rosner is recognized as an expert "fixer."

Rosner's visit to the Tombs was admitted by Joseph Fulling Fishman, deputy commissioner of corrections, who intimated that his superior, Commissioner Richard C. Patterson, regarded the visit as an incident of great importance. Fishman, it was said, has been relieved of all other duties to aid in the hunt for the Lindbergh heir.

Declines to Give Details.

Pressed for a statement in New York City, the deputy commissioner said:

"Any statement now would kill the effectiveness of our work."

Officials from the department of correction have been in touch with the Lindbergh home at various times during the day, both by messengers and telephone.

Mr. Fishman refused to confirm the reports that the prisoner had been taken to Hopewell, but neither would he deny the story. Col. Schwartzkopf was noncommittal in his answers.

The night book at the Tombs contained no entry to indicate that a prisoner had been removed. Commissioner Patterson was asked for a statement.

"The department would release fifty prisoners if it would help get that baby back," he said, "but, remember I am not admitting that we did take out a prisoner."

Meanwhile the Lindbergh home continued to blaze with light tonight and at least 15 cars were said to be parked in front of the house. Automobiles hired by reporters were stopped at the deadlines two miles from the house and thoroughly searched by flashlight before the cars were turned back.

A visit to every possible approach to the home found all roads cut off and under state trooper guard. No explanation of the extra precautions was given, but it was believed that a change in the personnel of the troopers had a lot to do with it. The police have been under criticism for several days and are smarting under it.

Aviators Circle Hills.

Two aviators from Floyd Bennet field circled over the hills throughout the afternoon training powerful glasses on the fields and cedar dotted mountains, but found no trace of any secret hideout. Troopers continued to search the woods.

Automobiles with New York licenses came and went and there was a persistent report that Henry [Red] Johnson, sailor suitor of Nursemaid Betty Gow, and who is under arrest for violating the immigration laws, had been brought to the Lindbergh home for questioning. Betty Gow, it was reported, was being requestioned. Rumors that the nursemaid had been arrested were promptly denied by Trenton authorities and no confirmation was obtained of the Johnson angle.

Newark detectives continued their investigation into Johnson and his activities by questioning another woman friend of his, whose name had not been brought into the inquiry before. This woman, identified sketchily as Dorothy Thompson, was questioned briefly and then allowed to go.

Flyers Near Crash.

The air search was made by Robert Hoey and Paul Rizzo, New York flyers. One of the pilots narrowly escaped crashing on the Lindbergh house when flying low over the grounds. In attempting later to land in Pete Voorhis' cornfield airport Rizzo's plane got out of control, but he succeeded in averting a crash.

The flyers were searching the hills on the theory that the kidnapers would keep confederates stationed somewhere in the woods and that a rendezvous might be arranged by dropping information that protection would be given the kidnapers if the baby was returned.

Colonel and Wife Improving.

Col. Lindbergh was said to be recovering from his cold and was seen walking outside the house this afternoon before the police line was again extended almost to the village.

Mrs. Lindbergh remained inside most of the day. Friends of the family said she was in better physical condition than yesterday.

With the interest centering about Johnson and Betty Gow, the rumor factories in and about Hopewell operated on half shift this afternoon.

There was, however, one well circulated story that Mrs. Lindbergh was on the second floor at approximately the time police say the kidnaping took place. The report, coming, as most of the reports here do, from a second hand source, placed Mrs. Lindbergh in the bathroom several rooms removed from the nursery.

Betty Gow, it now develops, was in Englewood at the home of Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, the baby's grandmother, until some time during the afternoon of the day of the kidnaping. The Lindberghs sent for her when they decided to remain in their Hopewell home for a few days on account of the baby's cold.

Delay in Discovering Kidnaping.

It also was revealed today that when Miss Gow first discovered that the baby was missing from its crib, that she was not alarmed. She assumed that Mrs. Lindbergh, who was preparing to bathe, or the colonel had the child. She first informed Mrs. Lindbergh that the baby was not in its crib. Even then there was no suspicion of what had occurred. The mother also assumed that the child had been picked up by his father.

It was when Miss Gow went to the first floor and saw Col. Lindbergh occupied at his desk that a realization of the situation came to her. It was then she cried out that the baby had been kidnaped.

Stop Press Questioning.

The press lost the slim contact that it had with the authorities here for a time today, and tonight the break does not appear to have been definitely patched. Col. Schwarzkopf ordered the question and answer interviews over the police teletype discontinued and said he would confine his information to two or more bulletins a day.

Police authorities blamed the break on newspaper men who were "attempting to dictate to the authorities conducting the search." The morning's list of questions awakened the ire of Col. Schwarzkopf and he said the police would "give out only such facts concerning their activities as they wanted to."

One of the questions that angered the police head concerned the use of bloodhounds in the hunt. Col. Schwarzkopf was asked why bloodhounds had not been obtained the night of the kidnaping and set on the scent of the kidnapers. It was pointed out that bloodhounds were available on Staten Island and that the dogs could have been brought across the new Tottenville bridge and into Hopewell in an hour's time.

Mystery Baby on U. S. Ship May Be Much Sought Child

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Copyright: 1932: By The Chicago Tribune.]

PARIS, March 11.—The possibility that the kidnaped son of Charles A. Lindbergh may at this moment be aboard the liner President Roosevelt, due to dock at Hamburg tomorrow, is being studied by officials following the report of a mysterious child as passenger by the ship's officers at Cherbourg this morning.

CAPT. GEORGE FRIED.

Agents of the French secret police were informed of the these suspicions when the liner touched at Cherbourg, but owing to the fear of the captain of annoying an innocent passenger no official investigation was undertaken at the French port and verification of the child's identity is being left for Hamburg police.

Here is the story as told by Paris representatives of the United States lines:

The President Roosevelt sailed the day after the kidnaping of the child from its home at Hopewell. When the liner was well out at sea a check-up of passengers showed that there was a small child aboard accompanied by a Dane who claims to be its father.

This man, who has a Danish passport with a return visa for the United States, had listed the baby as nine months old, but the ship's doctor reported to Capt. George Fried that the child is at least 18 months old. Questioned by the skipper, the Dane seemed confused in his answers about the child as well as in explanations that its mother is following from America on another ship. Many of his statements were contradictory, it is alleged.

When the ship arrived at Cherbourg it was met by Edward C. Gabrio of the American Legion and United States lines officials. Pictures were made of the child by the ship's photographers and were turned over to the Paris bureau of THE TRIBUNE. There is little resemblance to earlier pictures of the Lindbergh baby, but the latest ones which have just arrived from the United States show a very close resemblance in certain poses. The eyes, mouth, and ears seem identical in two of the photographs.

While Col. Lindbergh's son has conspicuously curly locks, the mystery child of the Roosevelt is shown with fairly straight blond hair. Photographic experts here declare that cutting and certain chemicals and even the action of the salt air might do away with the appearance of curliness.

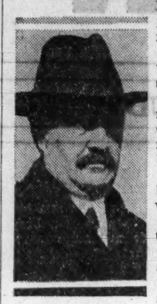
After comparing the pictures in Paris yesterday afternoon, Carlton Winchester, European director of the United States lines, decided to radio Capt. Fried confirming the likeness in photographs.

PAY RANSOM IN FOREIGN COUNTRY UNCLE SUGGESTS

Keep Police in Dark, Plan of Relatives.

New York, March 11.—[Special.]—Relatives of Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh have a plan of their own for paying ransom and getting the baby back safely, it was revealed this afternoon by Brig. Gen. Jay. J. Morrow, Mrs. Lindbergh's uncle.



BRIG. GEN. MORROW. [Paul Thompson.]

He doesn't know, however, whether the Lindberghs have actually adopted the plan, but other sources indicated that the flyer is giving it a fair trial.

Gen. Morrow, who lives in Englewood not far from the home of his late brother, Dwight W. Morrow, explained the plan this afternoon as follows:

The first step is for Col. Lindbergh to get in touch with a lawyer with underworld contacts, who might be able to reach the kidnapers or their representatives.

The lawyers would be authorized to promise payment of the ransom and safety for the kidnapers.

Pay in Foreign Country.

Then the kidnapers would leave the baby with some family in no way connected with the case and notify the lawyers where the child may be found. As soon as he is in Col. Lindbergh's hands the colonel will send the ransom in cash or bank drafts to some designated foreign country.

Col. Lindbergh would refuse to give any information about the transaction to the police, unless he were taken into court and forced to do so. By the time legal processes had worked around to this point, even supposing the police were inclined to force him to divulge his information, the kidnapers would have plenty of opportunity to reach the designated country, obtain the money, and disappear.

Interest was stirred by the discovery of a sequence of public notices appearing in a New York newspaper Tuesday, Wednesday, and today, but there was nothing whatever to support the guess that the advertisements had any connection with the kidnaping. An official of the newspaper said the paper din not know who inserted the notices.

The notice Tuesday and Wednesday read:

"Letter received at new address will follow your instructions. I also received letter mailed to me March 4 and was ready since then. Please hurry on account of mother. Address me to the address you mention in your letter." [Signed] FATHER.

SPITALE AND BITZ, AIDS OF LINDBERGH, FACE LIQUOR TRIAL

New York, March 11.—[Special.]—Salvatore Spitale and Irving Bitz, the two reputed underworld characters designated by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh to negotiate with the kidnapers of his baby, were positively identified today as two of sixteen men on trial in the federal court in Brooklyn on charges of conspiracy to violate the prohibition law.

SALVI SPITALE.

The identification was made for reporters by Abraham Kesselman, attorney for the two men. Spitale was indicted under the name of James Martin of 240 East 13th street, Manhattan, and Bitz, his right hand man, was indicted under the name of Morris Grossman of 24½ 2d avenue, Manhattan.

Although Spitale and Bitz refused to talk with reporters, Kesselman, their lawyer, announced that the two men had definite information on the Lindbergh kidnaping case which would take them to Detroit as soon as the trial is over. He said that Spitale had been in direct communication with Col. Lindbergh and that he had men at work on the kidnaping case in various sections of the country, particularly in the middle west.

Spitale and his fellow defendant were indicted on the conspiracy charges in connection with the seizure of 190 cases of liquor on board the schooner Colonial at the foot of Deveon street, at Gerrittsen beach, July 26 last, by federal prohibition agents and the police. There was a gun battle between the alleged rum runners and the raiders and one of the men later indicted was wounded.

used recently by Al Capone. He said perhaps he could find a rich uncle to take his place in prison while he was trying to run down the kidnapers and wipe out his debt to society.

A. B. Fall Is a Candidate.

Santa Fe, N. M., March 11.—[Special.]—Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, who is serving a federal prison sentence for accepting a bribe in the oil lease scandal, is fitted, by reason of his experience in handling undercover financial operations, to negotiate the Lindbergh ransom deal, according to his friends. It is suggested that, if he were freed to assist in the kidnaping case, Coal Oil Johnny might take his place in prison here.

"Me, Too," Begs Fred Palm.

Jackson, Mich., March 11.—[Special.]—Fred Palm, "life-for-a-pint" prohibition prisoner, would like to leave his cell here to aid Al Capone in the latter's search for the Lindbergh baby stealers, prison attachés said today. Palm, it is reported, has wired Sidney Smith, asking Smith to send Andy Gump to take his place behind the bars until he returns from the search.

"I realize I cannot qualify as a hardened criminal like some of the other volunteers, having merely sold liquor," said Palm, "but my experience with courts and in prison has taught me lots about human nature."

Stephenson Would Rally K. K. K.

Michigan City, Ind., March 11.—[Special.]—D. C. Stephenson, former grand dragon of the Ku Klux Klan in Indiana, will rally the forces of the invisible empire to the search for the Lindbergh baby if the state of Indiana will let him out of prison, a convict associate is reported to have said today. Stephenson, former political czar of the state, is serving a life term for the murder of an Indianapolis girl in 1925.

Tom Mooney Is Ready.

San Quentin, Cal., March 11.—[Special.]—Tom Mooney, in prison here for the 1916 Preparedness day bombing in San Francisco, is seeking to persuade Arthur Garfield Hayes or some other member of the International Labor Defense committee to take his place behind the bars here while he joins the search for the Lindbergh baby, it was reported today. He got the idea from Al Capone's plea that he be allowed to leave jail to look for the baby, it was said.

G. Washington Brown Interested.

Tavares, Fla., March 11.—[Special.]—George Washington Brown, colored, heard today that they were going to let Al Capone out of jail to look for the Lindbergh baby, and asked Sheriff B. A. Cassidy if he couldn't get out for that purpose, too. George, who serving 10 days for stealing a ham, offered to have his mammy take his place until he returns.

Boy Emperor to Rescue.

MUKDEN, Manchuria, March 12. [Saturday].—Henry Pu-Yi, the boy emperor of Manchuria, made it known today that he would be willing to join the search for the Lindbergh baby if the Japanese would let him out of his palace. He suggested that Mme. Butterfly might serve as his hostage while he was in America.

VOICES, OMEN OF DEPARTED VOTES, HAUNT CONGRESS

Political Clairvoyance Is Lawmakers' Need.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 11.—[Special.]—Old timers are unable to recall when there were so many worried senators and representatives on Capitol hill as there are these days.

The anxiety has been caused by the tenor of what the lawmakers are hearing from the folks back home who send them to Washington. There has been an avalanche of letters and telegrams from constituents protesting against the proposed sales tax.

There has been a steadily rising tide of appeals for an immediate beer and light wine modification of the Volstead act, and eventual repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

There is a demand, growing daily more insistent, for radical curtailment of the activities and expenditures of the four billion dollar a year federal government.

At the same time the legislators are being bombarded with pleas for immediate cash redemption of the war veterans' adjusted service certificates.

Worried About Elections.

How to vote on these measures so as to insure renomination and reelection is what is worrying the members of both houses. The mind of the electorate seems to be in a state of flux, political conditions at home are chaotic, and the bewildered legislator knows not which way to jump for safety.

Many [politically] dry senators and representatives are confessing these days as they peruse the Literary Digest poll, which is four to one wet, and the letters from constituents overwhelmingly wet in number, that they are not certain their constituencies are still dry. Not a few of these anxious ones are from the [politically] dry south. And these perturbed congressmen must make up their minds whether to jump to the wet side before they vote next Monday in the house on the bill for modification of the 18th amendment.

There May Be a Connection.

Those who are attempting to gauge home sentiment are wondering if there is a significant connection between the extraordinary reaction against prohibition, the demand for abolition of government bureaus and reduction of expenditures, and the opposition to the sales tax. If there is, it is reasoned, it would indicate a popular demand for the repeal not only of prohibition, but of other laws under which the federal government has invaded the province of state government and a return of the pre-Volstead scheme of government financing in which a large percentage of federal revenue was derived from excise taxes on liquor.

The enormous cost of prohibition to the taxpayers not only in appropriations for such enforcement as obtains, but in the loss of billions of dollars of liquor tax revenue, is looking larger and larger as a factor in the consideration of ways and means of wiping out the huge treasury deficit. It is figuring in the consideration by the house of the pending billion dollar tax increase bill as a result of the amendment moved by the minority of the ways and means committee to legalize 2.75 per cent beer and impose a tax thereon of $5 a barrel, estimated to yield 350 millions of dollars.

Would Obviate Sales Tax.

Proponents of this amendment contend that the imposition of this tax and taxes on luxuries would obviate the necessity of a sales tax designed to yield 600 millions.

According to the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, prohibition enforcement is now costing the federal taxpayers not less than 47 millions a year, while the prohibition amendment is depriving the government of more than one billion dollars of liquor tax revenue.

The association makes the following estimate of the direct cost of prohibition enforcement in 1931:

Prohibition bureau [actual]	$ 9,624,757
Industrial alcohol division [actual]	4,461,350
Coast guard [official estimate]	16,807,100
Customs service [estimated]	5,000,000
Department of justice—exclusive of prohibition bureau [estimated]	15,000,000
Total	$50,893,207

Lost Tax Biggest Item.

"The total cost of prohibition enforcement from 1920 to 1931," says the association, "may safely be estimated at 370 million dollars. If we deduct fines and penalties collected during this period, approximately $60,000,000, the net cost of prohibition enforcement for the first twelve years has been $310,000,000."

Applying 1919 excise tax rates to liquor consumption in the 15 wet states of 1920 on the basis of the per capita consumption rate of 1910 to 1914 the association arrived at the estimate that prohibition has deprived the treasury of 11 billions of dollars from 1920 to 1931, inclusive.

"By the end of 1931," says the association, "annual liquor tax collections since 1920, if national prohibition had not intervened, would have totaled practically eleven billion dollars. This money might have been used [if all other sources of revenue had been availed of] to reduce our 1931 indebtedness from $16,801,000,000 to $5,801,000,000.

"If we continue our estimate of liquor revenue through 1933, a total of $13,035,000,000 would by that time have been available. By the end of 1933 we should have a balanced budget and a public debt of $7,306,000,000 instead of $20,341,000,000."

ILLINOIS SOLONS URGED TO FAVOR DRY REPEAL BILL

Letters urging Illinois congressmen to vote for the Beck-Linthicum bill for revision of the eighteenth amendment were sent out yesterday by the Crusaders, an organization opposed to prohibition, and the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment.

The Crusaders' letter, signed by J. Russell Forgan, commander of the west central division, asserted that members of the organization could not see how congressmen could refuse to allow the people to vote on the prohibition issue.

Similar sentiments were expressed by the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment in its letter, which was signed by Ira L. Reeves, manager of the Illinois division.

HOUSE HOWLS ITS TAX PROTESTS AS SENATORS SHRUG

Proposed Excise Levy Is Storm Center.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 11.—[Special.]—Over on the house side of the capitol today representatives shouted themselves hoarse protesting against the new tax bill, with its proposal to raise 600 million dollars through an excise tax on manufactured products.

Over on the senate side, meanwhile, senators suavely declined to join attempts to cut government expenditures. A move to advance the long stalled attempt to consolidate executive bureaus was defeated. But the $135,500,000 road bill, which Secretary of Agriculture Hyde called "a pork barrel" measure when it passed the house recently, was put forward as a proper relief measure.

Sales Tax Storm Center.

The manufacturers' sales tax was the storm center of this official drama of cause and effect.

Supporters and enemies battled it out in an all day debate on the house floor.

There were those who insisted, with the members of the ways and means committee, which drew the tax bill, and with the officials of the treasury, that the budget must be balanced by the close of the fiscal year 1933, and who argued that a sales tax was the only possible source of sufficient revenue.

Another group agreed as to balancing the budget, but balked at levying a sales tax.

A third group maintained that balancing the budget could well be put off until 1934 or later, and they too, of course, opposed the sales tax.

Brand Wants Economy.

Representative Charles Brand [Rep., O.] called vigorously for economy. Cuts so far made in appropriations, he said, were not even a decent beginning; the total decrease in government costs allowed for by the ways and means committee would be virtually wiped out by the road bill now pending in the senate. But he was against the sales tax and proposed the following as a substitute:

To cut all federal salaries 25 per cent for two years, thereby saving 300 million dollars annually; to cut all federal pensions 25 per cent for two years, saving 100 million dollars; to slash 200 million dollars from the road building program, on which 235 millions is being spent this year, and from the public buildings program which will cost some 75 millions this year.

La Guardia Has Plan.

Representative F. H. La Guardia [Rep., N. Y.] called the sales tax "odious" and a threat to the poor. He offered the following substitute tax program:

Stamp tax on checks and drafts [1 cent under $100; 2 cents above]	$ 95,000,000
Safety deposit boxes and vaults [10 per cent of annual rental]	5,000,000
Stamp tax on contracts, covenants, conveyances, deeds, mortgages and agreements in writing [5 cents on each document]	10,000,000
Stamp tax on receipts, acquittances, or any evidence of payment of money [1 cent under $100; 2 cents above]	25,000,000
Stock transfer and sales [increase of present rates from 2 cents to 4 cents and application of tax of 6 cents to loans of stock]	40,000,000
Bond transfer tax [10 cents per $100 face value, same on original issue]	10,000,000
Radios and phonographs [5 per cent retail]	30,000,000
Radio advertising [5 per cent gross receipts]	5,000,000
Cosmetics and perfumes [5 per cent retail]	15,000,000
Registration of corporation capital stock issues	50,000,000
Automobile trucks and accessories [2½ per cent, 1½ per cent, 2 per cent]	68,500,000
Works of art and jewelry, including precious stones, semi-precious stones, etc. [5 per cent retail]	20,000,000
Income—increase over committee bill, raising rates on incomes over $100,000, and increasing maximum surtax from 40 per cent to 40 per cent on incomes over $1,000,000	10,000,000
Total	$518,500,000

The fight over the sales tax is to be a clear test of the Democratic leadership under Speaker Garner. Acting Chairman Crisp [Dem., Ga.] of the ways and means committee and Minority Leader Snell [Rep., N. Y.] began polling the house membership today. They claimed the results so far show that the tax bill will pass with the sales tax in it, but by no great margin.

Meanwhile in the senate Senator Vandenberg [Rep., Mich.] introduced an amendment to the interior department appropriations bill conferring on the President the power to consolidate and eliminate bureaus in our national government.

Radicals Vote "Nay."

The amendment was lost by a vote of 32 to 34, with Senator Harrison [Dem., Miss.] switching his "yea" to a "nay" at the last moment. All but one, Senator Keyes [N. H.], of the eight Republicans voting against the amendment were radicals. They were Senators Blaine, Borah, Brookhart, Frazier, LaFollette, Nye and Schall.

Democratic opposition, led by Senator Robinson of Arkansas, centered around the theory that the amendment, legislative in character, had no place in an appropriations bill. But Senator Vandenberg declared that this was the only way to achieve the economy that the senators had been talking about.

"The performance in this senate, in the last two weeks," Senator Vandenberg maintained, "shows it is absolutely impossible to achieve economy on the floor of the senate."

Arguing that "this entrenched bureaucracy" can never be effectively fought by congressional action, he also pointed out that his amendment furnished congress with a check on the presidential scissors, in that congress had sixty days, after any slash, in which to prepare a concurrent resolution condemning the slash.

Earlier in the day the emergency road construction bill was reported in the senate by Senator Oddie [Rep., Nev.], who will defend it in the coming consideration.

At the end of the day Senator McKellar [Dem., Tenn.] suggested a flat 10 per cent cut in every item in the interior department appropriations bill, but the senate was apathetic. Senator Lewis [Dem., Ill.] charged his colleagues that the "time has come to halt these pretenses of economy" and directed a few darts at President Hoover who, he claimed, "will never get rid of one single bureau, or even of any employés, so long as they are needed for the coming presidential campaign."

Legion Rifle Posse Captures 3 Outlaws in Thrilling Chase

Twenty-two residents of Cary, all members of the American Legion and of a rifle team, have been formed into a vigilante organization by Sheriff Lester Eddinger of McHenry county. Early yesterday they had their first tryout in a campaign against burglars, capturing three after one had been wounded.

LESTER EDDINGER.

The prowlers had entered the summer cottage of Thomas Gary in Root Springs, a village south of Fox River Grove. The possemen, already assembled in Cary, were informed of their presence. A part of the detail blocked the only road leading from the cottage and the others approached the house.

They arrived just as the thieves, in an automobile loaded with property from the house, were preparing to drive away. The veteran riflemen opened fire as they fled. Escape by the road being impossible, the burglars turned their car into a field adjoining the estate of John Hertz, former head of the Yellow Cab company.

Promptly the vigilantes followed in their cars. Over the frozen ground the cars bumped, the pursuers firing steadily on the outlaws' car and riddling it with bullets.

The fugitives finally abandoned their car. One of the three, Henry Ulovec, 25 years old, had been shot in the back and was unable to flee on foot. The second member of the band, Frank Petrik, 24 years old, was surrounded in a fence corner a little later by a dozen of the vigilantes and was forced to surrender.

Louis Ulovec, 46 years old, father of Henry, was the third burglar. He eluded the posse at the time, but was caught later in Fox River Grove.

In the jail at Woodstock the three confessed yesterday that they had ransacked a number of cottages in the Fox valley recently. They added that they disposed of their loot in Chicago. The Ulovecs and Petrik are said to live in Chicago.

Sheriff Eddinger said that he held his new posse ready for action Thursday night when he learned that part of the furnishings of the Gary cottage had been carried away on Tuesday and Wednesday nights. His guess that the burglars would return for a final cleanup Thursday night was correct. Among the citizen volunteers who helped in the chase and capture were Howard Stewart of the Cary Legionnaires, and W. M. Brayton of Spring Root.

JAPS RUSH MORE TROOPS; PEACE MANEUVERS FAIL

Rainy Season Begins; War Front Flooded.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, March 12 (Saturday).—Japanese military headquarters today announced that Chinese and Japanese forces had clashed west of Kating. Fighting lasted more than an hour. The Chinese are reported to have been repulsed and to have left a number of dead and wounded on the field. About three thousand Japanese troops landed from transports at Woosung this morning.

BY JOHN POWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, March 11.—With the beginning of the spring rains today and the collapse of peace negotiations, the Chinese-Japanese war situation reached a deadlock. While the Japanese continued to pour thousands of troops toward the front, not a shot was fired. A torrential downpour created great lakes in the war zone and the trenches and dugouts were literally flooded.

Meanwhile, many prominent Japanese officials and civilians are arriving at Shanghai. Admiral Baron Kiyokazu, former minster of the navy, spent the day visiting battle fields near the city.

Yosuke Matsuoka, member of the Japanese diet and former vice manager of the South Manchuria railway, is also here unofficially assisting in the promotion of Sino-Japanese peace negotiations.

Emperor Sends Envoys.

It was reported that the Japanese emperor had sent two special messengers here to "convey gracious messages of appreciation for the services of the imperial army and navy in driving the Chinese troops away from Shanghai." The messengers are Rear Admiral Manbei Idemitsu, and Lieut. Col. Ryoki Machijuri. Both are said to have brought gifts from the emperor to the wounded soldiers.

A large commission representing the Japanese Industrial club, the Economic league, a business men's association, and the Tokio chamber of commerce, arrived with $75,000 collected from various Japanese cities to purchase comforts for Japanese sailors and soldiers and for Japanese residents who have suffered as a result of the war.

The Japanese foreign office yesterday sent fifty special consular police, recruited through a special examination, to reinforce the regular police attached to the Japanese consulate here.

China Spurns Conference.

Quo Tai-chi, Chinese vice minister of foreign affairs, tonight clarified China's position by declaring that she will not enter into negotiations with Japanese delegates here unless Japan agrees to a complete withdrawal of all Japanese troops to within the international settlement. The withdrawal is to be made unconditionally, so that the situation will be similar to that existing before the outbreak of hostilities on Jan. 28.

The Japanese took exception to three words in China's statement, namely, the demand that there be "no conditions attached" to the Japanese withdrawal.

The Japanese also took exception to the use of the word "complete" withdrawal which appeared in the Chinese note. They insisted that none of these terms appeared in the original league of nations resolution.

Asks Tokio for Instructions.

Mamoru Shigemitsu, Japanese minister, tonight cabled Tokio for further instructions, while T. V. Soong, Chinese finance minister, flew to Nanking with other Chinese government officials for a conference.

Although the Japanese are continuing to mass reinforcements at the front lines and are bringing in transports loaded with new contingents from Japan, neutral military observers do not believe immediate serious fighting is likely because of the expected arrival of the league of nations commission of inquiry, which is due here on March 14. The commission sailed from Japan today.

Since the Chinese withdrew all locomotives from Shanghai when the 19th army retreated, the Japanese tried to surmount that handicap today by impressing several groups of Chinese coolies of 150 each to pull freight cars containing Japanese munitions from Shanghai to Nanziang, a distance of twelve miles.

The Chinese general chamber of commerce, representing leading commercial and financial interests, sent a strong appeal to Nanking yesterday urging Gen. Chiang Kai-shek, recently named commander in chief of China's armies, to assume personal command of the troops at the front and to speed up the concentration of reinforcements in order to block Japanese plans to occupy Kunshan, Soochow, Wusi, Chang-chow and other important cities along the Shanghai-Nanking railway.

The Federation of Labor unions at Shanghai, representing 800,000 workers, also telegraphed the government, urging the dispatch of reinforcements. The unions also demanded that an army be sent to Manchuria to recover that area.

Foreign consulates here today received confidential reports from their embassies at Tokio stating that the Japanese cabinet is considering the dispatch of six more divisions to China, four destined for Shanghai and two for northern China, supposedly to reinforce the division now at Tientsin and Shanhaikwan.

General Arrested by Chinese.

Chinese authorities today arrested Gen. Ken Wang, West Point man, who was recently detained by Japanese authorities, but was released upon representations of Edwin S. Cunningham, American consul general. Gen. Wang entered the settlement to call on the American military attaché, Capt. William Mayer, but made a mistake and walked into the Japanese consulate, not knowing that the American consulate near there had been moved.

It is understood that Gen. Wang carried valuable war maps which he intended to present to Capt. Mayer. The Japanese are said to have seized the maps.

Japan Makes New Conditions.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

TOKIO, March 11.—Fresh instructions were sent today to Baron Shigemitsu, Japanese minister to China, intended to carry the Shanghai negotiations over the obstacle of China's demand for immediate and unconditional withdrawal of her troops. Japan agrees to immediate withdrawal and accepts China's demand that no political conditions be attached, but as a military condition proposes that neutral observers be appointed to see that the Japanese retirement is not followed by a Chinese advance.

This means that the Chinese must stay outside of the zone the Japanese now are holding. The Japanese propose that this zone be maintained until the subsequent round table conference, where they will propose a permanently demilitarized zone as the only satisfactory barrier between the city and the Chinese war lords.

ITALY DICKERS FOR BIG SALE OF ARMS TO CHINA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, March 11.—Italian manufacturers of arms and munitions are negotiating with agents of the Chinese government for several big contracts to supply the Chinese army.

The Chinese agents, who, however, are not themselves Chinese, have clinched the deal with the munitions manufacturers and are now negotiating with banking interests for financial support. The Bank of Italy, according to one Chinese agent, has agreed to finance the deal to the extent of 50 per cent, on condition that American or other banks take up the other fifty per cent.

These banking arrangements are being demanded by the manufacturers as security for Chinese payments.

LEAGUE ADOPTS PEACE PROGRAM; JAPS HOLD ALOOF

Rules Self Competent to Deal with Manchuria.

BY JAY ALLEN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, March 11.—Japan today strongly applauded the league of nations' insistence on scrupulous respect of treaties. Her representative, Naotake Sato, said on the floor of the general commission of the assembly that particularly in the far east is such respect essential.

However, said Sato, Japan had found herself in the unfortunate position of being unable to vote for the assembly's resolution on the trouble out there. But Japan did not vote against the resolution, so the assembly considered its adoption unanimous and elected six nations, which, combined with the council members, will compose an interim assembly commission charged with trying to save the situation. China, for a reason which was not stated, also did not vote.

Manchuria Bobs Up Again.

The resolution, briefly, contains the following points:

1. Condemnation of military aggression by declaring that agreements reached through military pressure will not be recognized. This is similar to the notice recently served on Japan by Secretary of State Stimson that the United States cannot recognize agreements forced on China by military pressure.

2. Acceptance of China's thesis that the assembly is compentent to deal with the entire far eastern question. This is in direct opposition to Japan's thesis, which is that the Manchurian and Shanghai affairs are entirely separate and that the assembly cannot deal with Manchuria because that affair is being looked after by the commission headed by Lord Lytton.

3. Evacuation of Japanese forces in the Shanghai area through machinery of the assembly.

Little Nations Get Places.

On the assembly's commission will sit four of the countries—Sweden, Switzerland, Colombia, and Czecho-Slovakia—that insisted most on strict observance of the league's covenant. The noisiest of the lot, South Africa, would have been elected but Great Britain opposed this and had Portugal elected instead, preferring an agreeable ally to an unruly dominion.

The commission will begin about where the assembly began. It will sit under the presidency of Paul Hymans, Belgian foreign minister. Hymans said he would convoke the commission early next week.

Sato, in his speech, said the assembly's resolution is fine, that Japan agrees with the principles set forth and intends to be guided by them, but cannot vote for it.

"As a member of the league and a signatory to the pact of Paris," he said, "Japan is convinced that it has faithfully observed the provisions of these essential instruments of international order and is determined to act on all occasions in accordance with their principles."

Says Japan Is Defending Self.

Moreover, Japan regrets the allegation that it is encroaching on the political independence, territory and integrity of China or exerting military pressure in the pursuit of any aims. For the Japanese government, he declared, has no territorial designs on China. If, "acting under the compelling power of events," it took military measures it was in self-defense, he said.

He congratulated the assembly for putting the necessity for scrupulous respect for treaties at the very beginning of the resolution.

"This is the principle which the Japanese government regards as of the highest importance," he said.

He added that China has been systematically attacking the legitimate rights of other countries and denouncing their solemn undertakings. Then he drew attention to the Chinese boycott of Japanese goods which, he said, "is a menace to peace."

BEG YOUR PARDON!

The $1,000 reward offered by the Illinois Bankers' association for the capture and conviction of bank robbers applies only to men robbing banks which have contributed to the reward fund, M. A. Graettinger, executive vice president of the association, said yesterday, and not to any bank robbers caught in the state, as was stated yesterday in THE TRIBUNE.

CHINESE TROOPS REVOLT; BULLETS PERIL SOVIET CITY

Manchurian Uprising Fatal to Several.

MOSCOW, March 11.—(AP)—A Tass [Russian news agency] dispatch from Blagovestchensk today said the Chinese garrison at Sakhalin-ula, across the Amur river, had revolted yesterday when the flag of the New Manchurian state was hoisted.

The rebels killed a number of persons, including two Japanese residents, the dispatch added, and the bullets of their bombardment fell in Blagovestchensk.

The report did not say whether there was any damage in the Russian city, but this was the first occasion a soviet frontier settlement had been directly involved in the Manchurian conflict. It was considered likely that the Kremlin would voice a strong protest or take active measures to prevent a recurrence.

Russia Strengthens Force.

The soviet government recently announced that it had strengthened its Red army in the Far East for the expressed purpose of repelling any attack on its territory, and, through newspapers, charged that Japan had been urged to declare war.

The dispatch said the Japanese consul at Sakhalin-ula, the manager of English customs, a Mr. Crossman, the manager of the Chinese bank, the soviet consul, and their families were among the persons forced to flee to Blagovestchensk for refuge.

The rebels were said to have captured Ze-ui, commander of the New Manchurian army, and killed about ten of his officers.

A soviet trading organization, a store operated by a soviet citizen, and four Chinese banks were among the buildings looted by the revolting Chinese troops.

Charge Japanese Kidnaped Pu-yi.

NANKING, China, March 12.—[Saturday.]—(AP)—Charges that Henry Pu yi, recently installed as head of the new Manchurian state, was kidnaped by the Japanese from his home at Tientsin, were made by the Chinese government in correspondence made public today.

This correspondence, eminating from the Chinise foreign office, holds Japan responsible for the Manchurian independence movement and denies the Japanese claim that the movement is supported by Chinese residents in Manchuria.

Pu-yi, one time "boy emperor" of China, was inaugurated as "chingchen" of Manchuria this week. The title is variously translated as president, dictator, and chief executive. His inauguration was attended by Japanese officials, including Gen. Honjo, commander in chief of the army in Manchuria. The government in Tokio asserted that these officials attended as individuals and did not in any way represent the Japanese government.

Ask Japan for Loan.

TOKIO, March 11.—(AP)—A dispatch to the newspaper Asahi from Mukden, Manchuria, said one of the first acts of the new Manchurian cabinet was the decision to ask Japan for a loan of approximately $5,300,000. The loan was expected to cover the first few months' expenses of the new state until a financial organization was set up.

The socially smart will henceforth watch the colors of their envelopes, for beginning this year pastel shades will be favored in envelopes as a general movement to put color into the mail. Col. George D. Gaw, official city greeter, and envelope manufacturer, discussed the movement yesterday at a meeting of the National Envelope Manufacturers' association at the Blackstone hotel. Col. Gaw gave a few color suggestions; brown for autumn, green for spring, and blue for a letter of regrets. A collection letter should be red, he said.

CITY OFFICIALS PAY NEW TRIBUTE TO PADEREWSKI

Resolution Presented to Pianist by Mayor.

Ignace Paderewski was accorded a new honor yesterday in an impressive ceremony in the city council chambers. More than 200 public officials, Polish-American friends and clergymen, and admirers of the silver haired pianist and statesmen were present.

A roll of parchment was placed in the small white hands of the 71 year old musician. This parchment was presented by Mayor Cermak and signed by himself and council members. It expressed in resolution form their admiration for Paderewski's genius, his service as Poland's political savior, and his "spirit of self sacrifice" in alleviating human suffering.

Crowd Cheers Pianist.

The crowds had gathered in the council chambers long before Paderewski made his appearance accompanied by the mayor and M. S. Szymczak, city controller. Greeter George Gaw and Ald. John S. Clark. The musician's arrival brought the assembly to its feet amid a burst of prolonged applause.

During the reading of the resolution by John A. Richert, chief of the council finance committee staff, Paderewski stood immobile, a stately figure in his black frock coat. When the applause of the tribute died away, he bowed his appreciation, and later, after Mayor Cermak's formal presentation of the parchment, he made a speech of acceptance.

"I find it difficult to address you at this moment," the musician said with emotion. "The honor is the highest you could have conferred upon a human being.

"I have nothing to offer in return. Not even my heart, because Chicago has it already, and long ago."

The Officials' Tribute.

The officials' resolution declared in part:

"Blessed by God with unusual qualities of character and spirit, Paderewski is also the greatest and most admired musical genius, and his creations and productions have secured for him world fame and immortal glory. But more than through his activity in this field he has distinguished himself as the greatest patriot in the successful work of rebuilding of Poland, the land of his origin, now free and independent.

Paderewski will appear in recital on Sunday afternoon at the Chicago Civic Opera house.

Previous to the operation her physician, Dr. James Murray Washburn, had described her condition as critical. Mrs. Valentine, a society leader and well known for her charitable work, lives at 209 Lake Shore drive.

"Young People have no monopoly on brilliant sound teeth"

Say many who started to protect their teeth properly years and years ago

Men and women, happy in the possession of sound teeth, will freely admit as a rule that they started to safeguard them years before.

It is known that half the adult teeth lost are due to pyorrhea. It is also known that four people out of five past the age of forty are likely to have this fearful trouble with their gums. Still more important is the fact that pyorrhea may be working five years, ten years, even longer, before it is ever seen or felt. The moral of this is: don't wait for danger signals.

Remember: you can't "fool around" with pyorrhea. You simply must have professional dental advice about twice a year and when you take up seriously the home treatment of your teeth, it will pay to use a toothpaste invented by a dentist. Dr. R. J. Forhan devoted a lifetime to pyorrhea treatment. His professional formula is used by thousands of dentists and his home formula is embodied in Forhan's Toothpaste. It's the finest toothpaste money can buy, with an extra-protection feature in its special formula. Don't let pyorrhea get started. Use prevention. Use Forhan's. Use it twice a day—old and young. It's never too early to start the children on Forhan's, the double-duty toothpaste, at all drug stores.

CONVICTS FREED BY JUDGE'S PLEA ARE BACK IN CELL

Fisher Acts to Return Pair to Penitentiary.

Charges of robbery and assault to rob were reinstated yesterday against Carl Parker and Stanley Wilson, convicted bandits who were freed from the penitentiary by an unusual court proceeding several months ago. Unable to put up bonds of $10,000 the robbers were in the county jail last night. The two were convicted of one of the several robberies which they confessed.

JUDGE FISHER.

Chief Justice Harry Fisher of the Criminal court ordered the reinstatement of charges after hearing the unusual aspects of the case reviewed by Attorney Edward Zimmerman, vice president of the Chicago Crime commission. The state's attorney's office was also requested to draw up a petition to expunge the probation by which Judge Charles A. Williams released the pair after he had sentenced them and after they had been taken to prison.

Business Men Protest.

Attorney Zimmerman, who was accompanied by Col. Henry Barrett Chamberlain, operating director of the crime commission, explained to Judge Fisher that he brought the case to his attention at the request of the bankers' and druggists' associations.

The assault to rob charge arose from an attempted robbery of William Trautvetter in his drug store at 2338 East 71st street. Parker is alleged to have fired six shots at the druggist when he resisted. Trautvetter helped to prosecute the gunmen and opposed their release from the penitentiary. Last Tuesday morning his drug store was bombed.

Parker and Wilson were let out of the penitentiary following a series of letters from Judge Edward D. Shurtleff of Marengo to the state's attorney's office. Judge Williams said that "it was a favor" to Judge Shurtleff when he ruled that his sentence of the pair to the penitentiary for one year to life should be "held for naught." When the release was brought to light, Judge Shurtleff announced that he would "take full responsibility."

Believes Release Is Illegal.

William A. Rittenhouse, acting first assistant state's attorney, told Judge Fisher that the matter of probation had been before Judge Williams, but he believed that the judge had taken the action after he had lost jurisdiction.

FINNISH WOMAN, HOLDER OF REBEL SECRETS, IS SLAIN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HELSINGFORS, Finland, March 11.—Mrs. Minnie Kraucher-Lindell, former treasurer of the Lapua league, was found murdered in her apartment here today by a maid who was hired to clean the rooms twice a week. She was found lying near her desk. The woman had been shot by an unidentified visitor last Tuesday.

Enemies of the Lapua party, whose revolt against the government failed, hint that the shot was fired by one of the Lapua supporters in an effort to hinder the investigation of the uprising by the government. Lapua leaders believe Mrs. Kraucher-Lindell was a provocateur employed by the communist party to help create a civil war in Finland. Police suspected her of being an international spy.

The chief of police today said that the murderer left no clews and that he has been unable to discover whether her records were removed from the apartment. She is believed to have possessed the names of contributors to the secret Lapua war chest. The killing is Finland's first political murder in years.

POLICE PADDLE REDS STORMING RELIEF STATION

Spank Humboldt Pk. Rioters with Own Signs.

About 250 communists, marching under the lead of half a dozen well known agitators to attack the Emergency Relief station in Humboldt park yesterday afternoon, met fifty policemen at California avenue and Division street.

Barred from the park by the policemen, the marchers charged with clubs and milk bottles, which they used as missiles. The policemen, firing their pistols a few times in the air, seized the banners of the Reds, used the staffs as paddles, and spanked the standard bearers and their friends until they broke up in confusion.

Policeman Knocked Down.

One policeman, J. W. Alm, 5735 Bernard street, attached to the West North avenue station, was knocked down in the battle and severely beaten and trampled by the Reds. Also severely injured was Walter Barris, 40 years old, 3730 Olcott avenue, alleged commander of the rioting forces.

Eighteen rioters, five of them women, were arrested and charged with disorderly conduct and inciting to riot. After the crowd had been dispersed a strong guard was left at the park relief station. Seven policemen, including Capt. Patrick Collins of the West North avenue district, were treated for minor hurts.

Capt. Collins learned from Alm and other investigators that the communists had hired two halls, one at Hirsch and California avenue and the other at Rockwell and Division streets, as points of concentration for the raid. He send fifteen men and the west park police sent twenty-five.

Hurries to the Scene.

When Alm telephoned a little later that the Reds were numerous and hostile, Capt. Collins took the remainder of his available force and hurried to the scene. The struggle was just beginning. Shouting to his men not to shoot, he led the swoop on the Red banners and the paddling of the rioters. Alm, on the ground and with his pistol taken from him, was rescued by Sergt. F. J. Nadernik.

The banners carried the slogans: "We Want Milk for Our Babies" and "No More Evictions."

Policemen who suffered cuts and bruises in the fighting were Frank Freemuth of the detective bureau. Thomas McCaffrey, Joseph Feldman, Edward Dooley, Patrick Rush, and Harold Haight.

5,000 HEAR REDS CALL FOR FORD'S TRIAL FOR RIOT AT HIS FACTORY

Detroit, Mich., March 11.—(AP)—Five thousand persons packed the arena gardens tonight for a meeting avowedly sponsored by communists and heard speakers demand "the trial and conviction of Henry Ford for countenancing the murder of our comrades."

Other speakers, none of whom was identified, urged the "immediate ejection" of Frank Murphy as mayor of Detroit and establishment of a soviet government in the United States.

The meeting, in a building on the edge of the business district, was called after Monday's riot in front of the Ford Motor company's plant in Dearborn in which four unemployment marchers were killed.

Most of the 5,000 spectators within the hall and the 1,000 who gathered outside, unable to gain admittance, apparently were curiosity seekers, hundreds of them boys and girls. Girls distributed red and black badges to the crowd. Many inflammatory banners were displayed and communistic publications were distributed.

One hundred plain clothes policemen were on hand and others were held in reserve against trouble which did not develop.

Earlier in the day Roger N. Baldwin, director of the American Civil Liberties union, had announced he intends to try to take Henry Ford into court in connection with damage suits to be based on the riot casualties.

8,578 JOBLESS GIVEN BEDS IN CITY SHELTERS

A total of 8,578 unemployed men were given free beds last night in shelters established on the north, south, and west sides. The same shelters during the day furnished men without other homes 11,798 meals.

The five New Start lodging houses established records as follows: No. 1, 509 North Union avenue, 4,900 meals, 1,925 lodgers; No. 2, 563 West Randolph street, 4,000 meals, 1,300 lodgers; No. 3, 309 South Green street, 430 lodgers; No. 4, 659 Hobbie street, 2,500 meals, 1,150 lodgers, and No. 5, 1426 Newberry avenue, 2,450 meals, 1,225 lodgers.

The Illinois Relief Commission shelter at 116 South Green street served 4,000 meals and gave sleeping quarters to 600. Municipal lodging houses at 162 North Union avenue, 54 West Austin avenue and 9211 Ewing avenue served 4,798 meals and lodged 1,848.

JACOBS MUST DO PERSONALTY TAX OVER AGAIN

Finds 15% of Bills Never Reached Citizens.

Locking his office against crowds of job seekers, Assessor J. L. Jacobs yesterday began the actual work of reorganizing the assessing machinery. He announced that all work done in making the 1931 personal property assessment must be junked and a new assessment made.

Appearing before the county board to ask permission to spend $10,000 of his appropriation for a survey of personal property assessment procedure, the new assessor revealed that out of 196,000 personal property bills mailed to Chicagoans within the last few weeks, 30,000, or more than 15 per cent of the total, had been returned by postoffice authorities marked "not found." The returned bills were for $3,000,000 in taxes.

"This means," said Jacobs, "not that those tax bills will become delinquent, but that they are a dead loss. Furthermore, the cost of making the assessments, reviewing them, extending the taxes, and billing has been of no earthly use."

Board Grants Request.

The county board readily authorized the expenditure of $10,000 for the survey from the $700,000 lump sum appropriation which has been given the new assessor.

Scores of job seekers hung about the corridors leading to the assessor's office yesterday in the hope of seeing Jacobs and asking to be included on his staff when his reorganization is effected. In addition, 200 of the 401 dismissed pay rollers appeared to demand their back pay.

The dismissed employés were met by Harry S. Cutmore, chief assistant assessor, who assured them they would be paid as quickly as the pay rolls can be prepared. Jacobs conferred with the county treasurer, and checks were being made out to pay all dismissed county employés for the last half of November. As soon as the pay rolls can be made up for December, January, February, and the first ten days of March, the remainder due will be paid the dismissed employés, it was announced.

Saving Is Anticipated.

With only 90 employés in the assessor's office instead of the 491 employés under the former board, only routine work was being carried on yesterday and the work of the actual assessment will be halted a few days pending completion of the staff reorganization.

A considerable saving in administrative overhead is anticipated in the reorganization. It is pointed out, for instance, that while Jacobs' salary is $15,000 a year, it is only one-third of the combined salaries of the old board of five assessors, who got $9,000 each.

A special meeting of the county board will be held next Monday to consider the placing in all daily newspapers of an advertisement calling upon taxpayers to pay their 1928, 1929, and 1930 taxes and pointing out that in the event of a court decision showing an overassessment a new law allows rebates to the taxpayer.

3 ASSISTANTS QUIT STAFF OF U. S. PROSECUTOR

United States District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson yesterday announced that he had accepted the resignations of three of his assistants, to become effective April 1. Jacob I. Grossman, who served in the office for seven years and took a major part in the prosecution of Alphonse Capone for income tax evasion, will relinquish his position to become a master in chancery for the federal district court. Victor E. LaRue, an assistant for eight years and an executive assistant for the last three years, is resigning to enter private practice, with offices at 140 South Dearborn street. Henry L. Balaban, an assistant district attorney for three years, will enter private practice at 11 South La Salle street.

NORTHUP, 3 OTHERS WIN APPEAL WRITS IN CONTEMPT CASES

The Appellate court yesterday granted writs of supersedeas to First Assistant State's Attorney John E. Northup, two other prosecutors, and a detective, to permit a review of the contempt charges against them which resulted in jail sentences and fines. They were found guilty by Judge Philip Sullivan on Feb. 26.

JOHN E. NORTHUP.

Besides Northup, the defendants are Assistant State's Attorney Harold Keele and Henry Seyfarth, and James McQueeney, a private detective. The contempt citation grew out of the habeas corpus writ issued for Timothy L. Connolly, former purchasing agent for the sanitary district, which, it was alleged, was evaded by Northup and the others. The prosecution tried to get Connolly to turn state's witness in the recent sanitary district graft trial.

Northup was sentenced to five days in the county jail and fined $500. Keele was fined $200, Seyfarth $100, and McQueeney was given a 30 day jail sentence.

POLICEMAN HELD AFTER HE KILLS FRIEND IN FIGHT

Second Scrape for So. Park Cop.

South Park Policeman Frank Gorman was under arrest last night for the second time in seven months for wounding a civilian during a drunken altercation. Last September he shot a man at a party in the home of a friend and early yesterday, after his reinstatement of three months, he fatally wounded a boyhood chum and shot the colored owner of a barbecue stand, who in turn put a bullet in Gorman's left arm.

On Sept. 10 Gorman wounded Daniel Morris in the right leg. Before the park civil service commission he escaped with a 90 day suspension when he pleaded that Morris had started the argument. He said he met Morris at the home of a friend and Morris seized his revolver and fired three shots at him. Gorman said he wrested the gun from Morris and fired one shot. Although Gorman was said to have been drinking, no charge of intoxication was made against him.

Offers Same Defense.

He offered the same defense to the second shooting in his cell in the Wabash avenue station. He charged Emmett Deckard, colored, owner of a barbecue stand at 5544 Indiana avenue, fired the first shot in an argument which culminated in the death of James Mahoney, 28 years old, 853 East Marquette road, boyhood chum of Gorman and also an employé of the park board.

Gorman said he and Mahoney went on a drinking party after his tour of duty. They went into the barbecue stand to eat at 4:30 a. m. There Deckard quarreled with him and fired upon him, forcing him to draw his gun, he said.

Says Cop Began Fight.

In the Bridewell hospital Deckard insisted Gorman began the quarrel and was the first to fire. He said Gorman drew his gun with the declaration he was going to "clean out the place." Mahoney was shot, Deckard said, when he sought to intervene. In the Bridewell hospital before his death Mahoney refused to incriminate his friend. He and Gorman were raised in County Claire, Ireland.

Gorman was ordered suspended by Capt. Timothy Howard pending a second inquiry by the civil service commission. The captain said he had urged Gorman's discharge before the commission last September.

SCHOOL GRAFT EATS YOUR PAY, TEACHERS TOLD

Union Hears Plain Talk from Rossetter.

George W. Rossetter, president of the Association of Commerce, last night urged 500 members of the men teachers' union to support business men of the city in their drive to put honest men in public office and to force graft out of the school system. The occasion was the celebration of the twentieth anniversary of the union in the Palmer house.

"If we had rotten politics out of the school system and completely divorced from the construction of school buildings you men would not be without pay," Mr. Rossetter said. He was applauded. He cited as evidence that $500,000 of the cost of a $2,100,000 school went for graft.

"I hope you men believe that there are some Chicago business men who are trying to do the right thing, to get honest men into office," said Mr. Rossetter. "We want your united support. If you will get behind us we will cut expenditures to income and establish a budget that allows not one cent for graft."

Dr. Judd Cites Statistics.

Dr. Charles H. Judd, dean of the school of education of the University of Chicago, said in 1920 that 29 per cent of Chicago's school children were 16 and 17 years old, while 57 per cent were of these ages in 1930. From these figures he concluded that it would be unwise to consider returning to the 1923 income as a basis for the new budget.

Dr. Judd also declared no civilized nation had ever had more than 12 per cent of its children of high school age actually in high school except the United States, which has 53 per cent, including the rural districts. These statistics he also construed as pointing to the need for the $90,000,000 budget.

Teacher Assails Critics.

Charles Stillman, former president of the Federation of Teachers' unions and the Chicago men's union, bitterly assailed the critics of the $90,000,000 budget and the school board. In reply to Mr. Rossetter, Stillman said that only about $1,000,000 in the budget is for construction, and added that any reduction in the budget would cripple education.

James A. Meade, president of the union, presided. Victor Olander, secretary of the Illinois Federation of Labor, and T. G. Essington, attorney for the union, also spoke.

EXPLAINS CURB ON POLICE POWER TO ACCEPT BAIL

Powers of the police in accepting bonds of prisoners have been restricted under the new Municipal court bail code. Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby explained the new limitations to 600 police officers, sergeants, and patrolmen at two meetings at the detective bureau yesterday.

Hereafter desk sergeants or district commanders are not to accept any real estate bonds. In the past such bail was acceptable in cases not involving felonies. The only bail acceptable by police will be cash, and even this will be barred in cases of prisoners who have reformatory or penitentiary records.

1930 COOK COUNTY TAX BILL IS $289,944,355, $16,000,000 OVER '29

County Clerk Robert M. Schweitzer announced yesterday that the aggregate Cook county tax bill for 1930, now in process of collection, is $289,944,355. This is more than $16,000,000 over the 1929 bill, which totaled $273,166,605, and of which only 68 per cent has been collected since the bills were sent out, more than a year ago.

Of the 1930 levy, $221,452,080 is on real estate, $55,492,275 is on personal property, and $13,000,000, approximately, on railroads. The assessments on which the tax rates were applied to produce the levy totaled $4,516,000,000 for all real estate, personalty, and railroad property in the county.

The tax collections will be divided among the state and 415 taxing bodies in the county. More than 900 combinations of tax rates were necessary to apply these taxes, because of the overlapping character of the taxing districts.

The tax collections do not cover the entire cost of government in the county. The city, state, and many other taxing bodies have important sources of revenue outside of the general property taxes, including various forms of licenses and fees.

NURSES' SCHOOL INQUIRY IS SET FOR THURSDAY

An investigation of the Cook County School of Nursing was scheduled for next Thursday under the terms of a resolution introduced by Commissioner Charles H. Weber and adopted by the county board yesterday. The resolution declared that the attitude of Miss Laura R. Logan, dean of nurses, had caused friction between the school and the county hospital staff.

Commissioner Weber cited the action of members of the hospital staff in approving a report calling for the resignation of Miss Logan and terming her attitude "autocratic." He declared that the dean and other school officials were advancing the cause of education among the student nurses at the expense of nursing service to the county hospital patients.

Miss Logan, Frank S. Shaw, president of the board of directors of the school, members of the hospital's medical staff, and others interested in the situation will be invited to attend next Thursday's hearing.

HUSBAND SEEKS DIVORCE SO WIFE CAN WED BROTHER

Erich Kurt Leipe, 1721 Jonquil terrace, a German infantry captain in the world war, now an inspector employed by the North Shore railroad, told Superior Judge Joseph Sabath yesterday of his war romance and marriage at Schilehen in East Prussia. In 1926, he said, he came to America, expecting to send for his wife, Ida, later. Three times, he said, he sent her checks which totaled $1,700, but she remained in Germany. Finally a letter from a friend informed him that his wife had fallen in love with his younger brother, Albert, who had been a junior officer in his regiment.

"My brother wishes to marry my wife," Leipe told the judge. "Her happiness is my happiness and so I filed my divorce suit here, charging her with desertion, so they may wed."

Judge Sabath ordered Leipe's attorney, L. A. Mitchell, to prepare the decree.

WOMAN CHASES HIT-RUN AUTO; CAPTURES THREE

Pursues Car After It Strikes Pedestrian.

A woman voice teacher assumed the rôle of a policeman last night when she pursued a hit and run auto in North Clark street after it had critically injured an elderly woman and held the car's three occupants, all brothers, for a police squad.

The heroine of the chase is Dorothea Derrfuss, 838 Windsor avenue. Her prisoners are Ernest Segerstedt, 31 years old, 1055 Grace street, and his brothers, Carl, 40, and Walter, 36. The victim of the accident was Mrs. Emma Gronquist, 68 years old, 3343 Sheffield avenue.

Shortly before midnight, Mrs. Gronquist and her daughter, Magdalene, 25, were crossing in front of 3368 North Clark street. A north bound automobile struck Mrs. Gronquist and continued on. Mrs. Derrfuss saw the accident and started after the car. Meanwhile, police were notified and Policemen Michael Shay and Maurice Byrnes took up the chase. At Newport avenue and Clark street they came across Mrs. Derrfuss holding the car of the Segerstedts to the curb. She identified them as the occupants of the hit and run car. Mrs. Gronquist was taken to the John B. Murphy hospital. Her condition is critical.

Boys on Bicycle Killed.

Two boys in their early teens were killed early last evening when they were thrown beneath the wheels of a heavy coal truck after colliding head on with the machine while riding a bicycle. The accident occurred at Homer and Leavitt streets, only a few doors from the homes of the victims.

The boys were Matthew Kaput, 14 years old, 1902 North Leavitt street, and Joseph Kuzian, 15 years old, 1903 North Leavitt street. Several witnesses told Shakespeare avenue police that the two boys, riding on the same cycle, were south bound in Leavitt street when they approached the truck, which was headed in the opposite direction. Apparently they became confused, for the bicycle swerved to the left side of the street and was demolished against the truck's steel bumper.

The driver, Roman Kledzik, 1807 West Ohio street, was held, although he said that the accident had occurred so quickly that he had no opportunity to apply his brakes.

Girl Killed in Loop.

A girl believed from an employé's card found in her purse to be Dorothy Smith, 18 years old, 6954 Paxton avenue, was fatally injured early this morning when the car in which she was riding crashed into an "L" pillar at Randolph street and Wabash avenue. She was taken to Passavant hospital, where she was pronounced dead. The automobile was driven by Oswald C. Tracy, 2212 East 70th street. His right eye was torn from his head and he was otherwise seriously injured. He was unconscious and unable to establish the identity of his companion.

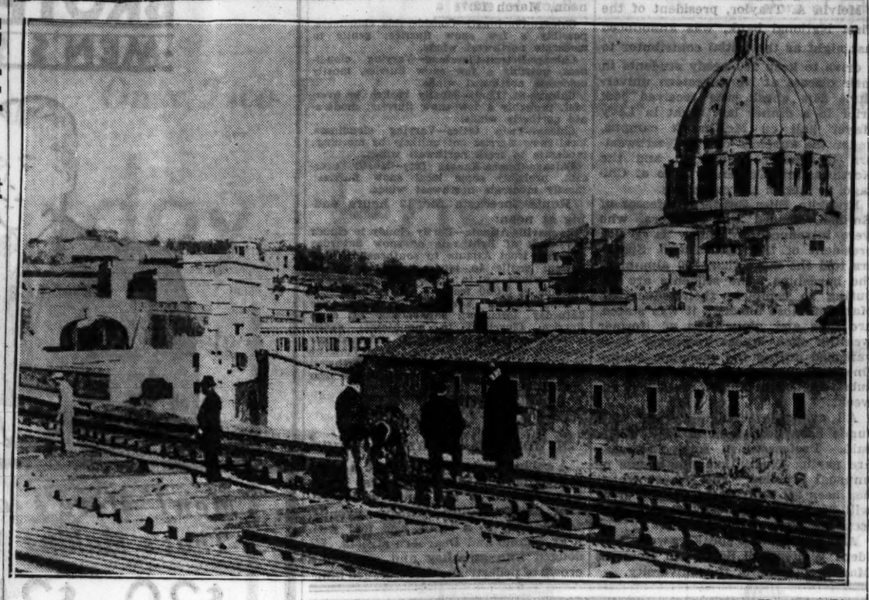
These deaths with two others yesterday increased the 1932 toll to 208. The other casualties:

Angelo Viggiano, 13 years old, 2202 West Erie street, a newsboy. Killed when he was run down by the automobile of a hit and run driver at Leavitt and Ohio streets.

Anthony Klein, 18 years old, 322 West 110th street. Died at the Roseland Community hospital from a skull fracture sustained March 1 when he was struck by the automobile of Clarence Myroup, 126 West 109th place, at Walnut and 112th streets.

Samuel Geffer, 38 years old, 6835 Stony Island avenue, cigar store owner, was recommended held to the grand jury by a coroner's jury yesterday on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the death of Mrs. Minnie Maloney, 29 years old, of 6336 Ellis avenue. She was killed Feb. 21 when her machine was struck by Geffer's at Ellis avenue and 60th street. Geffer's car was abandoned and he claimed that he was in his store at 43d street and Ellis avenue at the time of the accident. He also said his car was stolen.

Pope to Ride Soon on Own Railroad



Laying tracks on 600 foot long railroad which connects St. Peter's station with the Vatican City station. On the left is 300 foot tunnel through the Vatican hill, beyond which can be seen the Vatican railway station. The road is near completion and the pope will take his first ride in a few days.

CAN A WIFE QUIT HER MATE IF SHE LOVES ANOTHER?

"Yes!" Says Judge in British Court.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 11.—Arguments were heard before Judge Sir Henry Alfred McCardie today in "one of the most remarkable cases ever known" to decide whether there is a case to go before the jury. John Place, a grocer's clerk, has sued Dr. Charles Searle ,a wealthy physician, at the Cambridge assizes alleging that the doctor enticed his wife to leave him, but the jury disagreed. The present hearing was to decide whether another jury will be impanelled.

Judge McCardie, a bachelor, known for his penetrating and revelatory observations on British marriage laws, declared that the entire case hinged on the physician's six word remark after a fight with the grocer's clerk in which he invited the "Cambridge Helen of Troy" to leave with him in her night clothes.

"Wife Not a Serf."

"I have the strongest view of the moral duty of a wife to stand loyally by her husband," the judge declared. "She ought to do it. But the law says that if she decides to leave her husband she may do so. She is not a serf."

Arguments revealed that the couple had been watched, but there was no evidence of caresses, although they had gone riding, boating, and hunting. The wife testified at the trial that she would have left her husband the night of the fight anyhow.

"The real risk of this case in regard to the verdict of a jury is that some of them might take an adverse view of the conduct of the doctor in taking Mrs. Place to ride and dine without her husband's knowledge," the judge continued. "There is no doubt that it would have been far better had the husband been aware of these episodes and a jury is quite entitled to find an adverse view of the doctor on the point of etiquette.

What Jury Might Do.

"The jury might take a narrower view and find against the defendant on the issue of enticement because as married folk they disapprove of this basis of companionship between the doctor and the lady.

"Mrs. Place is a free woman and could walk out of the house, according to English law, whenever she chose. The married woman today is absolutely free to leave her husband whenever she wishes."

Judgment was reserved.

POPE TO RIDE ON FIRST TRAIN OF TINIEST RAILWAY

VATICAN CITY, March 11.—(AP)—The Vatican's new railroad, said to be the smallest line in the world, will be ready in a day or so for its first test. Pope Pius himself will ride in the first train and thereafter the road will be used to transport building materials for a time.

The Vatican railroad is not only one of the smallest in the world, it also has one of the world's finest trains. The line is only 600 feet long, double tracked, with a station that would do justice to a 600 mile system. There is a 300 foot tunnel under the Vatican hill which will be used as the "yards." The line runs only from that point, behind St. Peter's, to the frontier of the Vatican state.

The pope's special train, of a magnificence probably unsurpassed in the history of railroads, consists of three coaches—one for the throne, another containing a little chapel, and the third a private coach in which the pontiff may dine and sleep. No pope has ridden in a railroad train since 1870.

CREAM WHEELS OF STOLEN AUTO TRAP ROBBERS

The cream colored wheels of Miss Lee Fabry's roadster betrayed two young bandits into the hands of police last night. Miss Fabry was driving to her home at 2642 North 74th court, Elmwood Park, when the robbers boarded her machine at Austin and Augusta boulevards. They made her drive to the 1400 block on North Linder avenue, where they took her purse containing $5 and her car. She notified Austin police and described her machine.

Policemen Elwood Egan and John Kozub of the Austin station sighted a car with cream colored wheels in Lake street, and after a short chase, in which they fired a few shots, brought it to a halt in front of 5509 Lake street. The occupants, both armed, were later identified as the bandits by Miss Fabry. They are Reginald Austwick, 17 years old, of 1001 North Parkside avenue and Joseph Ortenzo, also 17, of 1040 North Central avenue. They confessed five other holdups.

Two Youths Are Drowned Skating Near Crown Point

Two boys, skating on Lake Dale Carlia, near Crown Point, were drowned last night when the ice broke, and plunged them into twelve feet of water. Efforts of other skaters to save them were ineffectual. The victims were Charles Southworth, 16 years old, of Creston, and Robert Hayden, 13, of Lowell, sons of farmers.

MAN AND 3 BOYS SEIZED AS BOGUS NICKEL MAKERS

A home made plant for the counterfeiting of nickels was seized last night and with it Walter Krenz, 29 years old, of 353 West Division street, and three boys, including his brother, Edward, 16. The other boys are Joseph Zokorsky, 17, of 749 Uhland street, and John Guagliardo, also 17, of 1439 Larrabee street.

The exposé followed the Zokorsky boy's attempt to change five bogus nickels to Peter Mareno, 15, of 2021 Osgood street, a newsboy, for a quarter. Mareno, suspicious, refused, and followed Zokorsky to the Division street address. He notified Hudson avenue police, and Sergt. Edward Studzinski raided the flat.

RECLUSE, WITH MILLION HOARD IN HER ROOM, IS ILL

New York, March 11.—[Special.]—Mrs. Anne E. Wood, recluse of the Herald Square hotel, is dangerously ill with pneumonia, it was learned tonight. Four nurses have been called to attend the eccentric belle of the civil war days, who withdrew from the sweep of modern times to hoard a fortune of $1,000,000 cash and gems in a hotel room. She was stricken with pneumonia following a heart attack Thursday night, and tonight her nephew and legal guardian, Otis F. Wood, was called to her bedside.

LEO V. BROTHERS, SLAYER, IS TAKEN TO PENITENTIARY

Handcuffed to Ex-Banker on Prison Trip.

Leo V. Brothers, convicted slayer of Alfred J. Lingle, was taken to Joliet penitentiary yesterday to start serving his fourteen year sentence. He was handcuffed to Elmer P. Langguth, former president of the People's State bank of Maywood, who is under sentence of one to ten years for making false statements to bank examiners.

They were with a group of thirteen convicts received at the penitentiary from Chicago, two of whom were parole violators. Brothers was dressed in a brown overcoat and light fedora hat and seemed to have lost weight during his fourteen months' imprisonment in the county jail. Langguth was wearing an expensive looking overcoat which he sent back from the prison to a relative.

Brothers Receives Number.

Brothers was given the prison number of 6055 and became what is known in prison as a fish—that is a convict not yet assigned to any particular work. Within a few days he is to be given a mental test, after which he will be assigned for labor, probably in the quarry, prison officials said, because of his physique.

Upon being questioned in the penitentiary Brothers said this was his first prison experience. He said he had abandoned hope of obtaining a reversal of his conviction through a Supreme court rehearing of its decision upholding his conviction.

If he had escaped prison on the Lingle murder charge he would probably have been sentenced to a Missouri prison, Brothers told prison officials, so he was content to accept his punishment and would obey all rules and get the advantages of good behavior allowances, which may enable him to complete his sentence in eight years and three months. At the time of his arrest for the murder of Lingle, who was shot to death in the Illinois Central subway at Randolph street on June 9, 1930, Brothers was a fugitive from a murder charge in St. Louis.

Flees Here After Killing.

The St. Louis killing occurred in a taxicab war, and Brothers, who had been arrested there forty times as a slugger, gunman, and hoodlum, was named as the slayer by several eyewitnesses.

Secret information was obtained by Chief Investigator Pat Roche of the state's attorney's office that Brothers was the slayer of Lingle. After a search of six months Brothers was arrested and identified by many persons.

CAROL SENDS FOR LOST WIFE AND EXILED BROTHER

BUCHAREST, Rumania, March 11.—Gen. Nicholas Condescu, military master of the king's household, set out today with instructions from King Carol to do what he can to set in order the house of Hohenzollern Sigmaringen which rules this country. The general was first ordered to get Carol's brother, Prince Nicholas, back to Bucharest from Paris as soon as possible. His second task is to drop in at Florence, Italy, to try to induce Helen, the wife Carol scorned, to return.

Gen. Condescu will go to Paris to seek out Nicholas and his petite Mme. Jana Lucia Deleti, with whom he has been honeymooning for the last two months. Carol is said to have instructed the general to try to induce Jana Lucia to remain in Paris. Nicholas will not be imprisoned if he returns, but he will be made subject to "military discipline." It is whispered in palace circles that the general's visit to Florence is connected only with "financial arrangements" between Carol and Helen, but others say that negotiations for her return are so far advanced that Gen. Condescu may bring her back with him.

FALL DOWN STAIRS FATAL.

Frank Yosek, 49 years old, 18526 South Morris avenue, Homewood, died yesterday in the Illinois Central hospital of a fractured skull received Sunday when he fell down stairs in his home.

Field Museum Gets 1,200 Specimens from Shanghai

Despite war and flood, the Marshall Field zoological expedition to China has succeeded in forwarding a collection of approximately 1,200 specimens from Shanghai to the Field Museum of Natural History, it was announced yesterday by Director Stephen C. Simms. The shipment, which was received yesterday, includes some 600 small mammals, 300 birds, and 100 reptiles. Of particular interest were four specimens of a shrew like mole, of which, according to Dr. Wilfred H. Osgood, curator of zoölogy, only one other specimen has ever been collected.

Youths Caught in Storm on Way to West Indies.

Norfolk, Va., March 11.—[Special.]—Snatched from certain death which they had faced since Wednesday, six youths from Wilmington, Del., and Philadelphia, including Richard Dupont and his cousin Victor Dupont, this afternoon were taken off their sinking auxiliary yawl Nahma, 100 miles south of Diamond Shoals, by the army transport Republic.

Felix Dupont, father of Richard flew to Norfolk today from Washington in an amphibian plane piloted by Lieut. Luke Christopher of the coast guard to urge the authorities to spare no expense to search for the Nahma which had been missing since Tuesday. He flew along the coast for some distance himself in the hope that he might sight the craft on which were his son and companions.

Planes Ordered to Search.

The coast guard had ordered a number of cutters and half a dozen planes to search for the Nahma before a wireless message had been received from the Republic announcing the rescue.

Besides the Duponts, others on the Nahma were Scott Townsend and Thomas Laffey of Wilmington and Lloyd Coates and Benjamin MacFarlane of Philadelphia. The party had started from Wilmington last week on a trip to the West Indies. They had followed the inside route as far as Beaufort, N. C., and when they got into the Atlantic were caught in the rough weather that has prevailed along the coast since Sunday.

Bound for Cristobal.

The message from the Republic stated that the Nahma, which was waterlogged, was abandoned and the shipwrecked youths were in a state of exhaustion from their experience. The Republic is bound for Cristobal, where the six youths will be landed, unless other arrangements are made.

A. Felix Dupont, who returned to Washington tonight, said he would endeavor to have the youths transferred to another ship bound for the United States, if such arrangements could be made.

Hunt 3 Missing Craft.

New York, March 11.—[Special.]—A fleet of a dozen coast guard boats and two seaplanes today began a search of the Atlantic from Cape May, N. J., to Nantucket, Mass., for three other vessels which have been missing since a gale swept up the coast early this week.

The missing vessels are the coast guard patrol boat CG-218, unreported since it left Lewes, Del., Saturday night with five men aboard; the fishing schooner, Old Glory, out of Gloucester, Mass., missing since Wednesday with ten men aboard, and the barge, Deepwater, missing off the Delaware coast.

The storm on the Atlantic which has sunk one ship, still was raging today south of Newfoundland and east of Nova Scotia and in this region a freighter and a tug which had gone to its assistance both were helpless in the heavy seas with steering gear disabled.

Pull Dredge Off Mud.

Sandusky, O., March 11.—(AP)—Two tugboats steamed their way 40 miles through the ice floes of Lake Erie today to free the government dredge Taylor, driven aground on Starve Reef island Wednesday night. The dredge carried forty men.

The tugs, the Indiana and Florida, put out from Toledo before dawn and arrived at the island, three miles from Put-in-Bay, after an eight hour battle with the ice. They pulled the dredge, a 193 foot all steel boat, off a mud bank.

This morning coast guardsmen from the Marblehead station took five men off. They were engineers en route eastward and impatient at the delay.

Those taken off today in order to catch a train to Washington included United States Inspectors James Walters of Oswego, N. Y., and H. H. Haas of Washington, and Frank M. Lewis of New York.

PARIS WORRIES; ITS CRIME LOSES AMATEUR STATUS

Profit Motive Brings Holdup Men.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 11.—Parisians are beginning to worry seriously about the crime situation, as they observe that scarcely a day passes now without a holdup. Not that crime is an unaccustomed matter in Paris, but the usual run of violence is of the amateur sort, as when a lover shoots his girl friend's husband or a girl uses a revolver to convince a young man that he had better finish the courtship he started.

The sordid kind, in which the object is profit, has until now been so rare that a series of daily holdups is enough to start the public talking about a crime wave.

Begun with Bank Robbery.

The current carnival of crime started with a daylight stickup of a bank on one of the main business streets, the Rue Lafayette. Three men with handkerchiefs over their faces and guns in their hands walked into the establishment just as it was about to close for lunch.

They herded all present into the manager's office and walked behind the tellers' windows, gathering $6,000 in cash and overlooking $8,000 more than was under their noses. They only used their guns to fire a parting shot, but one of them pulled a dagger and stabbed an employé in the side when he failed to obey orders quickly enough.

The bandits, who are known to be foreigners, made a quick getaway and for days kept the French police wondering what could have become of them.

Take $200 from Woman.

Next morning the woman manager of a dairy in an outlying section of town was waylaid between her home and her shop. The stickup men used an automobile and got away with $200. On the following day another woman was held up not far from the scene of the second crime.

A young watchmaker, going home at 3:30 a. m., was the next victim. He was stopped by two men who jumped from an automobile with revolvers in their hands.

"You're out of luck," said the watchmaker. "Take my wallet if you feel like it. There's nothing in it."

Ruse Fails.

The ruse was unsuccessful. The bandits found enough to keep them happy in Paris for one night—

PLANE DROPS FOOD FOR SHIP CAUGHT IN LAKE ICE FLOE

Detroit, Mich., March 11.—[Special.]—An airplane late this afternoon landed on the ice field near the steamer Fellowcraft, marooned for 40 hours about six miles off Colchester point, Ontario. Another plane earlier in the day flew over the vessel and dropped a bag of food on the deck. The Fellowcraft is laden with steel for Detroit automobile plants.

The plane took to the vessel C. E. Jackson, traffic manager of the line operating the boat, who was informed by Capt. James A. Patterson there was no immediate danger of the vessel's drifting. The crew consists of 20 men.

The relief of the freighter, which has twice sent up distress signals since being caught by the ice floe last Wednesday morning, was started today by three men who attempted to cross a nine mile stretch of ice with a small boat equipped with runners and filled with food. The plane, however, reached the vessel easily, dropped the food, and returned with the news that there was no distress aboard ship.

These events are sufficient to make Parisians wonder if they are as safe in their streets as they thought. The police, which enjoys an enviable reputation for efficiency, is out to cut the crime wave short and reassure the public. Unemployment is blamed for the recrudescence of banditry.

Family Aroused by Dog Flees from Burning Home

The barking of their collie, Belle, yesterday aroused the family of Alfred M. Tredwell, 7055 South Union avenue, and gave them notice that their home was afire. Mr. and Mrs. Tredwell, their three children and Miss Dorothy Brown, a friend, escaped in their sleeping garments. The fire started from an overheated furnace and did damage estimated at $3,000.

DISCUSS PLAN FOR CHICAGO AID FROM U. S. TODAY

City Controller Szymczak yesterday arranged for a conference this morning with Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National bank, on the proposal of United States Senator Lewis that the city try to obtain funds for immediate relief indirectly through the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

The proposal, according to the controller, is for the city to place tax anticipation warrants, bonds and other securities with various banks, and the latter use the securities for a loan from the finance corporation, the money to be turned over to the city. The controller said he is dubious about the feasibility of the plan, but that he will try to work out some plan.

The controller, upon receipt yesterday of $1,500,000 from a syndicate of banks on a sale of 1930 city warrants in anticipation of which city employés were paid last week for a two weeks' period, ordered the 914 employés of the municipal tuberculosis sanitarium paid today for the first two weeks of January. The pay roll amounts to $65,000, and completes the payment of all employés of the city, sanitarium and library for the first half of January.

$250,000 Relief Warrants Sold After Drive Ends

A post-campaign subscription of $250,000 by the Western Electric company to the sale of state tax warrants, which closed officially Thursday night, was received yesterday at headquarters at 10 South La Salle street. Announcement was made last night by Philip R. Clarke, who headed the sales group during the drive to obtain cash with which to carry on the emergency relief work in the city. The sale completed yesterday, after officials of the company had been solicited previously by members of the trade division groups, brought the total subscriptions to $12,805,900.

STABS AND HANGS HIMSELF.

Despondent over unemployment, Charles Marsell, 55 years old, committed suicide last night in his home at 3115 North Oakley avenue by stabbing and then hanging himself.

TRAYLOR FIRST CONTRIBUTOR TO NEEDY STUDENTS

Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National bank, was announced last night as the initial contributor to a drive to keep 200 needy students in their classes at Northwestern university. His check was received just prior to a dinner last night in Levy Mayer hall on McKinlock campus, under the auspices of the Northwestern University foundation and the Northwestern University club of Chicago, to launch the campaign.

Franklin Bliss Snyder, professor of English, headed the speakers, who were introduced by Harry L. Wells, president of the foundation. Speakers told the more than 300 alumni of the hardships some students are enduring to complete their education. Many of those affected, it was stated, are sons and daughters of former wealthy men whose resources have vanished during the economic slump. One such student was found to be subsisting on a budget of 73 cents a week.

All available scholarship and loan funds have been used up, Mr. Wells said. Professors in some instances are paying the tuition of students of unusual promise. The $50,000 which has been set as a quota for the drive will be loaned to needy students selected by the personnel office.

Among the other speakers were President Walter Dill Scott and Business Manager Dyche of the university.

'American-ness' of Novel Startling.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"1919," by John Dos Passos. [Harcourt-Brace.] Published on Thursday.

JOHN DOS PASSOS is unquestionably one of the outstanding writers of the American scene. When Sinclair Lewis says, "Dos Passos may be, more than Dreiser, Cather, Hergesheimer, Cabell, or Anderson, the father of humanized and living fiction—not merely for America but for the world," some of the readers of both John Dos Passos and Sinclair Lewis may feel that the Nobel prize winner is a trifle overenthusiastic, but no critic [and few readers of serious American fiction] will deny that John Dos Passos has achieved in his pages an "Americanness" that is startling, stirring, and stimulating. More than any other novelist of modern America he did, in "Manhattan Transfer," succeed in giving his readers the pulse, the tempo, the throb of moder life.

JOHN DOS PASSOS.

The technique of "Manhattan Transfer" is a brilliant and a wholly successful one. The author chose in those pages to give short, vivid glances into the lives of a group of people loosely knit socially, knit at all only by the fact of their casual meetings. With a pattern of modern dynamic brevity and insistence, he made a novel which is remarkable, superb.

John Dos Passos used the same technique in the next novel he wrote, "The 42d Parallel," except that he added what he called "The Camera Eye" and "Newsreels" as prisms which broke up still further the light of his narrative. The Camera Eye was autobiographical, reminiscential of the author's own observation. The "Newsreels" were hundreds of sentences, and half sentences and headlines from the newspapers of the period. The result was a brilliant but confusing staccato of tempo and mood which was not, it seemed to me, so successful as "Manhattan Transfer" had been.

John Dos Passos has used exactly the same technique in "1919" that he used in "The 42d Parallel," and this time it is a perfect one for his material. The year 1919 was one of utter restlessness, morally and spiritually as well as physically. The author has chosen the one supremely successful method of writing a novel which gives the reader the spirit of the time. "1919" is a supremely difficult book to read. It has no surface calm whatever. It seems to have no cohesion of design or method.

Against the background of scraps of news, short chapters of extremely impressionistic observation, sharp, brief "biographies" of actual men—"Teddy" Roosevelt, "Meester Veelson," Randolph Bourne, Paxton Hibben, "The House of Morgan"—are flashed episodes in the lives of an American sailor and wander-boy, the daughter of a Chicago minister who goes to France to work for the Red Cross, a Texas tomboy, a young Harvard man who always lands on the top of the jackstraw pile, and the spectacular director of publicity for the Red Cross in Europe among others.

The story of no one person [except the Texas girl] is actually finished, but the year 1919 changes permanently the lives of every character in the book. An absolute casualness of uprootedness in all of their lives, in the whole life of the world, is in the pages which are so conglomerate on their surface. Underneath, however, is the solid, firm structure of a novel of immense power.

"1919" is literally what so many books are erroneously called, "a slice of life." With infinite skill that slicing is done by the author, and the raw surface which meets the reader's eye is the actual living, breathing record of a period in its most intense manifestation.

"1919" is the kind of book a reader never forgets.

Englishman Raps Colonial Policy in Two Travel Books

Two quaint little volumes by Walter William Strickland, former English baronet, who left England thirty years ago to travel, have been published by the B. Westermann company of New York. Both were printed in Germany. One is "Travel Tales from the Far East," and the other is "Travel Letters from Ceylon, Australia, and South India." The author, despite his English ancestry, bitterly criticizes British colonial policy. His attitude toward Australia, in fact, is definitely hostile. So we can't recommend these books to British readers, but Americans should find much of interest in them.

Edith Sitwell Busy on Study of City of Bath

Eighteenth Century Resort Named in Novels.

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON, March 11.—News arrives of a book that should prove really fascinating. This is Miss Edith Sitwell's study of Bath. It will be remembered that Miss Sitwell wrote a short time ago a biographical and critical study of Alexander Pope; and the fact of her enthusiasm for many eighteenth century ways of life and thought is familiar to us. Now Bath, although a city of great antiquity and well known to the Romans, had its modern heyday in the eighteenth century. It is a beautiful city, and in the days of Beau Nash it was a center of fashionable life.

EDITH SITWELL.

Readers of the novels of Fanny Burney and Jane Austen will recall how inevitably the characters visited the place—in, for example, "Northanger Abbey" and "Persuasion." And it is therefore natural that Miss Sitwell should begin her book with Beau Nash and show how the eighteenth century beaux, belles, and invalids all gathered in Bath for health and entertainment. In a sense the book will be a picture of the social life of something like a hundred years ago in England; and while Miss Sitwell would disclaim any such ambitious plan we may feel sure that the peculiar polish and elegance of that period will be appropriately rendered in her pages. This is a book to which connoisseurs of such matters will look forward with rich expectations.

Another book which shows something like inspiration in its linking of subject and author is the new study of Chaucer which Gilbert Chesterton has written. Mr. Chesterton has a passion for the days of "Merrie England" and Chaucer is the embodiment of his period in time as perhaps no other English author will ever be. Nor is that all. For Chaucer lived in a day when old fashions in thought and art were giving place to new.

"This is not a depression, it is a mishandling of the greatest era of plenty the world has ever known."

G. O. P. 'HARMONY' SLATE CRACKED IN A NEW PLACE

Drop Wallace; Deneenite May Get Place.

BY PARKE BROWN.

What was left of a tuneful nature in the self-labeled Republican "harmony ticket" for Cook county offices was shattered yesterday by the erasure of the name of Thomas O. Wallace, clerk of the Circuit court, from the slate.

THOMAS O. WALLACE. [Walinger Photo.]

Wallace, a lifetime Brundage man, is a candidate for renomination, but it is reported that he has consistently declined to appear at meetings in the Harding-Crowe headquarters in the Morrison hotel and that he has only smiled when he was reminded that he was expected to chip in a candidate's assessment of $1,800 now and $1,800 after the primaries for the use of the organization.

Wallace Is Dropped.

Whatever the reason, it was announced authoritatively yesterday at the Morrison hotel headquarters that this part of the "harmony" program had been dropped completely, that the Harding-Crowe forces probably would support Donald V. Steger, the Deneen entry, against Wallace.

On the hotel lobby directory the fourth floor headquarters may still be known as the "Republican harmony" home office, but the politicians no longer regard it as the abiding place of party fellowship and brotherly love. It is recognized now as the GHQ of a bellicose faction ready to make war against all other groups in the party.

When George F. Harding started the "harmony" talk early in the winter the suggestion was that all factions could be lined up behind a ticket centering on State's Attorney Swanson and Circuit Clerk Wallace, the two Republican office holders up for renomination. Swanson was knocked out of this picture when Robert E. Crowe, former state's attorney, started Judge Michael Feinberg out for the place. With Wallace pushed out now, the "harmony" picture is considered to be short one center piece.

Report Passmore Is Wary.

And there are rumors that other sections of the "harmony" picture may be lacking in the composite presented to the voters. John H. Passmore, former Criminal court clerk, is the group's aspirant for county recorder, but it is said that he is reluctant about paying his assessment until he is convinced that some of the chief harmonizers are not overfriendly with Harry Hoff, the Deneen candidate.

C. J. Doyle, chairman of the Republican state committee, issued the call yesterday for the state convention of the party to be held in Springfield on April 22. The convention will nominate Republican candidates for presidential electors and three trustees of the University of Illinois, choose the delegates at large to the Republican national convention, and adopt the state platform of the party.

Horner to Talk by Phone.

With several of the candidates for governor touring downstate, the state campaign is lagging in Chicago, but Judge Henry Horner, regular Democratic organization entry, is said to have solved the problem of being both here and there at the same time. There is to be a meeting of the "Volunteer Workers for Henry Horner and Associates" at the Morrison hotel this afternoon, and between speeches downstate, Judge Horner is expected to address the meeting by means of a telephone amplifier hookup.

Headquarters for Michael L. Igoe, independent candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, announced that the Igoe party downstate will be joined today by T. B. McGrath Jr., hitherto an unattached candidate for state auditor. In doing so the Igoe headquarters made public a letter from Igoe indorsing McGrath for his action as president of the Mayfair State bank in closing the institution and paying all its depositors in full.

A statement from State's Attorney Swanson's headquarters yesterday asserted that under the present administration of the county prosecutor's office racketeering has been reduced 75 per cent. The statement was that the monthly "take" of the racketeers had been cut from $4,000,000 to $1,000,000.

EX-DRYS CHEER HORNER'S ATTACK ON PROHIBITION

Downstate Counties Show Change in Attitude.

Effingham, Ill., March 11.—[Special.]—Several hundred Effingham county Democrats applauded Judge Henry Horner, Democratic candidate for governor, when he roundly denounced prohibition pussyfooting and sectional prejudices in a speech here tonight. The Horner caravan arrived this evening at the end of a day devoted to meetings at Mount Vernon and Salem. At both these towns the Democratic candidate aroused plenty of enthusiasm by his attacks on national prohibition in a district long regarded as politically dry.

In his Effingham speech, Horner alluded to the "discreet, I almost might say cowardly silence," on prohibition of a good many candidates in the past. "The moment I became a candidate," he said, "I decided I would make my position so clear that no man or woman in the state could possibly misunderstand it.

Approves State Control.

"I am opposed to the 18th amendment and as governor I shall use all the power and prestige that Illinois possesses to aid any proper movement for its repeal. I will work for the immediate repeal of the Illinois search and seizure act, in accordance with the will of the people as expressed in three referendum elections.

"I am for a return of the Jeffersonian principle that the habits, manners and social customs of any section are matters for local determination."

Every parent today has some knowledge of the baneful effect of the prohibition law on the younger generation. Too often is the gin bottle a regular article of usage at social gatherings of young people of both sexes. I am against the return of the saloon, but a way must be found to put an end to our present situation or our Americans of the future will be debased."

He referred to the sectional differences that have grown up between Cook county and the downstate districts as "imaginary quarrels, nourished and encouraged by certain politicians for their own purposes."

Dry Districts Cheer Horner.

"While the problems of one portion of the state," he said, "may differ from the problems of other portions, yet they are all Illinois problems, and all Illinois citizens should unite for their just and proper solution."

The responsive attitude of his downstate audiences to Judge Horner's arguments for the abolition of prohibition and a better understanding between Cook county and the rural districts has surprised Democratic leaders. All through the 16 downstate counties visited by the caravan thus far, counties traditionally aligned on the dry side of the political fence, his wet talks have been enthusiastically applauded by his audiences.

In addition to hammering away on these subjects in his regular meetings, Horner drove them home to a large portion of the downstate voters in an address broadcast last Wednesday night at Harrisburg. The applause given Judge Horner's dripping wet speeches led members of the party to prophesy that the southern Illinois counties would show a decided swing away from their dry column at the coming election.

NEW HAMPSHIRE VOTE PUTS ROOSEVELT OUT IN FRONT IN BETTING

New York, March 11.—[Special.]—The primary victory of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt in New Hampshire has made him a heavy favorite for the Democratic presidential nomination, according to betting odds quoted in Wall street today.

Odds of but 2 to 1 are now being offered that Gov. Roosevelt will not head his party, while the odds against former Gov. Smith went down to 5 to 1. Speaker John N. Garner is quoted as 4½ to 1 and is second choice to Mr. Roosevelt. Gov. Ritchie of Maryland remains at 5½ to 1. There is even money to be had that the Democratic nominee will carry the state of New York.

YANKS IN TURKEY HONOR RETIRING AMERICAN ENVOY

ISTANBUL, Turkey, March 11.—(AP)—Joseph C. Grew, retiring American ambassador, who will sail for his new post at Tokio on Sunday, was the guest, with Mrs. Grew, of the American colony at a farewell luncheon today. They were presented with a silver tray inscribed "With the admiration and affection of the American community."

An editorial in the official Ajkimiyeti Milliye praised Mr. Grew and Admiral Bristol, formerly the American high commissioner, for having "shaken the foundations of the bitter one-sided propaganda against Turkey in America during the world war. They not only taught their country to know us, but they also taught us the real character of the American people."

HOOVER CERTAIN OF MAJORITY OF OHIO DELEGATES

Coxey Contests for 2 with President.

Columbus, O., March 11.—(AP)—Only slight opposition to President Hoover's campaign for the Ohio delegation to the Republican national convention developed tonight as returns came in from congressional districts after the time for nominations had closed at 6:30 p. m. The President was assured a large majority of the delegation. He did not enter in the preferential primary, but this carries no delegates.

The President will have smooth sailing for the delegates at large, for his entire slate went unopposed. But in the districts opposition popped up in two instances. In the Twelfth district one delegate was pledged to Joseph I. France of Maryland, while in the Sixteenth two delegates entered for Jacob S. Coxey of Coxey army fame, now mayor of Massillon, O.

Ohio's Favorite Son.

Gov. George White, Ohio's favorite son for the Democratic presidential nomination, met more opposition than the President. Delegates pledged to other candidates, including Newton D. Baker and Peter Witt, Cleveland, filed in the Ninth, Twelfth, Fourteenth, Twentieth, Twenty-first, and Twenty-second districts. The Witt delegates will go to Al Smith, New York, political observers believe.

William H. [Alfalfa Bill] Murray, governor of Oklahoma, is certain of winning the state's Democratic preferential vote for President. His was the only name entered on the Democratic ticket, but he will have no delegates.

Smith Pledged Delegates.

Boston, Mass., March 11.—(AP)—A Smith pledged slate of 12 candidates for delegates at large to the Democratic national convention from Massachusetts was named today by Frank J. Donohue, Democratic state chairman.

The slate contained the names of only stanch supporters of Alfred E. Smith to the exclusion of those favoring Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt. The choice indicated that a compromise between the Smith and Roosevelt forces, the latter led by Mayor James M. Curley of Boston, was impossible at this time.

Donahue held power of attorney from Smith to grant to those he selected the authority to use his name on the ballot, a requisite of the Massachusetts election laws.

Heading the slate was the powerful triumvirate composed of United States Senators David I. Walsh and Marcus A. Coolidge and Gov. Joseph B. Ely. In close support to them were the state's four Democratic congressmen: William P. Connery, Lynn; John J. Douglass, and John W. McCormack of Boston, and William J. Granfield of Long Meadow.

Mayor Curley has indicated that a Roosevelt pledged slate would be placed in the field, but to date no public announcement has been made that Roosevelt has given consent for the use of his name.

Stone Denies Wheat Unloading by U. S.; Finds Market 'Strong'

BY PAUL POTTER.

Congress would do better to repeal the agricultural marketing act than to "hamstring" the work of the farm board, James C. Stone, the federal board's chairman, declared yesterday at the close of a secret conference with directors of the American Farm Bureau federation in the Hotel Sherman.

Stone denied that the farm board was unloading wheat on a glutted market, as had been charged by Chicago grain merchants and officials of western farmers' elevators on Wednesday. Characterizing the wheat market as "in a strong position," he said there were 50 to 100 million bushels less wheat in the world now than at the same time last year.

Cites Less Wheat Acreage.

"There also is from 10 to 12 per cent less domestic acreage of wheat, not counting the customary abandonment of wheat acreage," he added. The federal department of agriculture reported Tuesday that farmers still held 207 million bushels on farms. The total supply of American wheat on hand is expected by grain experts to cause the largest carryover of wheat supplies ever known in the United States this summer.

In spite of these conflicting views, wheat quotations on the Chicago Board of Trade continued with fractional changes yesterday to remain within the narrow limits maintained since Feb. 16, crop damage this week failing to cause a rise in the market. Grain analysts last night were asking why the present wheat prices remained so much lower than a year ago if Mr. Stone's information was correct.

The farm bureau federation's directors voted last night to authorize their president, E. A. O'Neal, to form a committee to draft a legislative platform to submit to both the Republican and Democratic national conventions in Chicago next June. The resolution stated the platform would contain "the wishes of organized agriculture."

Will Continue Lobbying.

The federation intends to continue its lobbying in Washington to obtain an amendment to the farm marketing act providing a means of controlling crop surpluses by a "debenture plan." This was announced last night after the directors had consulted with Stone, who, it was learned, had asked them to discontinue pressing their claims while the farm board is being threatened in congress.

Representatives of Illinois and Indiana farm elevator associations also expressed their approval yesterday of the addition of contract grades for No. 1 and No. 2 yellow hard winter wheat as valid tender on the Chicago Board of Trade. The exchange, by a vote of 593 to 34, restored these grades, which had been removed upon request of Secretary A. M. Hyde and the farm board a year ago.

At the Palmer house a conference between the American Red Cross and the Millers' National federation adjourned last night without having reached an agreement. The conference sought to establish a basis of payment for milling the 40 million bushels of farm board wheat donated by congress to the needy. It will be resumed as soon as further technical information has been obtained.

ASK CARLSTROM TO INVESTIGATE CITY DISMISSALS

An investigation into the discharge of civil service laborers by the city was asked of Attorney General Oscar Carlstrom yesterday by Samuel Kart, attorney for the Civil Service Laborers' league. The latter charged that as soon as a man has been dismissed he is advised that the only way he can get back to work is to see his political superior in his district.

"All this civil service agitation is agitation against cutting pay rolls," said Mayor Cermak in reply to the charges. "There is not a civil service employé who can say a temporary employé holds his job."

The mayor recalled that the former administration had padded the pay rolls with laborers who either did no work or did minor clerical tasks. When he took over the office, the mayor said, he offered a shovel to all those employed as laborers and many of them quit.

Slayer of Two Executed as He Protests Innocence

Columbus, O., March 11.—(AP)—Protesting his innocence, Daniel Hunt, 58, Rushmore hunter and trapper, was electrocuted at Ohio penitentiary tonight, for the murder of two men, Leon Moebouch, a farmer, and Constable Frank Conoway of Sugar Creek.

ALL-ALUMINUM ARMORED AUTO PUT IN SERVICE

A new type, all-aluminum armored car was placed in operation by the Brinks Express company yesterday. "Besides being bullet-proof, the car has a ventilating system that makes it tear gas proof.

John D. Allen, vice president and general manager of the express company, pointed out that the aluminum body makes the new type of car one-third the weight of the old steel cars, which increases its speed. Other changes have been made in the interior equipment.

The car is a moving arsenal, containing tear gas bombs, gas masks, rifles and revolvers, and machine guns. It will be used particularly in the collection of money and delivery of pay rolls from and to chain stores and other large industrial concerns in the city, Mr. Allen said.

ALL BUT A FEW OF 700 STRANDED ON ICE RESCUED

HELSINGFORS, Finland, March 11.—(AP)—All except a few of the 700 fishermen stranded on ice floes in the gulf of Finland had been saved tonight and rescuers expected to get the others within a few hours.

The rescued men generally were in good condition, although one of them, who was insufficiently clothed, was frostbitten and collapsed when he was brought ashore.

About 300 of the fishermen were brought in yesterday, and almost 400 today. The men had been fishing through the ice and were blown out into the gulf when a storm broke loose large floes Wednesday.

Get on the scales today and see how much you weigh—then get a bottle of Kruschen Salts which will last you for 4 weeks and costs but a trifle. Take one-half teaspoonful in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning—cut down on pastry and fatty meats—go light on potatoes—and when you have finished the contents of this first bottle weigh yourself again.

Now you will know the pleasant way to lose unsightly fat and you'll also know that the 6 salts of Kruschen have presented you with glorious health.

To take off fat harmlessly and SAFELY, take Kruschen every morning—don't worry—it's the SAFE way to reduce.

But be sure for your health's sake that you ask for and get Kruschen Salts. Get them at any drugstore in the world and if the results one bottle brings do not delight you—do not joyfully satisfy you—why, money back.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

RUIN AHEAD.

Representative Crisp of Georgia, the Democratic acting chairman of the ways and means committee, said to the house in beginning the discussion of the tax bill that in common with many others he regretted such a burdensome measure was required by necessity. In times of peace such taxes were outrageous. A peace time budget of 4 billion 100 million dollars was indefensible and a continuance of appropriations requiring such taxation would be ruinous to the credit of the United States.

Mr. Crisp warned his colleagues to get a billion dollars out of the budget for 1933 and balance the government expenditures and income by abolishing boards and bureaus and abandoning enterprises which have caused the alarming addition to the national debt at a time when the normal sources of revenue have dried up.

Senator Robinson of Arkansas, a member of the chamber which has been most indifferent to the plain forecast of disaster, gives the same warning. "No economic system, probably no political system," he said, "can survive such deficits as have been permitted to occur in our present fiscal administration."

Gecrgia and Arkansas are not among the heavy taxpaying states of the Union. Each received in subsidies in 1931 more than they paid in internal revenue, and yet, to the credit of these two representatives of the states, congress gets from them sober, unexaggerated counsel which springs admonitory from every setup of figures laid before it.

If the people want to save themselves they must watch their elections to the senate and the house of representatives. The side represented by Mr. Crisp, Mr. Beck of Pennsylvania, Senator Robinson, Senator Glenn of Illinois, and a minority in both houses must be strengthened against the idiotic prodigality of the majority.

VIRGINIA DROPS VOLSTEAD.

The Virginia legislature has passed an act providing that no one can be sent to jail for possessing less than a quart of an intoxicating beverage. Here is the voice of the old south at last. A quart of bourbon is not intoxicating liquor. The new act states the case—long demonstrable in the full fleshed days when the south was really southern and congenial—in reverse, but it remains the same. Anything less than a quart is nonintoxicating, half an ounce less or a tablespoon less.

Before Bishop James Cannon Jr. took over the control of Virginia and other parts of the south a gentleman would have been offended if any one had suggested to him that a quart of liquor was intoxicating. He would have resented the implication that he could not carry his liquor, and by carrying it he did not mean on his hip for use when he was hidden from the constable. In old Virginia if the federal government had undertaken to enforce the doctrine that it would specify what was permissible for convivial uses the army of northern Virginia never would have quit fighting.

The amendments the Virginia legislature has passed virtually repeal the state dry law, breaking the control exercised by Bishop Cannon and his associates and leaving the Virginia dry senators and representatives in Washington stranded without the support of their state. It may be that the last place in the country to recognize facts everywhere else apparent will be Washington.

A CHAMPION OF AMERICAN PRINCIPLES.

Gov. Ritchie's notable campaign against undue centralization [including prohibition] and government expenditure proceeded last week in South Carolina, where he delivered two addresses, one before the state legislature and one at a Washington celebration, in both of which he urged that the nation cease to enlarge the powers and activities of the central government and restore to the sovereign states and to local agencies those responsibilities which the wisdom of our great statesmen assigned to them. Gov. Ritchie looks beneath the surface of our political issues to the great underlying issue whether we shall retain the constitutional system within which our progress has proceeded or allow it to be disintegrated.

Centralization involves swollen public expenditure, the growth of bureaucracy, the lowering of government efficiency and the increase of official regulation and dictation in private enterprise and private life. National prohibition is its most offensive manifestation, thus far. Toward this Gov. Ritchie expresses the attitude of those opponents of prohibition who look beneath the surface of its mischief and understand its full significance when he says: "My concern is not at all whether the country is to be wet or dry, but how, in this land of diversified peoples and conditions, can government best deal with the problem." Centralization inevitably ignores the healthy diversity of this nation, the ideal expressed in the first motto adopted by the young nation, E Pluribus Unum. It is creating a federal structure which increases its powers at the cost of its vitality and, in forcing its standardizations upon the diversity of American life, instead of establishing unity, destroys it. This, in whatever plausible guise it may be offered, is tyranny. Its immediate results, which now weigh with crushing weight upon the nation, are a growing mountain of public debt and widespread disrespect of laws imposed in violation of the fundamental conceptions of American government.

THE OPPOSITION TO JUDGE WILKERSON.

The case for the confirmation of Judge Wilkerson's appointment to the Circuit Court of Appeals was made before the senate subcommittee in charge of hearings by representatives of the Chicago and Illinois Bar associations, including Charles P. Megan, president of the Chicago bar; Amos C. Miller, president of the Illinois bar; Edgar Bronson Tolman and George I. Haight. Indorsements also were given the committee from Chicagoans without regard for political connections, Mayor Cermak, former Chief Justice Thompson of the state Supreme court, George A. Cook, Melvin A. Traylor, Francis X. Busch, Democrats, being included.

The opposition to the confirmation of this appointment is twofold: ostensible and underground. The objection which can come to the surface alleges misuse of judicial power in injunctions affecting a labor dispute, the railway shop crafts strike of 1922. Mr. Miller explained to the senators that in this case Judge Wilkerson had acted upon evidence showing: "Nineteen deaths from assault, 1,500 assaults, 65 kidnapings with assault, eight cases of tarring and feathering, 50 cases of actual or attempted burning and dynamiting of bridges, 250 cases of actual or attempted burning and dynamiting of property, 50 cases of actual or attempted derailment of trains, and other instances of sabotage too numerous to count."

The opposition which cannot come to the surface has its cause in the judicial procedure in Judge Wilkerson's court resulting in the conviction of Capone and his associates and the breaking up of gangs which had made Chicago the name for lawlessness. Judge Wilkerson brought even the department of justice out of a defeatist attitude and was alone in forcing the question to a decision. The real complaint against his judicial record comes out of the gangland of racketeers, kidnapers, gunmen, and killers. There is where a defeat of his nomination will be regarded as exemplary to any other judges who show any courage.

DE VALERA AT THE HEAD OF STATE.

Eamon de Valera is elected president of the Irish Free State, but without the good will of his more radical republican associates among the Sinn Feiners, to whom the one-time chief has become akin to the defeated president, Mr. Cosgrave, merely "a minister of his majesty King George V." De Valera before his election made it known that although he would press for a clearer definition of Free State independence of the British crown and a relaxation of the Irish laws against republican agitators, with a probable release of political prisoners, he was not an extremist. He was not to be relied upon to join his policies to the whole republican doctrine.

The new president, having been a radical at the head of the minority and of the opposition to Free State conciliations, becomes to some degree a moderate when responsibility for government is attached to him. Such a development follows the general rule. The exceptions are notable, but the rule holds generally good. Expediency is favored by majorities, pure theory by minorities. When a man must make a thing work he generally compromises. Cromwell had to sacrifice the real English republicans of his day. Stalin retreats whenever it is expedient, and Lenin did before him.

THE WORTH OF THE DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE.

If the extensive and expensive services of the United States department of commerce have the value placed upon them by the bureaucracy they can be made largely self-sustaining. It is one of the most rapidly expanding departments of government. Its new home in Washington is a twenty million dollar building. Its activities are world-wide and growing. A test of the value of its work is not hard to make. If American commerce and industry profit considerably from its research and from the information which it makes available this service, like any other advantage industry and commerce may seek, is worth money. If it is valuable to the productivity of the country it will be bought.

The department could be put to a showing of facts by going on a fee basis. An industry which profits from its service will be willing to buy what it needs. If nothing furnished is worth a fee to procure, the worth of the institution is questionable. Large appropriations are not justified by theoretical values. The results must have demonstrable profits to the interests which are supposed to benefit and if such profits exist commerce will do what it expects to do for such advantages in private enterprise—pay for them.

Editorial of the Day

THE FRIED SANDWICH INCIDENT.

[New York Herald Tribune.]

There is something of magnificent defiance in the gesture of Senator Huey Long, who came to the Waldorf and instructed Oscar himself in the art of making a Waldorf sandwich. One can as well imagine an amateur schooling Escoffier in how to prepare sauce Escoffier or journeying to the deep south to teach a veritable Col. Cleghorne the art and mystery of the mint julep. Carrying goose liver to Strasbourg would be a poor comparison, since what Senator Long really achieved was painting the lily.

The Waldorf sandwich, as all the world and Oscar know, is built with toast, sliced chicken, lettuce, and mayonnaise, but Mr. Long's confection included ham and Swiss cheese and was fried in its entirety in batter and melted butter, which is by way of being a gustatory complication if not an improvement. There are, of course, people who like their caviar prepared aux Blinis, with pancakes and sour cream, and there are those who scorn the straightforward and invigorating Martini in favor of the clover club or sidecar. There is, in fact and as somebody once remarked, no accounting for tastes.

The most notable moral to be derived from the Waldorf or fried sandwich incident is that afforded by the restraint of the admirable Oscar, who built the catastrophic entrée demanded, allowed Mr. Long actually to eat it on the premises, and has included it on his future menus. Even the famed hospitality of Mr. Long's southland might crack under the strain if a Connecticut Yankee should command a mint julep involving the use of gin, pernod, and grenadine.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

WETS LEAD DRYS three to one in the straw vote that a weekly magazine is now taking. Which leads us to believe that most wets are crippled or bedridden. They can mark a ballot and send it by mail, but they are unable to walk to the polls on election day.

OR MAYBE THE WETS keep moving so that they're never eligible to vote in the precinct where they happen to live. It might be they're always getting dissatisfied with the speakeasy in their neighborhood—too crowded, too many policemen sitting around, or something—and so they keep moving, looking for the perfect speakeasy. And, of course, there is no perfect thing in the whole wide world, not even speakeasies. But, anyhow, the wets keep moving and never stay long enough in one place to get on the poll books. So maybe that's the reason why the wets vote the drys down three to one in a correspondence straw vote election, but get all snowed under when the real voting takes place.

IT MIGHT BE the wets are too tender hearted. Their bootlegger goes to them on election day and with great hot tears streaming down his fat face says: "Say, party, wot are you a-tryin' ter do? Put me out o' business when I'm supporting fifteen small children and two mothers-in-law and a wife, besides payin' alimony to three more ot 'em? Listen, guy, have a heart!" And so the gentle wet cries, too, and goes over to the polls and votes dry. But when he has a chance at a straw vote he says to himself he'll follow the dictates of his own conscience, and votes wet.

And it doesn't mean anything, anyhow.

MARCH.

I shall not chide you, March,
Because the chill of snow
Is in the air,
For soon will come
The warm soft kiss of sun.

I shall not even glance at trees
Whose branches still are bare,
For soon I know fresh sap will run
And life begin.
Nor shall I sigh for birds
That still in Southlands sing,
Nor hope for gardens' vivid bloom
In early spring.

No, but I shall press aside
Gray matted grass,
To seek blue violets out,
And pale anemone,
And those soft mosses where
A fern will some day grow.

And I shall not despair
Because the rush of warmth and life
Does not come swiftly back.
I'll cherish only what earth has to give—
This pale gray day,
Knowing all vibrant, growing things
Come slowly . . .
Spring . . . and flowers . . . and love!

FRANCESCA MILLER.

"BURN MAN with Hot Fork to Find Secreted Money."—Yesterday's headline. Looks as though the anti-hoarding campaign was getting a little rough.

WONDER WHAT ALL those big business executives who frown on hiring a man over forty think when they read that President von Hindenburg, who will probably be reëlected next Saturday, is eighty-four years old. And he's not being reelected because of purely sentimental reasons, but because, as Col. Roosevelt used to say, "he's the best man for the job." But what would happen to him if he came over to the U. S. A. and fell in line with the men applying for work at any factory or plant or store whatever? Oh, need we ask, friends; need we ask!

"REPORTS Salary Cuts of Ten to Twenty Per Cent by G. O. P. National Committee."—News from Washington. Hey, quit that, G. O. P.! If that sort of thing is kept up, next thing the sovereign voter knows he'll only get a dollar ninety or a dollar eighty for his vote, and no free people will stand for it.

WE HAVE TO COMMEND Mayor Cermak in his first speech of the campaign for saying the opposing candidates are "sulky." It has become a habit with Americans to say that every one who thinks differently from them is "sore." "Sulky" is entirely new and quite refreshing.

AUTOGRAPH.

You ask me to write in your birthday book
The time and the place of my borning;
But which of my birthdays shall I choose
And which of them be scorning?

Is only the date for a journey . . .
Through gates that are opened for entrances
In another jousting tourney.

And the way of life is a circling track
Which forever I have trod;
I cannot calendar my age, . . .
For I am as old as God.

ETHELYN BRYANT CHAPMAN.

IN AN ADVERTISING CIRCULAR telling us where we ought to go on our vacation we are advised to see the Great Falls of the Potomac where is to be seen the remains of work which proves that George Washington was a great engineer. Must the happy celebration of George's bicentennial be marred by dragging in the fact that he was a great engineer? We are so fed up on great engineers, oh you wouldn't believe!

AND, ANYHOW, isn't the government hoarding all those bureaus down in Washington? Hoarding a big fat bureau is just as bad as hoarding a two dollar bill, sixteen two cent stamps, and three street car transfers! Huh? R. H. L.

THE SIX PERIODS OF TEETH.

THE MOUTH HYGIENE QUARTERLY for January publishes a chart, prepared by Dr. F. B. Rhobotham and approved by the Society of Child Dentistry. It is called a "Survey of Dental Diagnosis During Childhood," and it supplies something of a program for children in such matters as relate to the teeth. It is arranged by periods, starting with four months before birth and extending to age sixteen. There are six age groups, and the advice given for each group is arranged under eight heads.

The prospective mother is advised to eat a diet that contains milk, leafy and green vegetables, and eggs as fundamentals. Cod liver oil, viosterol, and light are also noted as essentials. The baby's teeth are well under way at the time of birth.

The first nine months of life are important, from the tooth standpoint. In this period most of the abnormal sucking habits threaten. Cleft palate, harelip, and other malformations may be in evidence. The gums may need lancing to promote the eruption of teeth. The rate of the eruption of teeth is important. Mouth hygiene is to be started. Baby must not use a pacifier. He must get the right food, either from his mother or by correct mixtures of proper ingredients from other sources.

From nine months to four years is the most important time for the development of the teeth. Likewise for training in mouth hygiene. Watch for and correct all bad habits, such as lip habits and faulty speech habits. Watch the development of the jaws and note whether the occluson is good. Select "chewy" foods. Limit sweets and pastries. Check for abnormalities of teeth, jaws, and tongue. Use space retainers where teeth have been lost. Watch out for scurvy. Train in mouth hygiene. Institute early treatment of faulty enamel. Fill cavities that form.

While faults in central incisors, cuspids and first molars are likely to develop in the period preceding the four to nine year period, still the bicuspids and second molars are likely to go wrong. In this period malocclusions are apt to show up. The deciduous teeth are failing out and the permanent teeth are coming in. This must not be neglected. Watch for supernumerary teeth and teeth that will not erupt. It is important that space retainers be used. This is the best age to move misplaced single teeth into position.

In the nine to twelve year period proper diet is very important. This is the period in which to regulate malocclued teeth. Watch for decay in both sets of teeth. Fill cavities. Especially note the effects of decay in the deciduous teeth on the condition of the permanent teeth. Watch the gums. Strict mouth hygiene should be carried out.

In the twelve to fifteen year age period proper diet is a matter of great importance. Correction of malocclusion should be concluded. If it has been previously neglected it is still possible to accomplish much, but this is not the period of choice for starting this work. This is the age of decay and cavity formation and, in consequence, even more than in the preceding period, the teeth should be watched and faults repaired. Strict mouth hygiene should be carried out. In this period some permanent teeth are erupted. Watch for such eruptions. If they do not occur examine with X-rays.

CONSUMPTION SYMPTOMS.

D. P. writes:

1. What are some symptoms of consumption?
2. What causes a yellow, sticky fluid in the mouth every morning?
3. Does nail biting cause tuberculosis?

REPLY.

1. Among the early symptoms—those that cause one to suspect tuberculosis—are slight afternoon fever, lack of endurance, slight cough, and slight loss of weight. Among later symptoms are pallor, cough with sputum containing tubercle bacilli, higher fever, loss of weight, greater weakness.
2. The most frequent cause is sleeping with the mouth open and snoring.
3. No.

YOU SHOULD BE POISONED.

T. O. C. writes: I am a man of 36 years. I drink at the rate of 4 to 8 cups of coffee in the morning, and in the afternoon from 6 to 8 cups of tea. What harm will this do to the system? I always have pains in my boues and my complexion is very pale.

REPLY.

By all the laws a man who drinks as much coffee and tea as you do should suffer from caffein poisoning.

SHOULD RETURN STAMPS.

Whiting, Ind., March 1.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—About a year ago I received through the mail a shipment of assorted foreign postage stamps from a party in Lucerne. These stamps had not been ordered by me. The actual value, according to the sender, was $18.16, but he was charging only $2.20. He wished immediate payment or return of all stamps. At present I have neither returned the stamps nor paid for them. 1. Can he collect for these stamps? 2. Must I return them? 3. Does not this kind of business constitute a fraudulent use of the mail? 4. I doubt very much if some of the stamps are legitimate.

C. L. W.

1. Yes, if you appropriate and use them.
2. We advise you to do so, if he furnishes return postage.
3. No.
4. If you can prove that they are fraudulent this should be reported to the postoffice authorities.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

CHINA-JAPAN WAR, 1894

LONDON, Sept. 23.—The Japanese legation here received a dispatch positively confirming the reports that not a single Japanese warship was destroyed or sunk in the naval engagement in the Yalu river. A Tokio dispatch announces the receipt of a full report from Admiral Ito, the Japanese commander in the battle. He says that the total number of Japanese killed and wounded is 180. His flagship, the Matsushina, and the Hi Yei and the Hagaki were in the thickest of the fight and engaged the most powerful vessels of the Chinese fleet. They received the greatest damage. The Matsushima was especially pounded and it will be necessary to send it to Sasebo for repairs. Meanwhile Admiral Ito has transferred his flag to the steel cruiser Hashiado.

LONDON, Sept. 23.—A dispatch from Chemulpo, Corea, says that 32 Japanese transports convoyed by a fleet of warships have arrived at that port bringing reinforcements, consisting of 7,000 soldiers and 3,000 coolies with 2,000 pack horses, several pontoon bridges and batteries of mountain guns. The reinforcements were hurried forward to Seoul.

YOKOHAMA, Sept. 24.—A rescript has been issued convoking an extra session of the Japanese parliament at Hiroshima on Oct. 15. A letter received here from Tientsin says the Chinese fleet landed 7,000 troops on the banks of the Yalu river despite the attack of the Japanese squadron. The letter adds that the Chinese ships engaged in the battle off the Yalu river were short of ammunition.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 25.—The assembling of the new Japanese parliament Oct. 15 may be the occasion, according to advices received from diplomatic circles here, of a political union or reconciliation between factions which have hitherto been irreconcilable.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 26.—A Chinese warship intercepted the English ship Pathan in the Formosa channel on suspicion it was carrying munitions of war. The Pathan was taken to Kee-Lung, a treaty port of the island of Formosa, where its cargo was overhauled by the Chinese authorities.

28 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 12, 1904.

PARIS.—The Matin this morning publishes a dispatch from St. Petersburg which says that during a concert at court last evening, organized by the empress, a rumor was current that the Russians had lost heavily during the last Japanese attack on Port Arthur. Continuing, the correspondent says the fact that the imperial box in the concert hall remained empty, whereas the empress and the dowager empress and other members of the imperial family had been expected to be present at this strictly official fête, seems to give confirmation to the rumor.

ST. PETERSBURG.—The naval battle which began at Port Arthur yesterday morning at 8 o'clock continued without interruption until 1 o'clock in the afternoon. Russian official reports admit the following losses: Torpedo boat destroyer Stereguschtchi sunk by Japanese shells; part of crew captured, rest drowned; total number of crew not given, probably sixty-four officers and men. Capt. Mattoussevitch, Ensign Alexandroff, Ensign Zaeff, and Engineer Blenoff of the naval force were wounded and a number of sailors were also wounded. Damage to the shore batteries in the night attack included one officer killed, three officers wounded, two soldiers killed, eighteen soldiers wounded. During the day bombardment one officer was wounded, one soldier killed, and four soldiers wounded.

MARCH 12, 1916.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Gen. Funston wired the war department a request for four additional regiments of cavalry for patrol duty on the Mexican border. In response Gen. Scott ordered the First cavalry from Monterey, Cal., the Eleventh from Oglethorpe, Ga., and the Twelfth from Robinson, Neb., to leave for the border. The American army is going into northern Mexico to stay until order is restored and Carranza demonstrates ability to maintain order and prevent further incursions of outlaws into the United States. The army will number 12,000 to 15,000 men. It will not be withdrawn because of any protest by Carranza or upon mere assurances of Carranza that he is able to maintain order. Gen. Funston is to be the sole judge of the ability of Carranza to maintain order. This was the attitude of the administration today as the war department initiated the "punitive expedition" to take Villa "dead or alive" for his part in the Columbus, N. M., bandit raid. There is reason to believe that Brig. Gen. John J. Pershing will command the troops in Mexico, although there is no statement from army headquarters to explain why Maj. Gen. Funston is not to lead them as he originally urged.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—Orders were issued at Fort Sam Houston for the second battalion of engineers to entrain for Mexico. Instructed by the war department that he is not to command personally the troops that will cross the border, Maj. Gen. Funston began to arrange the details of the expedition and to plan for safeguarding the entire border.

LONDON. — The Germans made a sudden attack to the northwest of Reims and took French trenches to a width of 1,400 yards and for a depth of about two-thirds of a mile.

ADVICE TO TEACHERS.

Chicago, March 8.—Why don't the teachers of Chicago take a more determined stand against the tremendous waste in the noneducational activities of the schools? Chicago spends almost one-third of its educational fund on building maintenance. A school boiler, no more complicated than that in a large apartment building, is serviced by a $7,000 a year engineer, a $3,500 assistant engineer, and a well paid fireman. Yet many schools are so cold that children must wear wraps indoors. Furthermore, the waste in the building fund is also appalling. The board might very well suspend all building operations until it could pay the teachers.

The various teachers' organizations, with the exception of the High School Teachers' association, have been conveniently noncommittal about the misuse of school funds. At least their utterances have not appeared in the newspapers. They reply that the newspapers will not publish their opinions. Is this true? Is it possible that the teachers' organizations condone the situation? Or are they afraid of winning the displeasure of the board, or do they, because of their affiliation with the A. F. of L., entertain the mistaken notion that it is unfair to condemn other school employés, even though they be entirely superfluous?

The loyalty of the teachers to the children should transcend everything else. They should stand uncompromisingly against the spoils system and the bankrupting of the educational fund, both of which are inimical to the interests of the children. Only thus can the teachers merit the respect of the public and the press.

STUDENT OF GOVERNMENT.

THE BOYCOTT.

Chicago, March 9.—THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE is to be congratulated on its stand on the Japanese boycott question. The misinformed individuals who direct the activities of this group as usual consider only their own selfish interests.

What will we do with the 300,000 American silk mill employés who will be thrown out of work at a time when employment is at its lowest point in years?

How will our government replace the revenue this great industry has contributed every year? Ask the taxpayer, he knows!

Frankly, the whole movement is a joke. It hopes to prevent the purchase of silk merchandise. Textile experts today are unable to distinguish Chinese and Italian from Japanese silk in finished fabrics or garments. Any action against Japan must therefore include all silk producing nations, for thousands of bales are imported from Europe and China. Must the Chinese and Italians also suffer?

Let us wreck the silk industry and court a retaliatory boycott against cotton, shipping, etc. But don't forget to support the pacifists—at least until they drive us into war. SILKWORM.

NEWS FROM KENTUCKY.

Madison, Wis., March 7.—I act as spokesman for a group of my fellow students at the University of Wisconsin who are regular readers of THE TRIBUNE in asking why it does not print the truth about the Kentucky coal mine situation. Certainly there are enough truly sensational news events taking place down there to supply headlines for a week, what with gun law in force, killings taking place almost every day, and prominent, nationally known persons being kidnaped, run out of town, and beaten for attempting to feed starving people.

RAPHAEL FINE.

THE RAIL-BUS-TRUCK.

Harvey, Ill., March 7.—Referring to your editorial of Feb. 22 regarding "branch lines," may I suggest that in many cases where these tributary lines have become unprofitable it is due to the failure of most railroads to adopt the use of modern lightweight equipment in a constructive effort to overcome the highway truck and bus competition blamed for their predicament?

The type of rolling stock used on branch lines consists largely of antiquated locomotives and cars retired from main line service as obsolete. Such heavy equipment was designed for handling loads far greater in volume than is produced on many branch lines, and their cost of operation varies from 90c to $1.20 per mile. It seems obvious that for branch line service an equipment with a dead weight more proportionate to the weight of its pay load should be used. This factor is dominant in motor truck and bus service and is responsible to a large extent for the transfer of so much business from railway to highway carriers during the last decade.

An ideal unit for branch lines appears to be a specially designed railcar, powered with a gasoline engine, having a body similar to that of a motor truck or bus—or a combination of the two. The latter unit might be designed with the body built in two main sections, the front or motor car to carry 16 to 20 passengers, and the rear section (of the semi-trailer type) to carry baggage, express, and light freight. Such a unit could be operated at a cost of not more than 20c to 30c per mile. Estimating the daily mileage at 100 and the saving in cost of operation at 70c per mile, with daily and Sunday service, the annual saving is $25,550. A combination "rail-bus-truck" can be bought for approximately $15,000, and therefore in this typical instance the unit will pay for itself within seven months from savings in operating cost alone. In addition, it seems logical to assume that the superior quality of service rendered by such modern equipment would appeal to the shipper and traveler, and if supported by efficient sales effort on the part of the railroad management should regain much of their lost traffic.

A few roads have attempted to meet the situation by converting highway motor trucks—and even buses—to rail service by equipping these vehicles with flanged wheels. Such efforts, however, have in general proved unsatisfactory because equipments designed to run on rubber tired wheels do not long endure the peculiar conditions existent in railroad service and many accidents have resulted through their use.

AN ADMIRER.

Chicago, March 8.—Permit me to express my appreciation of the splendid cartoons by Mr. Orr on current political and economical conditions. They forcefully bring to the attention of the public in a graphic and compelling manner the causes of our present unfortunate situation and pointedly suggest sure remedies. Mr. Orr is to be complimented for his conception of these cartoons and THE TRIBUNE, as a powerful publicity agent, for its vision and courage in printing them. J. M. TOBE.

THE EXACT CENTER.

Davenport, Ia., March 8.—Mr. Orr's cartoons always hit the exact center of the targets at which they are aimed. That, perhaps, accounts for some of your readers squirming and developing heat under the collar. We hope Mr. Orr will long continue to give us such cartoons as are now appearing daily.

BANK CLOSING; ASKS DEPOSITORS TO GET THEIR CASH

Action Forced by Falling Off of Deposits.

All depositors of the Unity Trust and Savings bank, 3909 West North avenue, have been invited to step in and draw out their entire deposits. The bank is going out of business, according to its officials, because its deposits have shrunk until they are less than the bank's capital, and operating expenses cannot be earned.

A letter informing the depositors of the decision to close has been mailed out by Charles R. Stout, chairman of the board of directors, and John Henry, secretary. They stated that the closing would be an aid in the present anti-hoarding campaign, as the $200,000 of capital and $20,000 of surplus would be released for various forms of business activity.

Chairman Explains Action.

In an interview Mr. Stout said that the stockholders were entitled to a return on their investment, and added:

"Under normal conditions, such as those of a year or more ago, when this bank had almost a million dollars in deposits, it was possible to operate profitably. Today it is impossible for us even to make operating expenses.

"There is no sense being in business if you cannot make money or break even. So we have decided to go out of business in an honorable way. The bank's depositors will be paid in full.

"Unless the public realizes that it cannot make of its community bank a clearing house for checks and transit items, without keeping sufficient cash on deposit to allow profitable operation, banks cannot remain in business."

Bank Started in 1928.

The Unity Trust and Savings was started in 1928. On Dec. 31 it had deposits of only $324,000. Members of the board of directors include Ald John S. Clark, Julius A. Alcock, Ed Clayson, M. Greenberg, William J. Sievert, and Carl Wehrum.

Another northwest side bank, the Mayfair State Savings, 4436 Lawrence avenue, ceased to accept deposits on Sept. 30 and notified all depositors to take their money out. Two others in the Chicago area have taken the same means of closing out their business.

DE VALERA CUTS OWN SALARY IN ECONOMY DRIVE

Pay of Irish Ministers Is Also Reduced.

BY HUGH CURRAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, March 11.—President Eamon de Valera has opened a campaign to lessen the costs of the Irish Free State government. The new cabinet ministers will have their salaries greatly reduced. De Valera himself will receive 1,000 pounds [about $3,630] less than the salary of William T. Cosgrave, former president. His salary will be 1,500 pounds [about $5,445] annually, and all other members of the cabinet, 1,000 pounds each, or a reduction of 500 pounds.

The parliamentary secretaries, not yet named, will receive 750 pounds [about $2,725].

Papal Nuncio Calls.

De Valera has taken up his office in Cosgrave's old quarters with plaques of Michael Collins and Arthur Griffith, whom he opposed in the civil war, looking down on him. He appeared today smartly dressed in black and in two days time has developed a tremendous sense of importance.

The papal nuncio called to present his congratulations this afternoon. Later the French and German ministers saluted him.

The general impression is that President de Valera will be successful. The army is loyal and so are the police and civil service. The only fly in the ointment is the attitude of the Irish republican army, to which most of the twenty men released from prison by De Valera yesterday belong. The republican army is no longer an "outlaw" organization. It is again seen on the surface.

Eye Republican Army.

Its newspaper proclaims freely that it stands for a republic for all Ireland and complete separation from England. It is clear that De Valera cannot follow this course all the way.

Such a demand, it is feared, would mean a conflict with England. In the meantime, all eyes are turned on the republican army's movements. Its newspaper stated that "it was never contemplated that the organization would pledge allegiance to a government which functions within the British empire."

Interest is centering on the St. Patrick's day military parade next Thursday when Frank Aiken, minister of defense, will take a salute from the Free State army. It is rumored that the republican army may stage a counter demonstration.

DE VALERA'S FRIENDS IN CHICAGO PLAN FOR 'VICTORY BALL'

Well wishers of Eamon de Valera, recently elected president of the Irish Free state, will hold their annual ball in the armory at 16th street and Michigan avenue the evening of March 17. All Chicagoans of Irish birth or descent are invited to attend. The affair will be known as the "grand victory" ball.

TRIAL OF FOUR IN GECHT KIDNAPING SET FOR APRIL 4

The trial of four men charged with the kidnaping of Dr. Max Gecht and his wife, Georgia, was set for April 4 by Judge John Prystalski in the Criminal court yesterday. The Gechts were held prisoners in a cottage at Palos Park until $1,856 ransom was paid for their release.

Attorney Ward Swalwell, alleged "tip-off man" for the gang, and Edward Finnen have asked separate trials. The other defendants are John Pingera and William Thomas.

Bonds for Charles [Buster] Brown, who was brought back from New York on another kidnaping charge, were set at $75,000. Brown is linked with Louis Alterie, former Chicago gangster, who became a dude rancher in Colorado, in the charges of kidnaping Edward Dobkin, a gambler. Alterie is out on bands of $50,000.

The Woman Hater

BY MAY EDGINTON

SYNOPSIS.

Mrs. Chapelle is the owner of Flaxen's Casino, near the water front of Port Bal, which was established by her first husband of dubious color, who had fathered her daughter Aya, and was the refuge of her second husband of dubious morals though unimpeachable antecedents, who had brought his little daughter Faire to the island and remained there until his death.

Malise Bookes, aid-de-camp of Sir Philip Persian, governor and commander in chief of the Tama islands, Bal and St. Rosario, obtained an invitation for Mrs. Chapelle and her daughters to attend the government house ball. Faire's pride makes her reject the belated honor because the Chapelles had until now been left out of the ball list. Mrs. Chapelle and Aya believe it is because she doesn't want to go in their company. Faire admits to herself with misgivings the truth of their accusations. She prefers to remain in the casino, where she and Aya had been trained to work by their mother. She strolls over later to watch the gayety of the ball from a sheltered grotto in the governor's garden. She sees Mira Worcester, a faded beauty, and young Robert Grand, the governor's secretary and ward, steal away to a secret rendezvous. The governor follows them out and finds Faire. He requests her promise of secrecy regarding the incident. Faire is stung by his formal treatment of her. She overhears him tell Bookes that he is leaving at dawn for St. Rosario, where trouble is brewing. From a high knoll over the deep water Faire waves the governor a mocking farewell, but as she does she slips and falls down the cliff and is rescued from the water by Sir Philip. The governor is anxious to save his young ward from a scandal. Worcester has become suspicious and has threatened Mira. Bookes promises to save the boy by proving it was another girl and not Mira he'd been meeting. Bookes calls on the Chapelles. He threatens to close Flaxen's and have them deported unless Faire consents to clear Mira. Realizing all she stands to lose, Faire accompanies Bookes to keep a rendezvous with Robert Grand, Worcester comes upon them and departs with apologies to Grand when he finds it is Faire with him and not Mira. On her stepmother's insistence Faire accompanies her and Aya to the polo match between the government house and the island teams.

INSTALLMENT XII.

A VISIT TO THE GOVERNOR.

Faire held herself reined in tight, still, hoping for the blaze that went over her to die, for her body to be cold again. She was looking mechanically with the rest at the fastest pony in Bal enjoying a preliminary canter down the field. On its back Sir Philip Persian looked part of the pony.

"God! Y'know, he rides," one of the men said.

The four smiled and, concentrating looks on Faire, chorused: "Isn't that crazy? To be a woman hater! The governor doesn't know what's good."

She did not hear them. She was quiet, still, her eyes drawn to Persian. The pony came back across the ground like a streak of lightning and then settled down to be good for a moment, to stand, playing with his bit.

"Cruel devil!" she was thinking over and over. "Yes, cruel devil. Cruel devil."

Cruel devil, disposing of hearts, of lives, of honor!

"There's your boy, Faire. He looked—he looked!" cried Mrs. Chapelle, leaning to her as little Grand galloped by.

Faire shook off the fat hand.

"He oughn't to have looked—but he did!" Mrs. Chapelle confided to the cotton grower next her and thinking:

"The Hon. Mr. Bookes can't say I don't play up! Why, I don't even acknowledge that Mira Worcester is in it at all by now."

Also she thought, comforted, of the safety of Flaxen's. They wouldn't close it up now. Joe and Mantigua must be careful till a new governor came and that was all.

She caught something in the boy's eyes that made her reply.

"First chukka!" said the voice in Faire's ear.

She was still looking after Persian, who had finished near the government stand. He was already off his pony; his English groom held his next mount. He had saluted friends in the stands briefly. He was not talking. He examined the fresh pony's bit and tried his stirrups.

"Faire!" shrilled Mrs. Chapelle on a note of triumph.

Little Grand stood before them. He looked very fair and clean and his blue eyes were gazing straight at her. He had bowed formally to Mrs. Chapelle and Aya and nodded, "How d'you do?" to the men.

Faire Chapelle looked back at him. Her eyes dark with memories of that hateful night spoke to him plainly: "O! Need we meet again?"

"How are you, Faire?" said the boy in a particularly clear voice that reached at least all the front row seats.

She caught something in the boy's eye that made her reply. He had nerved himself to do this. He had a purpose! Fate or authority impelled him. She had a vague blur of these reasons for his appearance before her. She answered him: "I'm very well. It's a fast game today."

"Glad you find it so. Worth watching, eh? I have a note for you. Could you read it now?"

He fished the note from his breeches pocket. And, conscious of the overwhelming proximity of Ma Chapelle and the curious cotton growers, she rose from her seat, leaned on the front of the stand to read the note. A give-away gesture, people thought, the girl leaving her seat to lean over near her lover.

When she had opened the letter she knew what blind impulse had made her take it from range of Chapelle eyes. It was headed "Government House." Philip Persian wrote in his own hand:

Dear Miss Chapelle:

I will send my car for you at eight o'clock and shall be glad if you will spare time for a talk. This is my first free time since I returned from a pressing call to St. Rosario or I should have got in touch with you before.

Yours truly,
PHILIP PERSIAN.

"May I take the answer?" Grand was saying.

"Yes. Just say 'Yes.'"

"Thanks."

He saluted. His troubled blue eyes smiled faintly into hers and he walked away.

She put the letter in her coat pocket and sat down.

"Who was it from, Faire?" shrilled Mrs. Chapelle.

"O, no one who matters," she said indifferently.

"Get it out of her pocket, there's a good boy!" Mrs. Chapelle roguishly besought the man between her and Faire.

But what he saw in the girl's eyes checked him. He would have liked to obey Ma Chapelle, to put an arm—already impatient—about this slim witch and have a charming tussle with her for that letter whose import interested him not at all. But her eyes dared him.

"Secrets, Ma. Secrets," said he.

"Secrets!" echoed Aya.

"Secrets!" admonished the other cotton growers. But again she sat pale and withdrawn, tight reined, looking indifferent, thinking: "He can't want any more of me! He can't! He can't!"

She must go. She must obey. But surely she had paid the whole price demanded for Flaxen's?

Tea in the marquee; the cotton growers managed it. Aya, chubby and arch, was giggling. Mrs. Chapelle, fat and arch, was chuckling—as if that hour of fear and weeping only two nights ago were just a dream! A man's hand always holding Faire's elbow—one of her hosts, possessive—curious, cold eyes glancing at her from women's faces and curious, warm eyes in the faces of men.

Once Mira Worcester, Bookes in attendance, actually touching shoulders with her! Mira Worcester, exquisite and haggard, expensive and painted—startled, annoyed at the touch, at their juxtaposition, glancing at her with eyes that went stony; unknowing, unseeing eyes, blank of recognition. She moved away quickly, shepherded by Malise Bookes. So strange to think of this woman, again secured and safe, as the haunted hunted woman of two nights ago! So strange to think of the Lelong cloak—that had known so much—passing from her body to the body of Faire Chapelle, and now lying unloved—this lover's cloak—and unwanted in the mean little Chapelle house! So strange. . . .

"Why not a drive?" one of the cotton growers was repeating. "Why not a drive in my new car and dinner at my place, eh? You three ladies. Just as you are, sweet enough." She was aware that Mrs. Chapelle and Aya had already eagerly assented before she gathered herself to answer:

"I can't."

A Chapelle chorus of protest, then gradual silence, dawning realization of something, a snicker. Her hands clenched till the nails drove into the palms.

"A date, lovey?" said Mrs. Chapelle. "Well, boys, secrets! Secrets! As you said just now. Let her alone."

Aya checked tears. Just as she had known that the invitation to the ball had been given because of Faire, so she knew why the man with the new car asked them to drive out and dine at his house. Because of Faire! A flurry of talk from Mrs. Chapelle, and Aya determinedly losing her powder puff. And during this flurry they found Faire had slipped away.

"Mind you, she's difficult," said Ma Chapelle, "my own nice girlie; but difficult, I give you my word. Now Aya here is always sweet."

Faire did not change her suit of faded tussore. She bathed and brushed her hair straight off her forehead, behind her ears so that the weight of it dropped in short, heavy curls on her nape, but she put the old suit on again. And she waited for the governor's car without touching the lonely evening meal that the cookboy had prepared for her. At Flaxen's they asked for her, but in spite of Mantigua's wheedling—"I could sell dem as much champagne, miss, as there is water in the 'arbor if you appear for a moment for dem to drink your 'ealth"—she would not come. No. In saving Flaxen's she had—irrevocable lightning decision—finished with it.

Bright Sayings of the Children

"Did you enjoy your visit yesterday?" I asked my friend's little boy.

His reply was the bobbing back and forth of his curly red hair in assent. "Only," he said with a bit of a frown, "mama told me to wash good and clean, 'cause we were going out among strangers, and what do you think? . . . They weren't strangers at all, 'cause soon as they saw me they all called, 'Hello, Red!'" D. D. L.

Loma, aged 3, wanted her mother to read the "funnies" to her. Mother was busy bathing the baby, and as she put him on the scales to weigh him Loma asked, "Will you read to me when you are through scaling the baby, mother?" E. L. W.

Are you one to whom the aroma of savory soup makes an irresistable appeal? Can you relish a luncheon of soup or a "soup supper," and leave the table with a glorious feelin' and a gourmand's content? I hope you are, for the soups taken up this morning are truly sufficient unto themselves. They shouldn't be used for a preamble to a hearty dinner. That is an occasion for a light broth or consommé.

The first one is the mushroom barley soup. Either fresh or canned mushroom may be used. If the canned are your choice, omit the cooking directions given in the recipe, and add the cooked mushrooms to the completed soup. However, if you can wangle the fresh ones, you'll like them better.

MUSHROOM BARLEY SOUP.

1 onion
2 tbsp. of coarse barley
3 carrots
1 stalk of celery
1 tbsp. of butter
1 tbsp. of flour
2 quarts of stock

Soak the mushrooms for an hour and then boil them with the barley. When the mushrooms and barley are tender, drain and add the chopped onions, carrots, and celery. Brown the butter and flour and blend. Add to the vegetable mixture. Add the whole to the soup stock and simmer gently over a low flame for an hour before serving.

After the mushroom barley soup we have a meatless potato soup which yields six to eight servings. . . . Better count on six if you threaten to be hungry. . . . Take five good sized potatoes. Peel and cut them in small cubes. Boil them for twenty minutes in just enough water to cover. Add salt and pepper seasoning to taste. Mince one large onion and sauté it in three and one-half tablespoons of butter or fat. Add one and one-half tablespoons of flour to the onion. Add the potatoes, their liquid, and four tablespoons of chopped celery to the pan. Cook slowly for about forty-five minutes. When the soup begins to thicken, add one quart of milk—or half cream and half milk. If you add cream and milk, add the cream to the soup as it is about to be served. This should be strained through a colander before pouring, and should be served only with croutons or crisp wafers.

Though we do not accept noodles as a fitting escort to the table with the potato soup, they do deserve attention. Of course, you can buy excellent noodles in all the stores, and almost any kind you choose. But sometimes we like to make our own, so here is an easy recipe for them.

NOODLES.

Beat one egg. Add to it a pinch of salt, and flour sufficient to make a stiff dough. Roll out on a dusted board in a very thin sheet. Let it remain on the board to dry. Then roll up tightly and cut off very thin slices from the roll. Just before serving, drop into the soup to cook only a few minutes.

Marrow balls are another good addition to some soups. These are good with vegetable and meat soups which have no milk ingredients.

MARROW BALLS FOR SOUP.

1 tbsp of marrow
pinch of salt
pinch of nutmeg
3 eggs
1 tsp. of chopped parsley
3 tbsp. of cracker crumbs

Wash and thoroughly cream fresh marrow from a soup bone. Add the seasoning and the lightly beaten eggs. Beat five minutes. Then add the parsley, and sufficient cracker crumbs to make soft dough. Let stand thirty or forty minutes and then drop in half teaspoonfuls in the boiling soup.

♣—10,7,5

West dealt and bid a no-trump. North passed. East took out with two spades. Now every one knows on a hand of this sort that you must take out your partner with long major holding and the required number of high card tricks. There is simply no doubt about it. But look how it worked in this particular hand. South passed. West, of course, raised his partner's spades. He had more than adequate support and his hand looks as if it ought to play far better at spades than at no-trump.

After a pass by North, East, of course, went to four spades.

South opened the ♥ 5, dummy came up with the A, North playing the 8, and declarer the 6. Dummy then led the ♥ 2, North played the Q, and declarer trumped with the ♠ 3. Declarer then led the ♠ 4 to dummy's ♠ A, dummy leading back the ♠ 5, and declarer taking the trick with the ♠ K. The trump suit was then cleared. Declarer, to the fifth trick, led the ♦ 7. South played the 2, dummy finessed the 9, and North took the trick with the Q. North then led back the ♥ K, which declarer trumped with the ♠ 8. Declarer then led the ♦ 6 and dummy took with the ♦ A, leading back the ♦ 10. North ducked by playing the ♦ 3. East played the 5, and South took with the ♦ J. South, to the ninth trick, led the ♣ 10, which North took with the Q and returned the ♣ K, which declarer took with the A. Declarer now must lose a club trick and then can take the twelfth and thirteenth tricks with the ♠ 10 and 9.

The irony of the hand being that if East and West had bid badly [according to all rules of the game] and landed in a three no-trump declaration they could have made three no-trumps and the game without taking a finesse. While East found the play at the very first trick North was far too clever to be left in the lead at trick eight. He knew that if South did not have the ♦ J he could not set the contract. He knew, moreover, that if he came into the lead at trick eight and was then forced to lead to trick nine that East and West would come romping home with the game. The only chance is for North to duck [and he did]. South did have the J and East wondered why he had ever paid any attention to anything he had ever read and, consequently, had not played the hand at no-trumps.

Here is Monday's play-a-problem:

NORTH.
♠—10,9,4
♥—7
♦—9,8,7,6
♣—8,7,6,5,2

WEST.	EAST [dealer].
♠—K,Q,3	♠—A,J,6,5,2
♥—6,5,4,2	♥—A,9,3
♦—A,3,2	♦—K,10,4
♣—K,10,3	♣—A,4

SOUTH.
♥—K,Q,J,10,8
♦—Q,J,5
♣—Q,J,9

Bid and play this hand and then compare the result with that printed Monday.

Girls Continue to Flock Here Seeking Jobs

43,801 Persons Served by Travelers' Aid in Year.

The current era of unemployment has failed to discourage young girls, inexperienced in the ways of the city, from seeking their fortunes in Chicago. They continue to pour into town by bus, by hitch-hike method, by private automobile, and by train, increasing many fold the responsibilities of the Travelers' Aid society.

At the annual meeting of the aid society last night at the Chicago Woman's club officers and workers told how service had been given to 43,801 persons during 1931. In the report of Judge John P. McGoorty, president, attention was called to the continued large percentage of young women coming to the city in search of work.

"The numbers of young women to whom the ways of the city are unknown but who are courageous enough to try to find work in Chicago has not greatly diminished even in these times of unemployment," the judge declared. "In the last year the numbers of hitch-hikers and passengers in private touring cars coming to seek employment has greatly changed the complexion of our service. Where it was possible we have persuaded such dependents to return to their homes."

A noted increase in the number of mental problems and small children traveling alone in proportion to the number of cases served, was pointed out in the report of Mrs. Britton I. Budd, a member of the board.

"There is a marked decrease in the numbers of immigrants coming to or through Chicago," Mrs. Budd's report stated. "In 1929 our immigrant appointments numbered 12,718, in 1930 there were 8,818, and in 1931 only 1,952. In the last months of 1931 we noted a trend of immigrants eastward."

Among others assisted by the aid were aged persons, of whom 1,362 were served, runaway children, and dependent persons being transported to their place of legal residence. An eight hour service was instituted in the Union Bus terminal to protect the inexperienced traveler, similar services having been conducted in six railway terminals for several years. All this was done despite a reduction in staff of almost half.

Howard W. Odum, chief of the social science division of the Century of Progress, the principal speaker, told the aid's board of directors that the Travelers Aid must perform an important service during the World's Fair.

"We expect to bring 50,000,000 people to the World's Fair," he said. "We expect an average daily attendance of a million. There will be thousands of people who will come here who think they can take care of themselves, but who will need the watchful care of the Travelers Aid."

Judge McGoorty was reëlected president, Willis H. Scott and Mrs. E. I. Cudahy, vice presidents; Mrs. Ignace J. Reis, secretary; M. E. Greenebaum, treasurer, and Alice R. MacMaster, executive secretary. Mrs. George B. Dryden was elected to fill the vice presidency vacated by Cyrus H. Adams Jr.

Red Flannels and Bed Warmers have gone . . .

Why not the old-fashioned idea about Hot, Heavy Foods?

TIME WAS when the winter season brought out the old red flannels, the bed warmers — and a switch from fresh, crisp foods to hot, heavy dishes.

We've said good-bye to flannels and warming pans — thanks to our modern steam-heated homes, warm offices and well-heated schools. However, a lot of folks still think that cold weather makes it necessary to spend hours over a hot stove, cooking heavy foods. That's why winter menus are usually more trouble and more monotonous.

But a change is taking place here too. More people every day are eating crisp, ready-to-serve cereals like Kellogg's Corn Flakes. And what a delightful difference it makes! No work (unless you heat the milk for the children). Meals as crisp as summer itself! Delicious and healthful.

Try Kellogg's tomorrow for breakfast. Enjoy them with either cold cream or hot milk. Splendid for the children's evening meal. These crunchy flakes, thoroughly steam-cooked by Kellogg in Battle Creek, are so easy to digest they encourage restful sleep. Rich in energy, full of appetite appeal — dietitians advise them.

Why not order a red-and-green package of Kellogg's from your grocer?

Film of Night Club Will Hold Your Interest

Says Actor Doesn't Look Like Valentino.

"DANCERS IN THE DARK."
Produced by Paramount.
Directed by David Burton.
Presented at the Chicago theater.
THE CAST.

Gloria	Miriam Hopkins
Duke	Jack Oakie
Floyd	William Collier Jr.
Gus	Eugene Pallette
Ollie	Walter Hiers
Fanny	Lyda Roberti
Louie	George Raft
Max	Maurice Black
Ruby	Frances Moffett
McGroody	DeWitt Jennings
Marie	Alberta Vaughn
Benny	Paul Fix

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

Unless I'm a heap worse guesser than I think I am, mail for the next few days is going to be heavy with letters asking: "WHAT'S the name of the man in 'Dancers in the Dark' who looks like Valentino?"

To end your suspense pronto—his name's George Raft. Really, when you size him up and pull him to pieces, he's NOT like Valentino, who was, as you know, tall and romantic looking with an irresistibly winning personality. This chap is small and somewhat sinister appearing with a hard-as-nails-mien and a slow, low voice that promises trouble. The resemblance between Mr. Raft and the late Mr. Valentino lies only in that much overworked "subtle something"—but it's there. And now you know the name—Raft.

He has been well cast as villian extraordinary of the night club where the heroine is a "blues" singer, the hero plays the saxophone and the hero's buddy, Duke, leads the band and croons and wisecracks over the radio. Nice, spontaneous work by Jack Oakie as this popular Duke.

Well, the saxophone player, and the singer, who had once—"because I didn't know any better"—been Louie's [Mr. Raft's] girl, get "that way" and plan to marry. Duke, assured that his pal Floyd is about to be "done" by this blond, slings a load of monkey wrenches into the romantic works. This interferes for a time with the smooth running of the machinery, but in due course of time all turns out nicely for the lovers.

Miriam Hopkins, the little girl from Georgia, who did such a beautiful job of vamping Frederic March in "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" as to cause the editor of Photoplay to cry aloud in a wilderness of deadly serious sirens for "More girls who can wreck a man with a smile!"—gives a warmly appealing as well as highly intelligent characterization of Gloria.

William Collier Jr., as her Life and Thought, is likeable. Maurice Black is, I guess we can say "atmospheric" as the night club owner, and support is adequate throughout. Direction is unusually commendable.

"Dancers in the Dark" holds right on to your interest from first flash to finale. Can I say more?

"IM GEHEIMDIENST."
(In Secret Service).
Produced by UFA.
Directed by Gustav Ucicky.
Presented at the Cinema theater.
THE CAST.

Vera Lanskaja	Brigitte Helm
Higgins	Willy Fritsch
Lanskoi	Oskar Homolka
Dubbin	Theodor Loos
Wassilieff	Karl Ludwig Diehl
Kaulwitz	Harry Hardt
Tomilin	Ferdinand Hart
Natalie	Tamara Desni
Chef des Geheimdienstes	Eduard von Winterstein
Reichskanzler	Friedrich Kayssler
Sokaluk	Alfred Beierle

Willy Fritsch is a favorite with Deutsch movie goers and others—myself included—who hugely enjoy his singing, his capers and his love-making. Now, we learn, that he can also detect, and, unless eyes and ears deceive us, play the violin. Great is versatility!

In the dramatic rôle of a German secret service agent, he acquits himself quite as well as he has ever done in his lighter screen moments.

The plot is woven round the adventures and romance of a representative of the German intelligence department in St. Petersburg, and so deftly, excitingly and convincingly is the subject matter presented that the picture will prove engrossing even to those whose knowledge of German is limited.

The acting is uniformly fine so far as the men in the cast are concerned. The heroine's performance is one that will arouse debate. Some will hold that Brigette Helm is another Garbo, and rave about her. Others, as did I, will think her a stiff, 'starey-eyed, sleep-walker sort of pantomimist of no appeal whatsoever. She is striking looking in an emaciated fashion and knows how to wear clothes.

Sets and scenery are unusually atmospheric and some arresting work has been done with the camera. There's a man hunt—and escape—in a blizzard so breath-takingly realistic, that you shiver and pull your coat about your shoulders. A watchmaker's shop, with its striking clocks and snow-clotted windows is another effective photographic study.

The picture's main defect is too much dialogue. Some of its long stretches of conversation grow wearisome. But as a whole here is a photoplay to jot down on your movie memo as A1 entertainment—be you Deutsch or English, Frog, Russian, or just a little half and half of anything.

See you tomorrow.

Long Engagement Declared a Good Test of Real Love

BY DORIS BLAKE.

On postponing marriage until the young man is financially able to meet it, "Alice" offers her experience:

"My sweetheart and I have been keeping steady company since we were both 19. That is, five years ago. We were both in college then. It seemed advisable to wait two years until we were graduated. But when that time came and the boy friend got a job, the compensation was too small to consider venturing on the stormy sea. Thus, we are waiting still.

"His job is now a good one, with splendid chances for advancement as the years go on. But now our wants have grown and we still think his income too small to undertake the furnishing of a comfortable home.

"I have profited greatly through waiting, for my love for him is now boundless and I have come to overlook all the little faults which annoyed me in our first years of company. We are together daily—and that over a period of five long years is a test. He is most faithful, even after having been on a job several thousand miles from me for an entire year of separation.

"I am not advising every one to wait. But I believe that if one can stand the strain it is most worth while, for I know we shall be doubly appreciative when next year comes and our hopes for a happy life together are realized. Had we both given up school and struggled along it might, too, have succeeded. But we were brave enough to gamble."

And here's hoping the happy life together is realized next year! And hoping even more that marriage is not postponed into the next and the next year. That clause in "Alice's" otherwise idyllic romance about the wants having grown and the income being too small to undertake the furnishing of a comfortable home is the dangerous link in the otherwise perfect chain. That's what the marriage postponers have to be on the lookout for. New wants rise with each advancing year. A bigger apartment, a better located apartment, a better furnished apartment is the ambition with each delayed year. In the meantime the personal wants of the two are on the rise also. It's happened times without number that after years of delay and growing wants the income, in comparative marriage terms, is shrunk to about the size of a first salary.

Finds Health Rays of Sun Off One-Third

Pasadena, Cal., March 11.—(AP)—Sunbathers are having to expose themselves a third longer to get the healthful results of six or eight years ago, Dr. Edison Pettit, astronomer of Mount Wilson observatory, said today.

"The sun is sending down only about two-thirds the amount of ultra violet rays it did then," said Dr. Pettit, who began his investigations of the rays in 1924 at the observatory, a branch of the Carnegie institution of Washington.

"Just as radio reception apparently improves as the sun spots decrease in a cycle, so the ultra violet radiation seemingly falls off. We are within about two years of the turn in the spot cycle, when, if our assumptions are correct, ultra violet rays will begin to increase.

"Animals and plant life are affected more than human beings by the decrease in ultra violet radiation because they are in the sunlight more. This ray's promotion of health and growth comes about through the photochemical effect of its light on 'ergosterol' in the tissue, which is converted into vitamin D.

"We have found this light, referred to as 'biological light' for convenience, is a great variable for several reasons, the chief of which is the varying distances at which it passes through the ozone layer, 30 miles above sea level, due to high or low sun."

Dr. Pettit said it has been erroneously believed that ultra violet rays were stronger in high altitude. He has found that the amount contributed by the sky [that is, reflected from air molecules] falls off as the altitude increases nearly in proportion to the increase in intensity of direct sunlight. The net result is that the total effect [sun plus sky] is the same for all elevation.

Proper Care of Scalp Is First Step Toward Beautiful Hair

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

It's interesting to recall that years ago woman's greatest beauty interest was a complexion one. Then, there gravitated into post-war consciousness a silhouette interest that is still going strong; and recently, hair is added to the now firmly established triumvirate. In earlier days hair was not a passive interest, of course—but length was the standard and so was color.

Today it's cleanliness, luster, grooming and becoming coiffure that hold feminine interest. Length is a matter of comparatively little concern, so long as a smart coiffure can be managed with what hair one has. But quality of hair, its sheen, its brilliancy of natural [or other] color is the big concern.

Which prompts me to repeat my prediction that in a short time we will see the same general hair texture improvement the last decade has accomplished in silhouette and complexion betterment, because women are finally beginning to understand that hair beauty begins with the scalp, begins beneath the scalp, depends upon a healthy blood stream and all the other things—and they are using their heads and hands to perfect their hair.

They know that if hair is dull and lifeless, a becoming coiffure is not going to solve their difficulty. They know they have to feed the scalp oil in order to recondition the hair. They are doing it with hot oil treatments, or they use some pomade to rub into the scalp. Incidentally, many women use the good old reliable, equal parts of olive oil and castor oil.

The trade is helping magnificently with penetrating oils and helpful instructions along this very line. But it is the consciousness that hair is not a plant that will get along on water once every couple of weeks [in the shampooing process] that is gratifying.

We are up against living and working and breathing conditions today not experienced in other generations. We are up against permanents, waving iron and drying machines unknown to earlier generations of women. Consequently, we have a set of hair problems that call for current day treatment.

Our more fastidious women are already up in line with the new hair movement. And this little morning's sermon is delivered with the hope that you are one of them. Or, if not yet, that tomorrow will find you going over that scalp of yours with the idea of extracting from it all the hair beauty you can possibly muster.

Miss Virginia Doering Decides on March 30 for Marriage

Her Sister Nancy Recovering from Illness So Date for Wedding Is Set.

BY JUDITH CASS.

MISS VIRGINIA DOERING, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund J. Doering, whose engagement to Robert Martin McCutcheon Stevenson of Philadelphia and New York, was announced early in February, has decided upon Wednesday, March 30, as the date for her marriage.

She had quite a time making the important decision, for first she had to find out when her fiancé could leave his work, naval architecture, in New York long enough to come west and claim his bride, and then her sister, Nancy, who attends school at Rhinebeck, N. Y., was taken ill and had to come home and, of course, the bride-to-be would not set the date until she was sure Nancy would be well enough to attend her.

Nancy is getting along nicely, however, and so Miss Doering feels sure that her "baby sister" will be all right by the end of the month to be the only bridesmaid at the wedding. The middle daughter, Edna, is to be the maid of honor. Colin James Herrick of Philadelphia will be best man for Mr. Stevenson and ushering will be Edmund J. Doering II., Paul Adams of Germantown, Pa.; Grandberry Jackson of Nashville, Tenn.; John Selzer of Philadelphia; Eric Cavendish-Owensmith of New York; Ben D. Hill Jr. of Washington, D. C., and Drew Eberson of New York.

The wedding, which is to be a small one, will take place at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon at St. Chrysostom's, and will be followed by a reception at 1344 Astor street, where the Doerings reside with Mrs. Doering's mother, Mrs. Edward T. Jeffery.

Parties for Mrs. Cabot Brown.

All sorts of pleasant parties, most of them fairly small and informal, however, are being planned for Mrs. Cabot Brown, who arrived yesterday for a visit with her father, James Keeley, of the Ambassador. Mrs. Brown is the middle one of Mr. Keeley's three daughters, and as Peggy Keeley was immensely popular here before her marriage to young Dr. Brown in 1926, who took her to San Francisco to live.

Mr. and Mrs. Graham Aldis [Dorothy Keeley] are giving a luncheon for Mrs. Brown tomorrow at their residence, 100 East Chicago avenue, and next Tuesday they will entertain at dinner for her.

Mrs. Luther S. Hammond Jr. [Ruth Keeley] will entertain in Lake Forest for her sister, and Mrs. Ambrose C. Cramer [Mary Meeker] also is planning to do something for her old friend after she returns from New York next Wednesday. Mrs. Thomas L. Marshall ["Buffy" Carpenter] will give a dinner for Mrs. Brown next Friday.

Mrs. William H. Hubbard has invited a few friends for tea this afternoon at the Arts club for Mrs. Frederick H. Smith of South Orange, N. J., who is visiting her sister, Mrs. Frederic W. Upham of 1260 Astor street. Mrs. Upham is entertaining at supper tomorrow night for her sister and later the party will attend the ice hockey match at the Stadium. Mrs. Smith is leaving Monday for the east.

Mrs. Charles S. Dewey, vice president and official hostess of the Alliance Française, will hold a reception for Prof. Bernard Fay tomorrow afternoon in the rooms of the Alliance in the Fine Arts building. Prof. Fay is a member of the Northwestern university faculty and a popular French lecturer.

Comte Serge Fleury, who will be in Chicago next week visiting the Daniel Burnhams and the Hubert Burnhams, will speak before the Alliance Française on April 16.

Lecture on Shanghai Today.

Among those who have made reservations for George Sokolsky's lecture, "Behind the Shanghai Crisis," today at the Council of Foreign Relations luncheon at the Hotel La Salle, are Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Loesch, Russell Tyson, Mr. and Mrs. George Richardson, Robert Hall McCormick, Mrs. Ralph Winston, Mr. and Mrs. Lessing Rosenthal, Yoshio Muto, the Japanese consul; Dr. Hugo F. Simon, the German consul, and Mrs. Simon; Allen D. Albert, Mrs. David Cook, Mr. and Mrs. James Otis, Miss Martha Fitts, and Arthur Barnhart.

A number of society's younger members will be busy Monday at two of Michigan avenue's smartest shops, for at one, on North Michigan, the Junior league president, Miss Dorothy Schmidt, and five members will be acting as hostesses at the spring showing of fashions from the leading French houses, and at another, on South Michigan avenue, members of the Lighthouse Volunteer Aids will be acting as mannequins at that shop's spring fashion show.

Assisting Miss Schmidt will be Miss Janet Kirk, Mrs. Walter McLallen III., Mrs. Willard Boyden, Mrs. John L. Cochran, and Mrs. W. Press Hodgkins.

The members of the board of directors of the Chicago Lighthouse for the Blind are sponsoring the fashion show on South Michigan, in which the Lighthouse Volunteer Aids will display the styles. Mrs. Stanley Morrill is president of the board, the other officers being Mrs. J. Glen Sample, Mrs. Charles Shedd, Mrs. Ralph T. Winston, Mrs. Everett L. Wyman, Mrs. Oliver P. Kline, and Mrs. B. Botsford Young. Among the models will be Mrs. Harry B. Clow Jr., Mrs. Howard B. Peabody, Mrs. Young, Mrs. Kline, Mrs. Clifford Templeton, Miss Betty Histed, Miss Dorothy Moorehead, and Miss Elizabeth Ricker.

English-Speaking Union Tea.

Mrs. Chauncey Borland, chairman of the common interests committee of the English-Speaking Union, will introduce Miss Clara E. Laughlin before her talk at the Union tea next Tuesday afternoon at the Blackstone. The hostesses will include Mrs. Godfrey Haggard, wife of the British consul; Miss Helen Gilbert, Mrs. John Paul Welling, Mrs. Howard Linn, Mrs. Waller Borden, and Mrs. Donald MacWilliams.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph R. Richardson and their baby grandson, Frederick L. Spencer Jr., left a week ago—just before the belated appearance of Chicago's winter—for their lovely estate, "Rose Cottage," at Gaylord, Va. They will remain in the south until June. Their daughter, Mrs. Walter Webb Crawford, may go down in April to spend a week with her parents.

Miss Henrietta Countiss has been trying to get away for a little winter holiday for some time, but a series of birthdays in the family she is mothering has prevented her departure. Her stepfather, Lawrence Whiting, had a birthday not long ago, and so did her little stepbrother and one or two other relatives. Birthdays mean important celebrations in the household where Miss Countiss has been mistress since the death of her lovely mother, and she doesn't feel that she should be absent from the festivities. She hopes now to get away for a trip after Easter.

Travels of Late Winter.

C. Frederick Childs of Lake Forest will return tomorrow from a week's stay in New York and a week-end trip to Atlantic City with his son, F. Newell Childs, who is a student at Yale. Mr. and Mrs. Childs have been at 900 North Michigan avenue for the winter months.

Mrs. John L. Senior of 229 Lake Shore drive will leave on Tuesday for the east to hear her daughter, Mary Senior, sing in "Pinafore" on Thursday evening at the Concord academy. They will spend the Easter holidays in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Zaring and their little son have gone to New Albany, Ind., for a ten day visit with Mr. Zaring's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Elbert R. Zaring.

Mrs. Welch Dickinson and Mrs. Jefferson Jackson have returned to the Lake Shore Drive hotel after a two months' trip to Arizona and California.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin L. Lobdell of 2716 Prairie avenue have left for a three weeks' motor trip to South Carolina.

Mr. and Mrs. Cyril P. Mertens, who are at the Seneca for the winter, expect to move out to the Moraine hotel in Highland Park as soon as the golf season starts.

The next meeting of the Junior Friends of Art will be a Mexican fiesta at which the Hon. Rafael Aveleyra, consul of Mexico, will be a guest. Señora Milla Dominguez, Señorita Mercedes Navarro, Señorita Wilma Farnsworth, Señor Alfonso Mendoza, and Señor Salvador Castenares will give a musical program and Señorita Xenia Zarina will dance. All the artists will be in Mexican costumes. Verree Teasdale and Walter Woolf will be present also. Miss Olga Menn is president of the organization and Mrs. Ferdinand A. Bunte is chairman of the program.

Another fashion show! This one is to be in Wilmette on March 29 at the Woman's club, given by the senior and junior boards of the Wilmette Infant Welfare society for the benefit of the Alice H. Wood station at 1964 North Halsted street. There will be a bridge party also.

Six Film Folk Carry Comedy Into Audience

Use Disguises to Attend "Lysistrata."

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., March 11.—Constance Cummings, Harold Lloyd's new leading woman, her boy friend, Eddie Woods, who played in "Public Enemy" and "Mother's Cry" and a quartet of other young folks from the film colony nearly busted up the performance of Nance O'Neil's Los Angeles stage revival of "Lysistrata" at the Orpheum theater.

The six, the young men all wearing false beards to their waists and thick mustachios, and the girls in red or white wigs with lorgnettes, marched solemnly into the theater and took over an entire first row in the center of the house.

When their especial pals, King Kennedy and Bruce Reilly, young actors in the cast, came onto the stage the first time the six stood up and bowed. Thereafter the boys industriously chewed cigars, or read newspapers with graven faces, and Miss Cummings and the other girls wielded their lorgnettes and acted bored, while the audience divided its time between watching the show and the queer sextet in Row One.

Miss O'Neil didn't begin to think it was funny until the next day, although other members of her cast had a hard time preserving composure. Besides Miss Cummings, who evidently has gone into serious training [like a prizefighter does] to be funny with Lloyd, and Woods, the party included Margaret Ettinger, who is an agent for movie people and who formerly was a Chicago reporter; Ross Shattuck, artist; Marquis Busby and Muriel Babcock, Los Angeles drama writers.

There's an air of deep mystery about the friendship of Weldon Heyburn and Greta Nissen, both players on the Fox lot. Some reporters clamored to know the truth of reports the pair had been married within the last several weeks. Heyburn's response was to confide that he might have something to confide later.

Universal had to shoot re-takes of scenes for its serial, "The Great Airmail Mystery," because a sign in one scene showed "Virgin Mines." The Will Hayes movie code does not permit use of the word "Virgin" in any manner.

Georgia Hale, Charlie Chaplin's former leading woman, is the latest to lauch a stage tour. Fatty Arbuckle left Wednesday for Seattle to join a stage stock company for a limited run.

Moving day already has lasted from last December for the Fox studio and it's still moving day in a big way with everything being transferred gradually from the former studios covering twenty acres in the heart of Hollywood, corner of Western and Sunset avenues, to the new, one mile square "Movietone City" in Westwood, eight miles distant.

Today a force of workmen was busy completing the relocation of 500 feet of office buildings—the former "Park Row" group of offices for movie authors at the old studios. The workmen simply sawed the buildings into four pieces, loaded them on the biggest trucks that ever carried a load eight miles over Hollywood streets, brought them through a hole in the walls of "Movietone City," and patched them together again. They will now form offices for the Fox staff of seventeen directors.

Ethlyn Clair, 1929 Wampas baby star and wife of Ernie Westmore, the Radio studio makeup man, is fitting up a nursery for an event expected in early summer.

A new novel by Elissa Landi, the movie star-authoress, came out yesterday and a Los Angeles book store sent a uniformed messenger to present volume one to the actress at her studio where they made a special occasion out of it with cameras spinning and everything.

Florence Lowe Barnes, well known woman flyer, and Capt. E. H. Robinson, technical expert for "Sky Brides," gave a big stag party for all the aviators in the company and other headlined pilots now in southern California tonight.

If the Paramount studio had been properly forewarned they could have taken action pictures of the party that would be a wow—that's how successful the party was. The pilots celebrated the breaking of training after weeks of scenes in the Richard Arlen air story.

Asks for Engineering Textbooks.

"I am interested in engineering and all its relations. I especially want to study the calculations of engineering, and wonder if any one can give me books on the subject. B. N."

The textbooks which you used in your engineering course and which you no longer need would stand this boy in good stead when he's trying to secure a foundation for his engineering work. May he not have them?

First Inauguration to Be Re-enacted at Military Ball

The army and navy ball, which this year is to be a more brilliant event than in recent years in celebration of the Washington bicentennial, will be held on April 30. Announcement of plans was made last evening by Col. T. A. Siqueland, general chairman of the Chicago Washington bicentennial commission, who will act as chairman of the ball.

The date was selected as the anniversary of the first inauguration of Washington as President. It is planned, Col. Siqueland said, to reenact the entire ceremony surrounding the historic induction of Washington into office. It is also the plan, he said, that the guests come in colonial costume. All foreign consuls, as well as foreign military officers, it is expected, will join the American military and naval officers in military dress.

The ball will be held in the grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel. Honorary chairmen for the ball, Col. Siqueland said, will be Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, Rear Admiral Walter S. Crosley, and Mayor Cermak. Committees will be named later.

Old North Side Loses Splendor to Era of Shops

Advance of Business Blow to Mansions.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

FORTY years ago Chicago's near north side boasted more wrought iron entrance gates than all of ancient Nuremberg. A few still click behind the visitor—the rest have long since been loaded on the junkman's cart.

This I learned yesterday when delving into the pasts of Michigan avenue, Rush and Cass streets as they stretch out from the river to the historic water tower. My interest in the subject was aroused by the gala Mexican fiesta the Woman's Chicago Beautiful association is to hold tonight in the old Abram Poole home at the southeast corner of Michigan avenue and Erie street. It's the first time in a long day the old mansion has been the scene of a party since Abram Poole Jr., the well known artist and director of the Art institute, built himself a Lake View avenue house and later removed to New York City. Still this dwelling remains, however—a background for Chicago's proud memories and picturesque tradition.

Few Remain as Homes.

In these seven short blocks of Michigan avenue that used to be known as Pine street only one other old house remains intact; that is the four story brick dwelling at Michigan and Erie where Mrs. William Francis Dummer still makes her home. Born a Sturges almost next door to her present residence, Mrs. Dummer has never known another address. Shops for jewels and laces, furs and pictures, fine raiment and fine linen; business buildings with mighty and massive pillars; and kitchenette apartments, where gas stoves and dishes are supplied and the bed is a thing of household magic, now mark the sites of the other fine homes that spelled north side society two score and ten years ago.

Of course, you know that these mansions represented the second crop for the great fire leaped across the river, swept the entire neighborhood of its original homes and went devastatingly on to the northward. Today the only structure still standing past which the fire burned in this northern section is the old pseudo-Gothic water tower with its cluttered and clustered base and the 12 towers at varying heights—unless you count the square tower of St. James' church with one toothpick standing higher than the other three. This was all of the church that withstood the blaze.

Ogden Home Escapes Fire.

The home of Mahlon Ogden facing Walton place between Clark and Dearborn escaped the fire, but later gave way to the Newberry library. It was only one of the lordly domains built on the wooded north side in the thirties, forties, and fifties. Isaac N. Arnold who bought a whole estate in the thirties for less than the price of a single lot today used to pride himself on his fine specimens of oak, ash, maple, cherry, elm, birch, and hickory. In the palatial Pine street home of Mrs. W. W. K. Nixon, dancing school, always a social event of the first magnitude, was held.

But enough for the houses that went with the great fire. It is those that were reared afterwards and remain today we are most interested in, and there are better specimens by far on Rush and Cass streets than on the busy Michigan avenue. In recognition of the half dozen or more families of McCormicks that built up Rush street in the eighties, the neighborhood was for a long time called "McCormickville." Alister McCormick now holds title to the large square fronted, square topped house that the Hamilton McCormicks built at Rush and Ontario. Interesting, the windows for there are but two to each floor on the front of the house and each of these has but a single great pane of glass with no dividing crosspiece.

Businesses Enter Old Mansions.

Just back of this at Rush and Erie stands the home of Mrs. Emmons Blaine [Anita McCormick] and the huge brown stone mansion erected by Cyrus H. McCormick occupies the next block to the north. Harold F. McCormick is now the owner. A modiste is the present occupant of the Robert Hall McCormick house on the west side of Rush at Erie and to the north there still stands the home of William G. McCormick. Midway between Rush and Cass on Huron is the red brick house built by the second man to bear the name of Cyrus H. McCormick. Now it provides spacious quarters for one of the town's most popular caterers.

Next door to the west is the spacious house that Julian Rumsey built "for about $40,000" in 1874. For two generations the spreading veranda and the handsome ballroom were a favorite rendezvouz of the Ogdens, the Fairbanks, the Leiters, and the Joseph T. Ryersons. Today as a tea shop the public is welcome to inspect the great house. On the other side of the Cyrus McCormick house, John Alden Carpenter occupies the residence that was once the home of Mrs. William Blair.

The gabled red brick mansion of Watson F. Blair at the southwest corner of Rush and Superior is for rent as a studio. So have the Joseph Kirkland, Cyrus Bentley, and Cyrus H. Adams homes across the street seen their better days. Back at Ontario and Rush Judge Mark Skinner's house has given way to a hotel many stories high while a parking lot marks the site of the Henry J. Willing mansion across the street.

Prince Gets Passport for 'Mr.' as He Marries Sweetheart

LONDON, March 11.—(AP)—An unsmiling young prince of the blood, Lennart of Sweden, today sacrificed his royal privileges, quarreled with his mother, and married a commoner.

A colorless British civil ceremony in Princes row register office united the grandson of the king of Sweden and Miss Karin Nissvandt, a beautiful girl with corn colored hair, the daughter of a wealthy Stockholm business man.

No sooner had the ceremony ended than a representative of the Swedish legation stepped up and handed an envelope to the prince and in it was a new passport which certified that he was plain "Mr. Bernadotte."

This was the bespectacled young man's symbol of sacrifice—an exchange of title and royal highness for the girl he loved.

No member of the prince's family was present, and the small wedding party included only the bride's mother, aunt, and uncle. The young man's mother, the Grand Duchess Marie Pavlona, who made an eleventh hour protest against a civil ceremony, and refused to attend, later sent a telegram of best wishes, however.

Lennart and his bride left late in the afternoon for a continental honeymoon, after which they will settle down on the bridegroom's estate on Lake Constance in Switzerland.

The refusal of the prince's immediate family to attend was based on King Gustav's refusal to approve the union and the grand duchess' insistence on a church ceremony.

"Marriage is too solemn an event to be undertaken in undignified surroundings," explained the grand duchess, who had come all the way from New York with Lennart's uncle, Grand Duke Dmitri, to "hear wedding bells." "He should have gone to church—any church just so it was a church."

Lennart's father, who was playing tennis on the Riviera, simply remarked: "I will have nothing to do with that wedding."

Outside the register's office, where the simple ceremony was said this forenoon, a cockney crowd of a thousand or so sent up a cheer when the tweed clad prince who was and the pretty bride attired in a green traveling suit appeared.

Inside, the register official in whose presence they had repeated the words of the marriage ceremony had just wished them a happy married life. Lennart took Karin in his arms and kissed her ardently.

The couple was rushed without any rice and old shoes into a large car to the hotel where a wedding luncheon was served. There Lennart read his passport and seemed to realize for the first time that he had been shorn of his titles. He turned to his bride and raised his glass.

"Skoal, Mrs. Bernadotte," he said, and she replied: "Skoal, Mr. Bernadotte."

Declares Pensions Fail to Reduce Costs of Homes for Poor

Not one state which has enacted an old age pension law has decreased the cost of the county homes, Anne Hinrichsen, director of the women's bureau, Illinois Manufacturers' association, said yesterday. She addressed a morning meeting of the Chicago and Cook County Federation of Women's Organizations in the Hotel Sherman.

The term "old age pensions," she said, is applied without distinction to all proposed systems of old age protection from the most highly socialistic and costly to the most conservative and inexpensive. The lack of statistics to date regarding the aged dependent in Illinois further obscures the situation, she said. Miss Hinrichsen is a member of the Illinois Commission for the Study of Poverty and Dependency in Old Age created by the general assembly.

"The argument for old age pensions which has been most vigorously presented is the claim that the pension system would save the aged the sad trip 'over the hill' to the county home. This argument is untrue and the most subtle and dangerous one advanced. The county home population of Illinois is made up of the crippled, the ill, the paralytic, and the feebleminded. Poverty alone seldom sends any person to a county home.

"The care of the aged is a matter of public concern. It should not be an excessive burden to the taxpayers."

Beige Popular Fashion Color in Accessories

But All Shades Await the Shopper.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Fashion scouts, out for authentic information for the costume accessory makers, should be given a good big hand this spring, for they evidently convinced the designers of gloves, handbags, shoes, hosiery, and jewelry that failure to find properly matching costume accessories, even after hours of shopping, ruins the most riotous enthusiasm of any shopper.

This spring the supply seems ample. Hitherto illusive blues are blooming in every case, baffling brown shades beguide you to linger and match them with suit or coat, greens greet you everywhere and red and black can be had in so many different leathers and fabrics that your selections can be made in less time than it takes to change your mind.

With beige playing a very fashionable return engagement as a leading color for spring, pessimistic matchers will be pleasantly disappointed to find such a startling array of beige accessories. You can buy beige bags in every shape and style, in smooth, honey colored patent leather, in suavely sleek suede, in dull silk crêpes, the new corrugated dull kid leather, and smart swagger alligator effects.

Large Initials on Purses.

Large envelope purses can be marked as your own with the new two inch high gold metal monograms, pouch bags have self-covered, amber colored crystal or shell frames. Silk bags for afternoon are contrasted with tortoise shell frames or ornamented with designs in enamel and brilliants.

Beige gloves are so good looking that the smartly dressed woman wears them with practically every costume in her spring wardrobe; classic slipons are available in washable doeskin, fabric, dull kidskin and glacé kid. Gauntlet gloves in beige usually have a bit of colorful contrast or else stitchings in colors to harmonize or contrast. A pair of soft creamy beige gloves can be worn with any costume for any hour of the day or evening so when you find a shade that particularly pleases you, invest in several pairs, as the prices are so low that acquiring half a dozen pairs for such a modest sum is merely being thrifty.

Hosiery in all the beige shades are as numerous as the glove collections, and, as you know, beige hose fit into all new colored footwear. All the lovely new lace, mesh, and not so new ingrain chiffon stockings sponsor every fascinating tone of beige. No matter what beige shade you need to restocking your present supply you will have no color problems unsolved.

Beige Opera Pumps Plentiful.

Beige opera pumps, the model that is becoming with every costume, are also plentiful in dull kidskins, in suedes, in fabrics and crêpes. Sandals with the T strap and lovely high heels for afternoon or evening wear are as abundant and varied in style as they are in shade.

You can find exquisite beige colored printed handkerchiefs, beige blouses to harmonize with gorgeous beige colored suits, beige fluffy fox furs for either furless coats or suits as well as sheer wool daytime dresses. Beige hats top costumes of all colors, including a matching beige, but these hats are as versatile as gloves and hosiery in their ability to do double duty in every wardrobe; in fact, double double duty, for the fashion-wise woman wears them with equal smartness with every model of her 1932 wardrobe.

Buttons Are Sole Trimming of This Striking Model

WOMAN'S AND MISSES' DRESS.

This striking model with jacket-like bodice gives the figure a becoming slimness through its wrapped diagonal closing. Buttons make the only trimming, and the straight line of the skirt with low placed plaits, makes it desirable for smart daytime wear. Black and white in a tweed-like woolen and shiny Persian red bone buttons, or a black rough silk crêpe with eggshell shade novelty ball buttons are suitable suggestions.

The pattern, 2545, comes in sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 36 and 38 inches bust measure. Size 16 requires 4 yards of 39 inch material.

Childish Swear Words Needn't Cause Concern

Youngsters Fail to Get the Significance.

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

His father went tip-toeing back into the kitchen. "Come," he whispered to his wife. "Don't say a word and don't make a sound, but follow me."

Like conspirators they crept through the living room and at the crack of the open door leading into the bedroom the husband halted, so his wife could get the full benefit of the view. There, standing on a chair which had been pulled up before the dressing table mirror, was the chubby young son. He was—well, what do you think he was doing? He was swearing like a trooper, and watching himself do it!

"I don't know just how they dealt with it, but it was obvious as they told the tale that they knew about how to evaluate the use of such words by a mere youngster. Novelty was one attraction of those strange words. Using them made him see himself "a big, strong man." He could sense how, if he felt mad, they might be grand to have command of. As curses and condemnation, or of their sacrilege or blasphemy he had not the faintest conception.

Knowing why a child repeats or makes use of "swear" words or others more objectionable is what determines our response to them. Even if we get a shock, we're not going to show it. Shame, blame, scolding or punishment are not tools for erasing the word. They only serve to emphasize it, to deepen its impression.

If we want it to slip away, we must be casual at first. Most of these swearing importations die a natural death if they're not given importance. If it persists, then we can make a point—not of its badness—but of the fact that we have better ways of talking and that we'll use our own word in its place.

Evening Coat of Heavy White Satin Does a Russian Blouse Imitation

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The long, long evening coat is receding from fashion now that spring is come. Newer are coats that are knee length and even shorter. Of course, the very short jacket stays, but it has to be worn under some sort of more adequate wrap while the weather continues to blow cold as it does.

Evening wraps that match the dress and make an undisputable ensemble are back in style, and they are much smarter than the wrap of separate material and color where the ensemble is worn to informal parties, etc.

Patou is reviving these one-material, one-color informal evening ensembles and has a new wrap for them that is a knockout. It's a satin coat which looks a lot like a Russian blouse. You can see this coat in the accompanying sketch. This Patou ensemble is being worn by some of the most glorious exponents of the art of dress in Paris and the jacket seems to be slated for prominence in styles for late spring and summer.

The illustrated outfit is made of heavy white satin and the Russian blouse-jacket is buttoned up at the neck and around the wrists just like the blouse Russe. The dress is simple in cut, with a blouse that is as high necked as a day dress but split to the waistline down the back between two satin bows shown in the small sketch. The skirt is gored and slightly flared.

Sorority Tea Tomorrow.

TEN MICHIGAN MEN QUALIFY FOR TRACK FINALS

INDIANA IS 2D WITH SIX; DECIDE TITLES TONIGHT

Fuqua, Thompton Win Heats.

Michigan, defending champion, led the field of qualifiers in the preliminary events of the Big Ten indoor track meet at the University of Chicago fieldhouse last night. The championship finals will be contested tonight.

Ten Wolverines survived trial heats in five events. Indiana, a ranking title contender for the first time in history, was second with six qualifiers, bu' its chances were in no way dimmed, since Hoosier entries registered faster times than their Michigan opponents in three of the crucial races, the quarter, half, and mile runs.

Forty-one Survive.

Ninety-six men, the pick of the conference in the 60 yard dash, the 70 yard high hurdles, and the three middle distances, competed last night, 41 of them surviving. Chicago, Illinois, and Iowa placed four men each, Minnesota three, and Northwestern, Purdue, and Wisconsin one each.

Favorites in each of the five events qualified easily. No remarkable times were recorded. Twelve men survived the quarter finals of the 60 yard dash, Hal Thompton of Minnesota leading the field with an effort of 6.3 seconds. Don Renwick and Jack Campbell of Michigan and John Brooks of Chicago won their heats in 6.4.

In the 70 yard high hurdles, Jack Keller of Ohio State finished his heat in 8.7 seconds, five yards ahead of the field. George Saling of Iowa equaled Keller's time, but only after fighting to nose out John Black of Ohio. Capt. Roy Black of Chicago took the third heat in 8.9.

Fuqua Leads in Quarter.

Twenty-seven men were entered in the 440 yard and two eliminations were necessary, Ivan Fuqua, Indiana sophomore, making the best time of 51.2, four-tenths of a second faster than that of Capt. Edwin Russell of Michigan, defending champion in the event. Three of the six men left in the race are from Michigan. Charles De Baker and E. Lemen, a comparative unknown, are the other two. Norm Heyne, Northwestern's chief point hope, was beaten by Leck of Illinois in the semi-finals.

Chuck Hornbostel, another Indiana sophomore, ran a 2:00.8 half mile to lead the 880 yard field. Turner and Ecknovich of Michigan won their heats in 2:01.7 and 2:01.3, respectively. In the latter race, the most bitterly contested of the evening, three men finished inches apart, Crummey of Wisconsin nosing out one of the favorites, Stewart Skowbo of Iowa.

Henry Brocksmith, favorite to win the mile, found little competition in his preliminary heat, and coasted in to win in 4:29.3. Dean Woolsey of Illinois, regarded as Brocksmith's equal, was content with third place in the second heat, which was won by Popejoy of Purdue in 4:29.6.

Three Qualify Twice.

Three men qualified in two events, Keller and Saling in the dash and the hurdles and Crummey in the half mile and the mile.

No preliminaries were held in five of the ten events—the two mile run, the mile relay, the shotput, the high jump, and the pole vault.

Qualifiers in last night's preliminary heats were:

60 YARD DASH—Renwick, Campbell and Lamb [Michigan]; Keller and Fazekas [Ohio State]; Wallace and Brooks [Chicago]; Thompton and Hass [Minnesota]; Saling and Nugnis [Iowa]; Crouch [Indiana]. Best time, :6.3, by Thompton.

MILE RUN—Brocksmith, Neese and Kemp [Indiana]; Woolsey [Illinois]; Payne [Northwestern]; Popejoy [Purdue]; Wolfe [Michigan]; Crummey [Wisconsin]. Best time, 4:29.3, by Brocksmith.

880 YARD RUN—Turner and Ecknovich [Michigan]; Hornbostel [Indiana]; Smith [Illinois]; Brown [Ohio]; Crummey [Wisconsin]. Best time, 2:00.8, by Hornbostel.

440 yard run—Russell, Lemen and De Baker [Michigan]; Fuqua [Indiana]; Teitlebaum [Ohio]; Leck [Illinois]. Best time, 51.2, by Fuqua.

STANFORD VOTES TO KEEP WARNER 5 MORE YEARS

Palo Alto, Cal., March 11.—[Special.]—Glenn S. (Pop) Warner, Stanford university football coach, is assured of a job for at least five more years. His retention for that period was approved by the board of trustees at a meeting in San Francisco last night.

The approval was only a matter of form, as the board of athletic control recommended the move several weeks ago.

Warner was appointed coach at Stanford in 1924 and took charge of the team the following season. He has not been under contract.

Babe Must Sign Year's Contract at $70,000—Ruppert

New York, March 11.—[Special.]—"Babe Ruth is going to sign for $70,000 for one year."

Those were Col. Jacob Ruppert's parting words today as he left New York for the St. Petersburg, Fla., training camp of the New York Yankees. Col. Ruppert, who was accompanied by George Weiss, who was recently appointed head of the Yankees' new farm system, will arrive in St. Petersburg Sunday morning.

Col. Ruppert said he expects to confer with the home run king immediately after his arrival. Ruth recently announced he would sign a contract for $70,000 for two years or a one year contract at $75,000.

"Don't you think you will go a bit higher if the Babe insists?" a newspaper man asked.

Seek Author of "Sunny Texas" Motto.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Antonio, Tex., March 11.—Continued cold weather makes it impossible to say much more about the baseball prowess of the Chicago White Sox. We are, however, willing to post a few small wagers that our boys can lick any American league team at basketball. And why shouldn't they, with all the practice they are having these days.

Just to keep the lads from going stark mad, Manager Fonseca has sponsored the organization of basketball teams, and since frigidity seems to be a permanent dish, a schedule of formal basketball games, with rules, and everything has been arranged.

Lyonses Beat Caraways.

Today Ted Lyons' Whites beat Pat Caraway's Blues, 33 to 27. As might be expected, Lyons was the star of the game, though Appling, Erickson, Bowler, and Bartulis showed a lot of class. If they can play baseball as they play basketball the Sox are in.

While basketball is proving a good conditioner for those who can play it, romping about on the hard floor is proving a bit tough on some of the older boys who have bum dogs and throbbing shins.

Bobby Poser, late of the University of Wisconsin, arrived in camp today to seek employment.

"The axe falling will be delayed for a period just as long as the bad weather continues," Manager Fonseca said. "We are at least a week behind our training schedule and that means that I'll have to hang on to about a half dozen rookies at least a week longer before I can decide whether they should be retained or where they should be sent for development. There are a dozen men of the squad about whom I know nothing except their names and the color of their eyes and it scarcely would be fair to any one concerned to come to any decision until I've seen them do some baseball playing."

Fonseca to Use Waivers.

Manager Fonseca revealed today that he hopes to pick up a few players when the stronger teams in the majors begin to scatter their excess talent.

Fonseca said that Owner Comiskey had authorized him to claim any player he thought could add to the team's batting strength and Lew has doped out the names of several fellows on the squads of the leaders whom he believes he can spear through the waiver system.

Crane Retains City League Title; Defeats Calumet, 25-21

Crane Tech's heavyweight basketball team successfully defended its Chicago Public High School league championship by defeating Calumet, 25 to 21, in the finals at De La Salle gymnasium last night. Chick Levensky and Stanley Roseman led the champions.

Calumet failed to score a field goal in the first period, but free throws by Godfrey, Faloona, and Earl Keth, the lanky center, gave the team a 4 to 3 yead. Keth scored another free throw in the second period, but a long shot by Krechkowsky tied the score, 5 to 5.

Crane Steps Out.

A basket by Levensky put the champions in the lead, but at the end of the first half the score again was deadlocked, 8 to 8, Calumet scoring all its points on free throws. Crane rallied in the third period, however, to lead, 15 to 10.

In the fourth quarter Crane scored three successive field goals, holding an advantage of 21 to 14 on baskets by Levensky, Werner, and Kretchkowsky. Keth was fouled twice by Kretchkowsky and made good on both attempts.

Then Roseman made a field goal and Crane led, 25 to 18. With only a few minutes remaining, Phillips caged a free throw and Nyhlen a basket to end the scoring.

Lights Meet Today.

The victory gave Crane Tech its fifth title in the last six years. It lost the championship to Wendell Phillips in 1929, but defeated the south section champions in the finals last season.

Today Crane Tech's lightweight squad will meet Wendell Phillips for the league championship. Wendell Phillips defeated Tilden in the semi-finals at the Broadway armory, Thorndale avenue and Broadway. Crane advanced from the semi-finals by giving Roosevelt its only defeat of the season.

De La Salle Five of Joliet Defeats St. Mel for Title, 21-19

De La Salle High School of Joliet last night won the Chicago Catholic High School league heavyweight basketball championship by defeating St. Mel, the 1931 champion, 21 to 19, in overtime at the Loyola university gymnasium. A basket by Conroy clinched the victory.

Joliet led with two minutes to go in the regulation tme, 19 to 18, but a free throw by Hughes tied the score, 19 to 19. Then Conroy, with 15 seconds remaining in the extra period, sank a long shot to give Joliet the victory.

St. Mel, with its two stars, Allen and Rigney, scoring, took the lead, 8 to 4, at the half, but baskets by Simon and Conroy gave Joliet a 15 to 14 advantage in the third period. Simon sank three baskets and four penalty throws for Joliet.

Both teams will compete in the National Catholic tournament which will start at Loyola gymnasium next Wednesday night. St. Patrick, which was defeated by St. Mel in the playoff for the north section championship, and St. Philip, by defeating Leo, 40 to 25, last night at St. Rita gymnasium, also will participate in the meet.

Howlett and Foster led St. Philip to victory, the former collecting four baskets and Foster sinking seven field goals and one free throw. St. Philip led at the end of the first half, 24 to 6.

Mount Carmel, south section champion, will meet De Paul academy of the north division in the final round for the lightweight league championship at De La Salle gmynasium tomorrow afternoon. Mount Carmel reached the finals by defeating St. Philip ponies in a playoff for the sectional title.

BRUIN HURLERS ALLOW NEW YORK BATTERS 6 HITS

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., March 11.—The Cubs and Giants seem to be operating under the belief that the championship race is already under way. They put on another midseason thriller today, the first of six battles at Wrigley field, and the Chicagoans escaped with the favorable end of the decision by 3 to 1. The scarcity of runs indicated that the pitchers were revealing too many of their tricks. It was the Cubs' second victory in three games between the two teams this season.

LON WARNEKE.

If it weren't for the suspicion that the batters will get better as time goes on, there would be reason to feel elated over what Lon Warneke and Bob Smith did to McGraw's hitters. The lengthy Warneke, who is just reaching the whisker age, stood up in front of the New Yorkers for five innings and choked them off with three hits. Two of these happened to come behind a pass in the second, a run resulting. After Warneke had gone to the stable Smith yielded the same number of safeties in four sessions.

Passes Aid Cubs.

All the taps off Smith were of the two base variety, but whenever the pinch came he had no trouble making his getaway undamaged. The hitting of the Cubs, while it equaled that of the Giants in numbers, wasn't quite as healthy. They scored two of their markers on an infield bounder in the fourth when Roy Parmelee was looking around anxiously for his control. Two of their other half dozen hits also were of the infield variety. One of these appeared in the ninth and was the basis of the Cubs' third run. Clarence Mitchell, the old fellow who throws spitters with his left hand, was on the job at the time. In between Parmelee and Mitchell, the pitching had been conducted by Herman Bell, the ex-Cardinal.

Play Again Today.

The Cubs-Giants argument will be continued tomorrow with Charley Root and Carl Hubbell in the starting roles. Malone and Chaplin are expected to perform as relief men.

Warneke started the second inning by fanning Terrible Terry. The applause over this incident evidently went to the young man's head with bad effects. The subsequent Giant batters troubled him enough to cause one run to cross the plate. Ott hung around the plate until given a walk and Jackson rammed a single into right.

For an old fellow with bum legs, Stephenson did a good job running in to get Vergez's short fly. Then O'Farrell hit to send Ott home, but Parmelee bounded to Warneke for the third out.

Cubs Take Lead.

It was Parmelee's generosity more than a robust attack that let the Cubs get into a 2 to 1 lead in the fourth. English led off with a pass and was sacrificed by Cuyler. Barton walked and so did Stephenson, but in between the two free rides English stole third. Herman bounced a high one toward third and before it came down English was home and the bags were still crowded.

Grimm drilled a stiff grounder to short, but Jackson forced Stevie at third. Barton scored on the play.

A slight mistake in judgment on the part of Richbourg, who had taken Stephenson's place in left, came very close to giving the Giants a tying run off Smith in the sixth. Koenecke, the high priced bit of ivory purchased from Indianapolis, opened with a fly to left center, but Richbourg didn't go back far enough and the ball fell for a double. On Lindstrom's fly Koenecke dashed to third. He remained there while watching Terry pop to English and Ott fly to Cuyler.

The Chicago boys didn't lose any time framing up a reception for the veteran Mitchell when he reported for work in the ninth. Harry Taylor, performing in Grimm's place, bounced to Moore and beat it for a hit. Hemsley sacrificed. Smith also removed one of Mitchell's ears with a line drive single to center, scoring H. Taylor. Hack survived on Moore's fumble, but English was out on a roller to Terry, and Cuyler fanned.

In the Wake of the News

DEAR WAKE:

In April, 1852, Chicago negotiated its first great loan, $250,000, payable in 20 years, through Duncan, Sherman & Co. of New York City. This was on account of the inauguration of a new system of water works.

The growth of the city from 1850 to 1855 was marvelous. It was during this period that Chicago inaugurated its grand system of water works and drainage. Then, unfortunately, came its great setback, the panic of 1857. The city was so embarrassed that in September the council ordered issuance of $100,000 bonds. Controller Hayes went to New York to negotiate them. After exhausting his powers of persuasion he returned unsuccessful a week later.

In the winter of 1857 many laboring men were out of work. City authorities, in these most distressing times, were called upon to inaugurate public works to assist the unemployed. Special committees of the common council were appointed, who found it impossible to appropriate money from the city treasury for charitable purposes without express permission from the legislature.

Furthermore, the city could not, as suggested, make advances through credit to carry on public improvements then pending for which assessments had not been collected, because all taxes had been collected to their fullest extent and were paid in so slowly that the controller found it difficult to provide for the most necessary expenses. In the then state of the money market it was impossible to raise money by a loan.

The filling of Washington park, however, had been contracted for and provided employment for a great number. Most of the improvements ordered were made upon remote streets, and the assessments made upon adjoining property fell upon the poorer people. All that could be done, therefore, was for the city to hasten the construction of works for which orders had been passed and warrants issued.

Badger Prayer.

The taxes go sky high,
The boom for Garner's gaining strength

The principal as well!
Now we're sure the administration
Is headed straight for—well——.

But up here in Wisconsin
Give our Badger footballers a coach,

Fancipants.

Just Listen to Her Comeback.

Sir: In times of depression manufacturers call for industrial engineers to cut expenses and install efficiency. Why not put the housewife on an efficiency basis? Allow her a certain number of minutes for her sweeping, so many for dusting, so many for dishes, etc. In a few weeks she will finish her work so quickly that when hubby comes home to growl about the dinner she will have the snow shoveled off the walk and baby to sleep for the night.

Industrious Ted.

Former Major Leaguers.

Harvey: You remember Jim McGuire? He played major league ball from 1884 to 1907, 24 years, and caught more innings than any other big leaguer before or since. One year he caught every game Washington played. For many years after he quit playing he coached and scouted for Detroit. He now runs a chicken farm on the shores of Duck lake, near Albion, Mich. W. MICHIGAN SWIM TEAM QUALIFIES 11 IN TITLE MEET

Northwestern Places 9 in Big Ten Finals.

Columbus, O., March 11.—[Special.]—Michigan's swimming team again ruled the favorite to retain its championship in the Big Ten tonight by qualifying 11 men for the finals tomorrow night. Two new meet records were set during the preliminaries.

Northwestern, by placing nine men in the finals, is conceded a good chance to dislodge the Wolverines from the ruling seat, which they have held for the last three years.

Schmailer Wins 2 Firsts.

Michigan's star, J. A. Schmailer, was the individual star. He won firsts in the 200 yard breast stroke and the 220 yard free style, setting a near record in the latter. He came within one-tenth of the Big Ten mark, and was second in the 100 yard free style event.

Taylor Drysdale, Michigan junior, set the only individual meet record by winning the 150 yard back stroke event in 1:42.3, seven-tenths of a second faster than the previous record set by Marsh of Minnesota at Ann Arbor in 1931. Besides Schmailer in his three leading events, Michigan placed Ladd in the 100 yard free style, Miller in the 200 yard breast stroke and Ladd and Christy in the 220 yard free style. The Wolverine three men team also won the preliminary time heats in the 300 yard medley relay. Degener and Fenske placed in the diving event.

Northwestern placed nine men as follows: Murphy and Rosen in the 100 yard back stroke; Highland, Wilcox, and Smith in the 200 yard free style; Wilson and Wilcox in the 220 yard free style; Willard in the diving finals, and third in the 300 yard medley events.

Highland Nears Record.

Highland, incidentally, in winning the time trials in the 100 yard style, came within one-tenth of a second of the Big Ten meet record with a mark of 53.9.

Minnesota qualified five men, Iowa four, Ohio State three, Illinois two, and Chicago and Purdue one each. The qualifiers follow:

220 YARD FREE STYLE — Schmailer, Michigan; Wilcox, Northwestern; Brock, Illinois; Ladd, Michigan; Christy, Michigan and Wilson, Northwestern. Best time, Schmailer, Michigan, 2:18.

300 YARD MEDLEY RELAY—Michigan [Drysdale, Lemak, Kennedy], 3:11.2. [New record, old meet record held by Michigan—Meegs, Miller and Kennedy—3:12.6, set at Ann Arbor in 1931.] Minnesota, Northwestern, Ohio State, Iowa and Purdue.

DIVING—Wentworth Lobbdell, Iowa, first, 31.63; Richard Degener, Michigan, 111; K. A. Willard, Northwestern, 97.85; W. A. McCloy, Iowa, 94.24; F. C. Fenske, Michigan, 87.2; John Marron, Chicago, 81.15.

220 YARD BREAST STROKE—Schmailer, Michigan; Andre, Minnesota; Gilsdorf, Ohio State; Miller, Michigan; Williamson, Illinois, and Persons, Minnesota. Best time, Schmailer, Michigan, 2:35.7.

'STEINKE TO MEET FLOYD MARSHALL ON COLISEUM MAT

Hans Steinke, victor in a two hour match with Kola Kwariani, will be one of the ten heavyweight wrestlers in the St. Patrick's day show next Thursday night at the Coliseum. The German grappler has signed to wrestle Floyd Marshall of California.

With George Zaharias on the card, Marshall's addition means that two of the leading grappling ruffians will perform. Floyd takes pride in claiming that he draws more jeers and boos in many cities than does the Greek-American from Colorado. Zaharias meets Hans Kampfer, youthful German star. George holds a disputed decision over the Teuton.

The main man of the show is Jim Londos, who has not lost a fall in more than two years. Londos will trade holds in a finish match with George Calza, chunky Italian contender.

Physical Directors Hear Griffith, Brundage Monday

John L. Griffith, Big Ten athletic commissioner, whose subject will be "Intercollegiate Sports Versus Intramurals," and Avery Brundage, president of the A. A. U., who will address the group on the new Olympic diving rules.

MOON MULLINS—DROWNED OUT

Maier Arrives Today; Starts Drill Monday

Dave Maier, Milwaukee southpaw, will arrive tomorrow to finish training for his ten round light heavyweight title fight with George Nichols of Buffalo at the Chicago Stadium next Friday. He will begin drill at the Arcade gym Monday.

Avery Brundage, chairman of the American Olympic committee, yesterday notified the boxing committee of the Central A. A. U. that the Olympic tryouts for Illinois, Wisconsin, and Minnesota have been awarded to Chicago. The dates, site, and other arrangements will be completed within a few days. Capt. Roy E. Davis, chairman of the Central A. A. U. boxing committee, expects an entry of 1,000 boxers from the three states.

Tony Canzoneri, lightweight champion, yesterday postponed his nontitle bout with Harry Dublinsky at Philadelphia from March 28 until April 18 or 25. Benny Bass, former junior lightweight titleholder, has been substituted for Canzoneri against Dublinsky, March 28. Dublinsky leaves tomorrow for St. Paul to finish training for his bout there against Tommy Grogan of Omaha, Thursday.

Barney Ross, local lightweight, and Frankie Hughes of Clinton, Ind., will replace Prince Saunders and Buster Brown at Indianapolis next Tuesday. Frankie Battaglia, Winnipeg, Canada, postponed his Indianapolis bout until a week from Tuesday.

Rosin Mixture Protects Tree from Rabbits

BY BOB BECKER.

Although the common cottontail is an important game animal to hundreds of thousands of outdoor fans in the United States, many a campaign has to be conducted against him for attacking trees and shrubs. The barking of young trees (especially in orchards) constitutes a serious offense and an economic loss to the orchardist. Under such circumstances the cottontail becomes a nuisance.

Up our way the rabbits do no little damage during the winter and each spring when there is a lack of ready food, the loss of small apple trees and an annual forage of crocus plants and tulips (the green stuff always is inviting to the bunny in early spring), is our usual experience.

It Can Be Stopped.

But there is good news for landowners, orchardists and suburbanites who wish to immunize their trees. Prof. James A. Neilson of Michigan State college, at the Graham experimental farms near Grand Rapids, has discovered a repellant which, when applied to trees, makes the bark so distasteful that cottontails won't touch it. All that is needed is a mixture of linseed oil and resin, smeared on the tree trunks.

Prof. Neilson's experiment was conducted in a small orchard containing a variety of fruit trees. He surrounded it with screen and then placed 32 rabbits in it last fall. Burrows were provided for the cottontails, but they were given no food except that which might be obtained naturally within the enclosure. Some of the trees were treated with linseed oil-resin mixture and other were left untouched.

Trees Tell Story.

The orchard now tells the story. Standing side by side the tree not treated is badly barked by the hungry rabbits, and the treated one is untouched.

COLD PREVENTS PHIL GAME, BUT CARDS PRACTICE

Holdouts Worry Street and Breadon.

Bradenton, Fla., March 11.—(AP)—Despite a chilly wind and overcast skies, Manager Gabby Street ordered his world's champion Cardinals to the ball park for a workout today after the weather prevented an exhibition game with the Phillies.

The game will be played March 18 and the game scheduled yesterday with Indianapolis will be played next Tuesday.

Owner Sam Breadon and Manager Street held a long conference today, and while its subject was not announced, it was taken for granted that the holdouts, Chick Hafey and Charley Gelbert, were discussed.

PHIL ROOKIES WIN.

Winterhaven, Fla., March 11.—(AP)—Cold weather caused postponement of the Philadelphia Nationals' game with St. Louis today, but the Phils made up for it with an intra-mural tilt, which the rookies won, 1 to 0.

Reg Grabowski and Phil Collins, doing mound duty for the "B" team, held the regulars to three hits, all of which were made off Collins. Bob Adams and Homer Dudley, young righthanders, did the pitching for the "A" outfit, Dudley allowing five hits. Adams walked two batters.

BROWNS DRILL PITCHERS.

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 11.—(AP)—The work of training the St. Louis Browns' pitchers to hold the opposing base runners close to the bags was started today. Chad Kimsey had had trouble in keeping his base throwing intentions secret from potential base stealers.

Today he developed a technique of fooling the runner and giving no indication of where he intends throwing the ball. All pitchers were drilled in turn.

REDS WORK DESPITE COLD.

Manager Dan Howley, who has termed his players "100 per cent improved over 1931," sent them through a two hour workout, despite the cold.

HOLDOUTS WORRY BRAVES.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 11.—(AP)—President Emil Fuchs of the Boston Braves admitted today he was having trouble with holdouts. While watching his team polish off the rough spots in preparation for the opening of their exhibition series tomorrow Fuchs said Wally Berger, Bruce Cunningham, and Willie Sherdel still were outside the fold.

RED SOX ROOKIE STARS.

Savannah, Ga., March 11.—(AP)—Syver Slaalien, rookie right hander from Butterfield, Minn., took the Red Sox regulars down a peg today, turning them back in order for four innings except for a double by Van Camp. The Yanigans beat the Regulars, 4 to 3, in the seven inning contest.

2,000 PLAYGROUND WRESTLERS BEGIN TOURNEY TODAY

Qualifying rounds in the annual Board of Education playground wrestling tournament will be held this morning in four districts. Winners and runnersup will compete in the finals at McKinley park next Saturday.

The north district trials, with 700 wrestlers competing, will be held at Independence park, Irving Park boulevard and Springfield avenue, while the west section tournament will take place at Elmira Simons park, 3554 Wabansia avenue.

More than 700 entries have been received for the southwest division meet, scheduled at McKinley park, 39th street and Western boulevard, and about 550 will take part in the south district tournament at Armour square, 33d and Wells street. Three mats will be used in each section.

SHAMROCKS END SEASON WITH 7 GAMES IN 12 DAYS

The Shamrocks wind up their American league hockey season in strenuous fashion. Beginning with tomorrow night's game at the Stadium against the St. Louis Flyers, they are billed to play seven games in the next 12 days, four at home and three abroad. If the Shamrocks draw a bye in the playoffs, they will meet Kansas City or Duluth in the finals for the American league championship and the right to challenge for the Stanley cup.

Because of their heavy schedule the Shamrocks were given a layoff yesterday and today. While they are idle the Pla-Mors have an opportunity tonight to win the league leadership for a day by defeating the Hornets at Kansas City.

CANADIENS SEEK TO CLINCH TITLE AGAINST HAWKS

The Chicago Blackhawks, who strengthened their hold on second place in the American division of the National Hockey league by their 3 to 2 victory over Boston, will meet the Canadiens at Montreal tonight. The Canadiens need one more game to clinch their place at the top of the international division. Victory will virtually clinch a Stanley cup berth for the Hawks. Cup play starts a week from Tuesday.

The Blackhawks, Detroit Falcons, and Boston Bruins, who have been running neck and neck all season, are not mathematically in as yet. The Hawks have 44 points with four games to play, the Falcons have 40 points with five games to play, and the Bruins, with 39 points, also have five games to play.

MIDWEST LEAGUE MEETS.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: The Plot

GERMANY PLACES WREATH BEFORE BRIAND'S COFFIN

Hoover and Stimson Send Flowers.

PARIS, March 11.—(AP)—An imposing wreath bearing the colors of Germany and inscribed "Die Deutsche Regierung" [the German government] was laid tonight before the coffin of Aristide Briand, who will be accorded a national funeral tomorrow.

A floral offering from the widow of Dr. Gustav Stresemann, the German statesman with whom Briand worked to bring about a Franco-German accord, was given a place of honor in the famous clock room of the foreign office, in which the bier rested.

Alongside Frau Stresemann's offering were flowers from President Hoover, Secretary of State Stimson, and Ambassador Walter E. Edge, which were taken to the foreign office by Mr. Edge.

To this display of international mourning were added hundreds of modest bouquets of violets deposited by humble folk of Briand's homeland. More than 200,000 persons filed silently past the catafalque until 9 p. m.

Paris traffic will be halted between 2 p. m. and 2:05 p. m. tomorrow at the start of the funeral services. Cardinal Verdier, archbishop of Paris, who will bless the bier tomorrow, issued a statement in reply to Catholic critics who have objected to his participation because of the part played by Briand in the separation of the state and the church.

The cardinal said that his attitude had been taken by him alone "in all liberty." Emprasizing that he was responsible for his acts to the pope and to the pope alone, he said that "in the presence of death respect is due all Christians and all men of good will."

By unanimous vote of the 505 members, the chamber of deputies tonight confirmed the judgment of the senate that Briand "deserved well of the fatherland"—a high honor paid only to outstanding Frenchmen.

HARRY POWERS, WEEK TO LIVE, LOSES ALL HOPE

Moundsville, W. Va., March 11.—(AP)—With only one more week to live Harry F. Powers, the "Bluebeard" of the West Virginia hills, apparently is resigned to his fate—death on the gallows. He will be hanged at 9 p. m. next Friday in the West Virginia penitentiary.

The corpulent "mail order Romeo" was convicted of slaying Mrs. Dorothy Pressler Lemke, Northboro, Mass., divorcée, whom he lured to his Quiet Dell garage near Clarksburg, but he also killed Mrs. Asta Buick Eicher and her three children of Park Ridge, Ill. The bodies of the five were found buried in shallow graves near Powers' "chamber of horrors" garage.

Powers has been stolid and bulbous eyed since his arrest. He professes to be an atheist and has spurned religious solace. He has shown virtually no emotion, except when told this week the state Supreme court had refused to grant him a new trial he collapsed in a faint.

BROKER'S SON, 13, IS SHOT IN ARM IN GUN ACCIDENT

Alfred Antonsen, 13 years old, son of Otto Antonsen, of 3500 Sheridan road, grain broker, was shot in the right forearm last night when a revolver which he and three chums were examining was accidentally discharged. All the boys are members of wealthy families.

The accident occurred in the home of Robert Henneberry, 16 years old, son of Robert Henneberry, rotagravure printer and publisher. The other two boys present were Herman Friestedt, 15 years old, of 6006 Sheridan road, whose father is a contractor, and Fred McNally, 16, of 1041 Judson avenue, Evanston, son of a publisher.

Hudson avenue police were told that the weapon belonged to the Henneberry home and was in the hands of young Friestedt at the time it was discharged. Young Antonsen was taken to Alexian Brothers hospital for treatment.

SUICIDE PLUNGE IN AUTOMOBILE LAID TO INSANITY

A verdict of suicide while temporarily insane was returned yesterday by a coroner's jury at an inquest into the death of R. T. French, 33 years old, killed earlier in the day when his automobile plunged 35 feet from the south end terminal of Lake Shore drive at the Ogden slip. A bridge is being constructed there to join the north and south sections of the outer drives.

Nathaniel Davidson, colored, 3534 Giles avenue, a watchman, testified he saw French drive against a heavy lighted barricade three times before he succeeded in crashing through. Relatives testified they knew of no reason why French should have committed suicide. He was formerly assistant manager of the Sovereign hotel, 6200 Kenmore avenue, and recently had been living at 4145 Broadway. His widow, Katherine, is visiting friends in Sioux City, Ia., it was reported.

WILLARD SCOTT, CIVIL WAR VET, AGED 97, DIES IN NAPERVILLE

Willard Scott, pioneer Illinois resident and a civil war veteran, died yesterday in his home in Naperville. He was 97 years old. The funeral will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the Congregational church in Naperville and burial will take place in that city.

Had Mr. Scott lived, he and his wife, who is 86 years old, would have celebrated their 64th wedding anniversary on March 18. There are no children.

WILLARD SCOTT.

Born five miles south of the site of Naperville, Mr. Scott entered the banking business as a youth. His father founded the first bank in Dupage county in 1833.

Mr. Scott enlisted in the Union army at the outset of the civil war and during much of the conflict was a lieutenant of infantry. After peace was declared he was commissioned a major.

Mr. Scott returned to Naperville and again entered the banking and merchandising business there. He retired a few years ago.

SEEK TO DISSOLVE ASSOCIATION OF MOTOR POLICE

Several complaints made recently against the Illinois Motorcycle Policemen's Benevolent association led yesterday to a decision by Assistant State's Attorney Charles J. Mueller, head of the prosecutor's racket bureau, to seek the dissolution of the organization. Assistant Attorney General George A. Lavin was asked to have its charter revoked.

The latest complaint was that received yesterday from F. D. Sedgewick, 4217 North Mason avenue, who was given a summons on Jan. 27 for speeding. A few days later two men, who appeared to be uniformed Lincoln park policemen, called at his office at 2650 Elston avenue. Sedgewick said he paid them $15 for a membership card in the organization and was told it would cancel the summons for speeding and would act as a preventive of arrest in the future, as well as being good as a $100 bail bond certificate.

Sedgewick didn't go to court, he said, and he was then arrested on a warrant. His story was repeated to Maj. James Sammis, chief of Lincoln park police, who referred the complaint to the racket bureau. Prosecutor Mueller said the organization is headed by Harry Morley, formerly a motorcycle policeman.

GIVE MARY NOLAN AND HER HUSBAND 30 DAYS IN JAIL

Los Angeles, Cal., March 11.—(AP)—Mary Nolan, screen actress, and her husband, Wallace Macrery, were sentenced to serve thirty days each in the county jail by Municipal Judge Clement Nye today on charges of violating the state labor law.

Sentences of 630 days for Miss Noland and 720 for Macrery, involving similar offenses, were suspended. The two were convicted Wednesday on eight counts of failure to pay wages in the actress' fashionable Hollywood gown shop.

Their bonds were set at $200 each, which they expected to make. They announced they would appeal.

Edwin B. Conable, Pioneer Iowa Settler, Is Buried

Edwin Barber Conable of Hinsdale, who was a pioneer Iowa settler, was buried yesterday at Independence, Ia. He would have been 89 years old next month. Mr. Conable died on Tuesday at the home of his son, E. W. Conable, Hinsdale, with whom he had lived since 1920. He was born at Goshen, Ind. When a boy he and his parents journeyed to Iowa in covered wagon and on foot. Mr. Conable often recalled seeing cattle walking through Chicago streets on the way to new farm lands.

COAL OPERATORS READY TO ASK LOWER WAGES

The joint wage conference of Illinois coal operators and union miners adjourned yesterday until Tuesday morning. The fourth day of the sessions, like previous days, was devoted to a general discussion of the economic situation.

The operators gave the first definite indication they would demand a new contract at a substantially lower scale than the existing contract, which expires March 31, specifies. A brochure, entitled "An Appeal to Reason," stating the position of the operators, was given to all the union delegates.

Stating that the Illinois fields were facing ruinous competition from other coal producing areas, and citing tonnage and wage scale charts, the operators said: "We are willing to pay the highest scale of wages the miners' officials can prove that the operators are able to pay and still sell their coal at a reasonable profit."

The adjournment was requested by the union representatives. Unofficially it was stated the union leaders wished to return to confer with their members. It is expected that all next week will be needed to complete the major conferences, following which subcommittees will work out the details.

MAYOR WALKER COLLAPSES, BUT RETURNS TO JOB

New York, March 11.—[Special.]—Mayor James J. Walker left a sick bed today to preside over the board of estimate meeting and it was learned that he had collapsed yesterday while undergoing a physical examination at the Rockefeller institute.

Mr. Walker was unconscious for from five to ten minutes, according to his personal physician, Dr. William Schroeder Jr., and was incapable of any physical effort for an hour after the collapse.

However, the examination revealed the mayor has no organic trouble, Dr. Schroeder said. Mr. Walker must have more rest and "resort to regular hours of eating and sleeping," the physician said, adding that the mayor has a weak heart and really needs a vacation, but he does not believe this is possible because of the pressure of his duties.

FORMER BANK PRESIDENT GETS 1 TO 10 YR. TERM

CRIMINAL COURT.

Alex Cross, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary by Judge Thomas Taylor Jr.

Margaret Summers, murder, sentenced to 14 years in the women's penitentiary at Dwight; John Kenderes, confidence game, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary; Charles J. Wolf, embezzlement, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary by Judge Walter Stanton.

A sentence of from one to ten years in Joliet penitentiary was imposed yesterday by Judge Walter T. Stanton in the Criminal court on Charles J. Wolf 53 years old, who was found guilty by a jury of having embezzled $37,000 while he was president of the defunct Citizens State bank of Melrose Park.

CHAS. J. WOLF.

A motion for a new trial was overruled and the sentence pronounced after Judge Stanton had also overruled a motion for an arrest of judgment and a motion for a stay of mittimus. Wolf's attorneys were allowed 60 days in which to file a bill of exceptions to be used in an appeal to a higher court.

Wolf was village president of Melrose Park for 16 years and president of the bank from 1905 until two months before it closed in 1930. At the trial last December the state presented evidence showing the embezzlement and the methods used by Wolf to cover up the shortages.

C. Oliver Holmes, Indiana state senator and president of the defunct Central Trust and Savings bank of Gary, and four other indicted officials of suspended Gary banks, were given a change of venue from Lake county to Jasper county, Indiana, yesterday when they pleaded they could not be given fair trials in Lake county.

WOMAN ORDERED TO PRISON FOR POISONING BOY

Mrs. Margaret Summers, 47 years old, convicted of the murder by poison of her nephew, Thomas Meyer, 17 years old, to obtain his life insurance, was sentenced to fourteen years in the women's reformatory at Dwight by Judge Walter T. Stanton yesterday. The punishment was fixed by a jury on Feb. 29.

"The jury was more lenient than I would have been," commented Judge Stanton as he overruled a motion for a new trial. Mrs. Summers was ordered taken to the reformatory with the next consignment of prisoners.

Mrs. Mabel Lorenz, aunt of the Meyer youth, remarked outside the courtroom that Mrs. Summers "got off easy." This started a quarrel between Mrs. Lorenz and Mrs. Margaret Ritti, daughter of the sentenced woman. Bailiffs pulled them apart.

Woman, 82, Upsets Candle and Is Fatally Burned

Mrs. Bessie Pearlman, 82 years old, died last night at St. Elizabeth's hospital of burns which she suffered several hours ealier when a candle fell over on the dinner table in her home at 1322 North Oakley avenue. PLAN EXTENSION OF OPTION TO BUY ORRINGTON

New Corporation May Take Over Property.

BY AL CHASE.

Negotiations are now under way, it was announced yesterday by M. E. Greenebaum of the Greenebaum Sons Investment company for a further extension of the option to buy the Orrington hotel in Evanston, held by the National Realty and Investment company, of which Benjamin H. Marshall is president. This contemplated move is in connection with the reorganization of the hotel property. The original option of purchase expired Jan. 1, 1931, and was extended to Jan. 1, 1932.

BENJAMIN H. MARSHALL. [Moffett Photo.]

If the option to purchase is extended a new corporation is to be formed to acquire and operate the property. Its capital stock will consist of 19,550 shares of 5 per cent preferred, par $25, and 195,500 shares of no par common. The new concern will issue first mortgage bonds amounting to $1,466,250, due in fifteen years, at 5 per cent.

75 Per Cent in New Bonds.

Each holder of a deposited bond will receive new mortgage bonds equal to 75 per cent of present holdings, and preferred stock equal to 25 per cent. In addition, one share of common will be given for each $100 of bond holdings. Cash to the amount of 3 per cent of bond ownership will be paid to the bondholders. The balance of the common stock will go to the National Realty and Investment company.

It also is stated that the new company contemplates issuing 6 per cent notes not to exceed $300,000 to repay advances made by the National Realty and Investment company for taxes, etc. Winston, Strawn & Shaw are attorneys in the reorganization of the hotel property. Approximately 80 per cent of the bonds have been deposited. A receiver is operating the property at present.

$1,975,000 Bond Issue.

The Orrington hotel, at the northwest corner of Orrington avenue and Church street, Evanston, is an eight story structure containing 408 rooms divided into 225 furnished suites of from one to four rooms. There are fourteen first floor shops. The property fronts 328 feet on Orrington avenue and 48½ feet on Church street and has a depth of 154 on the north line. It contains 41,484 square feet.

The project was originally financed by a Greenebaum 6 per cent first mortgage bond issue of $1,975,000, of which $20,000 has been retired. Interest defaulted June 1 and Dec. 1. 1931. Principal payments totaling $85,500 also have defaulted.

Acquire Two Properties.

Morton S. Ries, a nominee of the Realty Investors' trust, took title yesterday to two apartment properties for that organization. Both were financed by Baer, Eisendrath & Co. bond issues. The Glendale apartments, at the northwest corner of Harding avenue and Ainslie street, lot 81x124, were conveyed by B. Z. Cohen. The building contains twenty-nine flats, three and four rooms each. The original bond issue was $95,000, 7 per cent, now reduced to $91,000. Interest defaulted in August, 1931. The trust hopes to secure the second mortgage and avoid both foreclosures and receivership, according to Clarence L. Coleman, Jr., secretary and treasurer.

The Belle Plaine apartments, at the southwest corner of Albany and Belle Plaine, were conveyed by Miss Rose Handzel to Mr. Ries. The building occupies a 125x50 site, and contains thirteen four room suites. It was financed by a $45,000 bond issue, 7 per cent, now reduced to $42,500. Default in interest occurred in August, 1931. As in the other issues the trust hopes to secure the second mortgage and avoid the expenses of a foreclosure and receiver. Bonds of both issues were called for recently.

Firestone Tire and Rubber.

I would like very much to have the figures as given in Firestone Tire and Rubber company's statement at the end of their 1931 year. Will you please give me as much information as is available?—J. C. A.

Firestone Tire and Rubber company is one of the world's leading tire manufacturers. Daily tire capacity is 83,000. It also manufactures rubber and canvas shoes, electric storage batteries and tire rims. The company supplies Ford with original equipment.

Earnings in any one year are subject to fluctuations in prices of raw materials—rubber and cotton. At the beginning of the last fiscal year crude rubber was quoted at about 9 cents a pound and cotton at about 12. At the close of the year the prevailing price for rubber was about 4½ cents and cotton was quoted at about 6½ cents. Proportionately the decline was about equal to that of the preceding fiscal year, but the loss per pound was smaller.

Sales for the fiscal year ended Oct. 31, 1931, were $113,797,000, against $120,016,000 for the preceding year. Net income, after inventory, foreign exchange and plantation development chargeoffs was $6,029,000. This was 1.90 times preferred dividend requirements and equal to $1.26 per common share. For the 1930 fiscal year net income was $1,541,000, less than half of preferred dividend requirements. Despite a 5 per cent decline in sales, net profit in 1931 was 5.3 per cent of sales, against 1.3 per cent in 1930. The increase was due mainly to reductions in operating and raw material costs.

On Oct. 31, 1931, current assets were $56,510,000 and current liabilities were $4,966,000. Cash was $11,777,000. Working capital was $51,544,000, against 52,231,000 the year before.

Funded debt of subsidiaries was $20,631,000. There were 529,702 shares of $6 preferred [par $100] and 2,115,268 shares of common [par $10] outstanding.

Dividends of 25 cents per quarter are currently being paid on the common.

Southern Union Gas.

Will you please give me information about Southern Union Gas company first collateral 6½s, due 1939?—C. H.

Southern Union Gas company supplies gas and water to a population of 225,000 in 55 communities in five southeastern states through subsidiaries. Net available for interest in 1930 was $176,000 and interest was $59,000. Fixed charges were earned 1.97 times before depreciation in the first quarter of 1931. The company has $171,500 of notes maturing in 1933.

The $928,000 series A and the $200,000 series B first 6½s, due 1939, are speculative.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 11.—The American Locomotive company reports a loss of $3,929,384 for the year 1931 after depreciation and other charges, but before dividends. Disbursements on the preferred and common stocks amounted to $3,387,286, bringing the total loss for the year to $7,316,670.

In 1930 the company earned a profit after depreciation and all other charges amounting to $3,778,557, which was equivalent to $1.41 a share on the common stock after allowing for preferred dividends. It paid dividends aggregating $6,160,000, after which the income account showed a loss of $2,381,443.

The company reported a surplus of $19,759,952 at the end of 1930, but last year made an adjustment of surplus. Thereby the depreciated value of existing additions to permanent plant property, $21,868,283, which in other years had been charged to reserves created out of current earnings, has been added to the cost of property and earned surplus accounts. Also a capital surplus, amounting to $14,426,998, has been applied as a reduction of the cost of property account. As a result of those changes the surplus as of Dec. 31, 1931, stood at $20,661,195 after charging the operating loss, reserves and dividends against it.

Assets Also Decline.

The balance sheet as of Dec. 31 last showed total assets of $98,336,615 against $102,408,001 at the end of the previous year, a reduction of $4,071,386. Current assets totaled $24,491,964, while current liabilities amounted to $1,861,737. Of the current assets, $3,618,584 consisted of cash, while $11,211,101 were marketable securities, including $4,822,950 United States treasury bonds.

"During the year 1931 the productive activity of the plants of your company was at a lower ebb than at any other time since the organization of the company," says William H. Woodin, president, in his report to the stockholders.

"The company shipped only seventy-seven new locomotives. The unfilled orders on the books at Jan. 1, 1932, amounted to $4,621,456, compared with $7,528,725 at Jan. 1, 1930. While the buying of locomotives was practically at a standstill, the subsidiaries engaged in diversified lines showed more encouraging results.

Sells Diesel Engines, Too.

"Alco Products, Inc., booked business during the year amounting to over $3,000,000 and the sale of Diesel engines by McIntosh & Seymour corporation amounted to over $1,500,000. The program of your company for diversification in these and other lines is steadily moving forward."

EASY TONE IN COTTON

Cotton prices were higher early, but lost the appreciation toward the last on realizing sales, but net losses were only 16@4 points on futures at Chicago and 1@5 points in other markets. In the spot markets there was no change, although offerings were readily absorbed by mill interests. New York closed at 7.05c. New Orleans and Houston, 6.95c, and Galveston, 7c. Liverpool closed 13@14 points higher, on sterling exchange easier. Estimates of consumption during February as given by the New York Cotton exchange aggregate 447,000 bales, compared with 435,000 bales in January and 433,000 bales in February, 1931. Spinners' takings for the week were estimated at 315,000 bales, compared with 259,000 bales a year ago. Temperatures over the cotton belt generally are predicted to moderate. Prices follow:

LARD LOSES RECENT GAIN

Good receipts of hogs due to milder weather in the country combined with hedging sales of product by packing interests readily satisfied buyers of futures and carried prices to a close 7½c to 10c lower than the previous day on lard. Bellies were given little attention and were off 5c on July. Trading in all was fair in futures and cash product. Liverpool lard was 6d to 1s higher. Export clearances were 1,891,000 lbs lard and of bacon 5,000 lbs. Hog receipts were larger than a week and a year ago. Prices follow:

FIRST NATIONAL CUTS DIVIDEND TO $12 YEARLY

First-Union Profits Show a Decline.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Directors of the First National bank of Chicago yesterday reduced the annual dividend rate from 18 to 12 per cent by declaring a quarterly payment of $3 a share, compared with $4.50 previously paid. The current dividend is payable March 31 to stockholders of record March 26. The First National was the second of the big downtown banks to cut its dividend this week, the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company having reduced its rate from 16 to 12 per cent last Tuesday.

Earnings of the large banks of the country have been severely affected in the last two years by virtual stagnation in new financing, both corporate and real estate. Particularly is this true of state banks and the First National, which has an affiliated state institution, the First Union Trust and Savings bank, is no exception to the rule. In addition, the general depression also has reduced earnings and brought heavy charge-offs.

"Previous dividends included those paid by the First Union Trust and Savings bank, the stock of which is owned by and held in trust for the stockholders of the First National bank," a statement issued by the directors explained. "In recent years approximately one-third of the annual payments to the shareholders of the national bank have been from profits of the trust and savings bank. Earnings of the bond and real estate loan departments have been materially reduced.

"Build Up Reserves."

"The desire to build up reserves, in line with the conservative policy which has always characterized the banks' management, makes it, in the judgment of the board, inadvisable for the trust company to contribute to the general dividend at this time. Earnings of the First National bank continue on a satisfactory level and for the first two months of this year are in excess of the corresponding period a year ago."

La Salle street had expected a reduction in the First National dividend but not such a severe one. The reduction was reflected in the market price for First National shares, which closed yesterday at 225 bid, 230 asked. The present shares sold as high as 1,005 in 1929 and as low as 211 last December.

Four banks in Cleveland, O., also reduced their dividends yesterday. The Central United National reduced the quarterly rate from 65 cents to 40 cents, the Cleveland Trust from $3 quarterly to $2, the Guardian Trust company from $3 quarterly to $2, and the Union Trust from 75 cents to 50 cents.

WEEKLY TRADE REVIEWS

Recent cold weather has resulted in a sharp increase in retail buying of coal and more satisfactory clearance sales of heavy clothing, but there has been some holding back of spring trade owing to the general storm which has swept the country, according to the trade reviews. The reviews also say that general retail distribution has shown little if any increase and is running below a year ago, while there has been improvement in the agricultural situation in both wheat and cotton.

"Of course, the early date of Easter has concentrated retail attention largely on the offerings of spring wear and this branch finds little that is helpful in the below freezing to close to zero markings of the thermometer," Bradstreet's review says.

"Of the damage to coastwise shipping and other interests there is some tangible evidence, whereas the threat of severe cold weathr to the winter wheat and fruit crops is as yet not easily determinable. Where snow covered it, little is feared for the winter wheat crop, but where this was not the case the effects of freezing and thawing are still a matter of concern to the grain trade. This explains largely the slight advance in wheat prices registered since the first of the month."

Finds Sentiment Improved.

Dun's review notes that "developments of a tangible nature have given a distinctly more cheerful tinge to the general business situation."

"Already confidence is spreading," it adds; "there has been a lifting of pressure by banks in the sales of their investment assets and a decline in currency in circulation. Hoarding, which threatened to become a bogy, is fast fading into the background.

"It is becoming increasingly evident that the major portion of the evils feared for the winter did not appear. Most merchants, doubtless, were suffering more from an oversupply of fears than from an under supply of income. In some centers the near zero weather checked abruptly what had promised to be an excellent expansion of spring retail trade."

Big Block of Canadian Stock Traded at $56.50

New York, March 11.—(AP)—An unusual transaction in the New York Stock exchange today was a sale of 2,420 shares of Christie Brown & Co. Canadian Baking issue at $56.50 a share. This was the first transaction in this issue in this market since 1930. It was inactive all through 1931. It was quoted in the inactive list at $100 bid yesterday. In 1930 there were some transactions at $126.50 a share and $125.50 a share.

World Copper Pact Settled in Principle

New York, March 11.—(AP)—The price of copper for foreign shipment was again shaded ¼ of a cent to 6 cents a pound today, and at the same time Copper Exporters, Inc., issued a statement indicating that international producers who have been conferring in New York had virtually agreed to further curtailment of output.

"As a result of recent conferences, participated in with but few exceptions by all the world producers of copper," declared the export organization's statement, "it is anticipated that further curtailment contemplated will be brought about provided the mining companies not represented in these conferences show a fair spirit of coöperation.

To Use Present Agency.

"In expectation of such coöperation, producers and custom smelters have agreed to continue to coöperate in the export market through Copper Exporters, Inc."

Members of Copper Exporters, Inc., however, were unable to compromise on a proposed revision of the organization's selling regulations, and it was decided, at least for the time being, to operate under the old rules.

This decision was reached when it was discovered there was a provision in the old rules permitting custom smelters to make special offerings abroad at less than official prices. The smelters until this year have followed the prices set by the selling agency. A number of the producers had favored suspending the export concern and dropping the curtailment proposals in the event no agreement was reached on the revised sales rules.

Sales Over 2 Million Pounds.

CUBAN BALANCE IS $22,000,000 FOR 10 MONTHS' TRADE

HAVANA, March 11.—(AP)—Cuba's visible balance of trade for the first ten months of 1931 amounted to $22,000,000, the treasury department reported today. Exports were $101,000,000 and imports $79,000,000. Imports from the United States were $39,870,663 and exports $76,582,22.

Argentine Exports Decline.

BUENOS AIRES, March 11.—(AP)—Argentina's exports for January and February amounted to $27,096,000, as compared to $29,215,000 in the same period of 1931, the treasury announced today. The decline was attributed chiefly to reductions in meat exports.

The province of San Juan, where the choicest Argentine grapes are grown, exported 950 tons in February. Of the 96,296 cases of grapes exported, 87,087 went to New York and 9,282 to London.

Ontario Expects Surplus.

TORONTO, Ontario, March 11.—(AP)—Ontario will emerge with a small surplus in 1932, according to estimates submitted by E. A. Dunlop, provincial treasurer, in his budget speech to the legislature today.

New taxation which, it is estimated, will bring additional revenue of $4,210,000, was announced. It includes an increase of one cent to six cents a gallon in the tax on gasoline, increases in corporation and amusement taxes, a tax of ten cents a bottle on imported spirituous liquor and imported wine sold by the Ontario Liquor Control board, and a tax of 25 cents a gallon on domestic wine. The treasurer estimated that the year will end with a surplus of $365,000.

PURCHASES 112 ACRES FOR COOK COUNTY PARKS

One hundred and twelve acres were added to Cook county's forest preserve system yesterday. Three adjacent parcels in Wheeling township, south of Dundee road and west of Sanders road, were secured through condemnation proceedings. The total amount paid was $155,097. One parcel containing 48.94 acres was purchased from Daniel F. and Anna M. Cleary for $73,410. Twenty-five and a third acres were secured from Reinhold and Mamie Koebelin for $32,933. The third parcel contains 37.50 acres and was purchased from Benjamin J. Freese and Ira N. Bubert for $48,754.

It was stated recently that the forest preserve district would acquire no more holdings until the present financial situation improved. There are several condemnation proceedings still in the courts, and it was announced at the forest preserve offices that these would be completed. When this is done no more land will be purchased for some time.

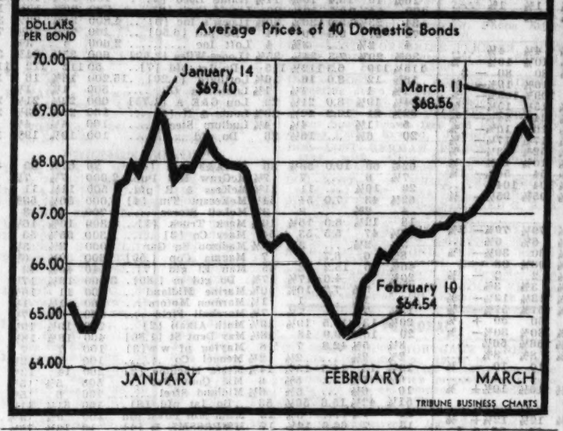
New York, March 11.—(AP)—The proposed reorganization of the official personnel of the North American Aviation corporation was effected at the annual meeting today. The board was reduced from 45 to 24 members and Harold E. Talbott Jr. was elected chairman of the board and of the executive committee. Walter P. Chrysler was made a director.

Liberty Mutual Ins. Co. Shows Gain for 1931

Liberty Mutual Insurance company's report for 1931 shows total assets at the close of the year of $23,262,045 and surplus of $3,926,177. Surplus increased $30,818 during the year, while assets showed a gain of $568,764. Gross income for the year totaled $17,689,630. Disbursements, including dividends of $3,388,999, amounted to $16,804,216.

Bond Prices During the Past Thirty Days Have Been Rising Slowly But Steadily



COUNTRY'S GOLD STOCK RECORDS GAIN OF $1,524,800

Sterling Advances Cent in Price.

New York, March 11.—(AP)—A further improvement in the country's gold position resulted from today's transactions in the metal. The New York Federal Reserve bank statement disclosed imports of $108,000 from Canada and $71,300 from India. These, together with a $450,500 decrease in earmark account, raised the nation's monetary stock by $1,524,800.

Foreign exchange rates fluctuated unevenly today. The pound sterling, after yesterday's setback, recovered 1 cent net, closing at $3.63 for cables. The French franc, on the other hand, reacted from its upturn of the last two days, closing ½ point lower at 3.93½ cents.

The Canadian dollar weakened, despite the upturn in sterling, closing at 89⅜ cents, off nearly ½ cent. The Mexican peso lost ½ cent and the Japanese yen ⅛.

Raps Buying American Grain.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, March 11.—(AP)—Minister of Agriculture Purgly said today that the fact that almost all the European countries are struggling with difficulties of foreign exchange should open their eyes to the advantage of covering their grain requirements in southeastern Europe rather than in America.

In this connection, he announced that representatives of the Farmers' federation of Roumania, Hungary, and Jugo-Slavia will meet at Belgrade after Easter to evolve an agreement for the joint handling of the next harvest surplus.

Bank of Japan Cuts Rate.

TOKIO, March 11.—(AP)—The Bank of Japan lowered its discount rate today from 6.57 to 5.84.

PUBLIC TAKES ALL OF CREDIT BANKS' BONDS

New York, March 11.—(AP)—The fiscal agent for the federal intermediate credit banks announced today that the new offering of $25,000,000 of 4½ per cent bonds for the banks has been oversubscribed, all of the bonds having been sold within a week. Washington dispatches announced the total sold at $32,345,000.

As a result of their complete sale the Reconstruction Finance corporation, which had announced that it would take up any portion of the issue not sold publicly, has been relieved from this obligation. This, it was stated, will, in effect, free just that much more money for use in making loans by the corporation. The intermediate credit banks bonds were offered at par.

Municipal financing, scheduled for next week, tops that of recent weeks by a wide margin, and suggests some reawakening of interest on the part of municipal buyers. Proposed offerings total $64,203,000, according to the Daily Bond Buyer, against $10,185,788 in the week just past, and a weekly average for the year to date of $16,148,350.

New York City today arranged for another short term loan of $20,000,000 at 5¾ per cent out of the $151,000,000 revolving credit extended by the banks early this year.

ATLANTIC AND PACIFIC SALES IN FEBRUARY DROP 15.26 PER CENT

The Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company reports sales of $69,860,876 in the four weeks ended Feb. 27, compared with $82,441,242 in the period last year, a decrease of 15.26 per cent. February sales, expressed in tons, were estimated as 412,767 this year, compared with 439,545 in February, 1931. This is a decrease in quantity of merchandise sold of 26,778 tons, or 6.09 per cent.

Average weekly sales in February were $17,465,219, compared with $20,610,311 in 1931, a decrease of $3,145,092. Average weekly tonnage sales were 103,192, compared with 109,886 in February, 1931, a decrease of 6,694. Total sales for the fiscal year ended Feb. 27, 1932, are estimated at $1,008,000,000, as compared with $1,065,806,885 for the year ended Feb. 28, 1931, a decrease of 5.41 per cent.

The Jewel Tea company reports sales for the four weeks ended Feb. 27 were $892,604, compared with $1,107,352 for parallel weeks in 1931, a decrease of 19.39 per cent. The average number of sales routes for parallel weeks in 1932 was 1,336 and in 1931 1,286.

Sales for the first eight weeks of 1932 were $1,792,529, compared with $2,174,265 for a like period in 1931, a decrease of 17.56 per cent. For these weeks the average number of routes in 1932 was 1,335 and in 1931 1,284.

U. S. GOVERNMENT LIST ONCE MORE FEATURE OF N. Y. BOND MARKET

New York, March 11.—(AP)—The steady feature of the bond market today again proved to be the United States government list, and the majority of Liberties and Treasuries closed higher, despite some fairly heavy realizing. While the market exhibited an irregular trend during most of the session, trading turned extremely dull on the decline as offerings narrowed.

Profit taking in the railway department continued more or less actively to the end. While the utilities and industrials generally gained fractionally, the average for 20 leading carriers dropped 8-10 of a point. Nickel Plate 6s, after making a new high of 74⅞ for the year, fell back for a 1½ point loss.

Conspicuous losers included some liens of Baltimore and Ohio, Boston and Maine, Canadian Pacific, Chesapeake and Ohio, Chicago and North Western, Erie, Great Northern, Illinois Central, New York Central, New Haven, Southern Pacific, Southern, and Missouri Pacific.

The Missouri Pacific issues were especially weak, sagging from 1 to 4 points. It was reported that this road is seeking further help from the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

The Argentines were again the feature of the foreign group. All ten of this country's bonds reached new highs for the year. Substantial advances were made by some loans of Brazil, Poland, Norway, and Peru. There were even some gains among the low priced Chileans. Obligations of Britain and Germany were heavy and those of Japan barely steady.

CHICAGO STOCK PRICES EASIER ON LIGHT TRADE

Trading fell off sharply yesterday on the Chicago exchange and prices eased moderately in sympathy with the trend in other security markets. Net losses were less than a point in most instances and there was little interest shown in any particular group of stocks. The turnover of 57,000 shares was the smallest in about ten days before the selling broke out in the Insull stocks.

The shrinkage in the volume of transactions was interpreted as meaning that the brokerage houses have completed most of their necessary liquidation in the Insull stocks. The market action of the group yesterday offered confirmation of this belief. Insull stocks moved with the market, sustaining small losses. Edison was fractionally lower on transactions of 1,825 shares, the smallest turnover in several days. Middle West was weak, dropping to 2¾, but trading was less active than earlier this week.

Cities Service was off slightly on light trade. Officials of the company announced that the $3,125,000 outstanding notes due March 28 will be paid two weeks in advance. The notes are the last of a series of $16,000,000 issued in part payment for properties acquired in 1930.

Gen. Electric to Continue with Unemployment Help

Gerard Swope, president of the General Electric company, announced yesterday that the emergency clause of the company's unemployment insurance plan will continue after termination of the employment guarantee on April 30. The company will make every effort, the statement said, to spread the available work as far as possible among its apparatus works employés, and to grant relief to those for whom little or no work is available.

Bank Clearings of Nation Show Drop of 1.5 Per Cent

For the entire country bank clearings for the week ended March 9 totaled $5,539,498,000, a decrease of 1.5 per cent from the preceding week, and 32 per cent below the same week last year, according to returns to Bradstreet's. New York bank clearings showed a slight gain over the previous week, due to increased activity in security markets.

TRADE QUOTAS OF EUROPE BRING SHARP ATTACK

[Copyright: 1932; By the New York Times.]

PARIS, March 11.—The International Chamber of Commerce today, as many times in the last decade, issued a warning in behalf of the business men of the world. It said that unless armaments and tariffs are reduced, reparations and war debts settled, the world cannot hope to get out of the present economic crisis.

At the same time Silas H. Strawn of Chicago, chairman of the American committee, served a warning that the import quota system, which is wreaking such havoc with United States trade with France, "cannot be accepted as part of the permanent fabric of international trade or commercial treaty structure."

Meanwhile it was learned several hundred thousand dollars' worth of fresh fruit from the United States probably will spoil on piers at Havre because the French government refused to exempt any shipments already en route to French ports before a total embargo was established two days ago.

Will Ask Retaliation.

Thus, while the chamber was pleading for removal of restrictions on world trade, American representatives of fruit exporters announced they are asking Washington to invoke section 338 of the American tariff law, providing for retaliation whenever a foreign nation discriminates unfairly against American trade abroad.

Mr. Strawn, discussing the French action today, thought it highly probable that there would be "repercussions" from the United States. He held that the irritation it would cause, coming as a climax to a long series of repressive measures, would be a boomerang to French trade.

Previously Mr. Strawn had added his protest to those of many other prominent Americans in Paris in recent months, in an effort to convince Europeans that the problem of German reparations is primarily a European problem. He said he was amazed to find on his arrival that, despite all that had been said, neither the French nor the English seemed to realize that fact.

Reparations Still Tangled.

There is too much diversity of opinion among conferees about reparations to come to any agreement, except on the fact that the matter must be settled before there can be any improvement in world economic conditions. However, the reasons why there is no settlement yet became strikingly obvious when Chairman Abraham Frowein of Germany urged cancellation, Rene Duchemin of France flatly opposed the idea, and Mr. Strawn said the United States can do nothing about it.

They all ended up by expressing confidence that the reparations meeting in June at Lausanne will achieve a solution. When it meets, the conferees said in a statement issued tonight, "it should know that the business communities of Europe and the American continent place in the forefront an effective policy of disarmament, definite settlement of war debts and reparations, normal operation of the machinery of international credit, and a reversal of growing policies of national isolation by the introduction of policies leading to freer international movement of goods, capital, persons, and services, if full economic recovery is to take place."

May Cut Wheat Tariff.

BERLIN, March 11.—(AP)—A reduction of Germany's high tariff on wheat and an increase in the percentage of foreign wheat which may go into German made flour will be put into effect on or about April 1, according to reliable information received today. The proposed action here is one phase of a similar move, although not so extensive, planned in France and Italy.

In authoritative circles here it was predicted that the reduction of Germany's wheat tariff will be from 250 marks a ton to from 180 to 200 marks (this would be a reduction of about 50 cents a bushel).

Universal Oil Products Charges Patent Violation

Wilmington, Del., March 11.—(AP)—Universal Oil Products company, a South Dakota corporation with offices in Chicago, today filed a suit in the federal court here against the Atlantic, Pacific and Gulf Refining company, charging patent infringement of a process and apparatus for converting petroleum oil. The patent, it is stated in the bill was issued to Milton J. Trumble in 1918.

Rail Leaders Tell Benefits of Electricity

BY SCRUTATOR.

The Pennsylvania railroad proposes to complete the electrification of its line between New York and Washington at an estimated cost of $68,000,000. In order that the work may be pushed ahead without delay the company has applied to the Reconstruction Finance corporation for a $55,000,000 loan. Actual electrification work is expected to cost $47,000,000, the balance of the $68,000,000 going to terminal improvements.

Electrification of the New York-Washington line is just a beginning. Railroad officials are always slow to reveal their plans for the future, but in the hearings on the carriers' four system consolidation plan now being held by the interstate commerce commission some interesting disclosures have been made.

Railroad executives have predicted the spread of electrification. They have testified that they expect it to be remunerative.

A "Natural Evolution."

M. W. Clement, operating vice president of the Pennsylvania, was put on the stand to testify in the consolidation case. He spoke about the electrification of the line between New York and Washington.

"Would you consider it very helpful to the Pennsylvania railroad to get the Pittsburgh to Philadelphia division completely electrified?" Mr. Clement was asked.

"Yes, it would be," he replied. "Our general studies of electrification show compensatory returns. We assume it is a natural evolution in the future of transportation."

There is no hedging here. It is a definite, straightforward statement. Electrification, in the opinion of the operating vice president of the Pennsylvania railroad, is money well spent.

Under the consolidation plan proposed by the carriers the Pennsylvania would take over the Norfolk and Western. The Virginian would be under the joint control of the Pennsylvania and the Chesapeake and Ohio-Nickel Plate systems.

Virginian Rail Results.

George Masten, general superintendent of the Virginian railway, appeared before the interstate commerce commission March 2 to offer testimony showing the saving that would be accomplished through the proposed allocation of the Virginian.

"We have discontinued making up comparative statements of electric operation versus steam," said Mr. Masten. "But as a matter of information, the last comparison made—from Jan. 1 to Aug. 31, 1926, between Elmore and Princeton—showed a decreased cost per gross ton mile, electric versus steam, of 46.71 per cent."

Referring to the movement of coal eastward to tidewater from the Logan field, Mr. Masten explained that the only substantial adverse grade on the route was between Elmore and Clarks Gap, a distance of 14 miles. Here the adverse grade is 2.07 per cent. The line is double tracked and electrified.

"A three unit electric motor pulling and a duplicate unit pushing moves from Elmore 6,000 tons to the top of the mountain within an hour. At the summit of Clarks Gap the train is filled out to 9,000 tons and one three unit motor takes the train through to Roanoke, a distance of 118 miles.

Speed Is Uniform.

"Speed is maintained uniformly up hill and down hill, the locomotive pulling the train up hill and holding it back without the use of brakes going down hill. Under the latter conditions the motors also act as a dynamo and generate electric energy which is automatically returned to the trolley.

"These locomotives function exactly as designed and the yearly saving on fuel is quite marked, as well as the decreased cost of maintenance of car equipment due to less jerking, reduced friction on wheels, less wear and tear on brake equipment, and fewer accidents."

The most recent development in electrified transportation in the central west is the new high speed service inaugurated by the Chicago, North Shore, and Milwaukee railroad between Chicago and Milwaukee. Trains now make an average speed of 65.3 miles per hour between the city limits of the two cities.

Gain in Sentiment Tempers Adverse U. S. Steel Report

New York, March 11.—(AP)—Wall street's disappointment at the unexpectedly large decrease in the Feb. 29 unfilled tonnage of the U. S. Steel corporation is somewhat tempered by reports of improving sentiment in some of the leading steel markets. In Chicago, for instance, it is said that a much better feeling prevails with regard to second quarter prospects.

For the first two months of this year general consumption of metals in this country and abroad was at its lowest ebb, stockholders of the American Metal company were told at the annual meeting by Ludwig Vogelstein, chairman of the board.

DISCOUNT RATE ON BANK PAPER CUT ⅛ OF 1 PCT.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 11.—The easier money policy of the federal reserve system, as indicated by the injection of about $50,000,000 of reserve credit into member banks in the last week, was reflected today in a reduction of one-eighth of 1 per cent in the discount rates on all maturities of bankers' acceptances up to and including those of ninety days.

New rates on bills from thirty to ninety days, inclusive, are 2⅝ bid and 2½ asked. This puts the dealers, buying rates for ninety day bills, the maturity most largely traded in, below the buying rate of the federal reserve bank. The dealers' selling rate becomes one-quarter of 1 per cent under the reserve buying rate. It means that the dealers cannot sell those bills to the reserve bank without taking a loss.

The chief significance of the reduction lies in the fact that it paves the way for another reduction in the rediscount rate of the New York Reserve bank, which was cut from 3½ to 3 per cent on Feb. 25.

Milwaukee Road Reports Better February Earnings

Operating economies effected through the ten per cent wage reduction and the increase in rates on certain commodities are reflected in the February revenues of the Milwaukee railroad, according to preliminary estimates. February gross revenue is placed at $6,800,000 and while it is understood that there was little or no net operating income, there was still a substantial improvement over January, when the road had a deficit of $209,329. Gross was $8,556,910 in February last year, and net operating income was $345,355.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 11.—Signs of further credit easement developing overnight and the announcement of fresh progress in strengthening the banking situation failed to click with the stock speculative community for some reason today. Some commentators thought the boys had the German elections on their mind and others guessed that the bogey of next week's income tax payments had dampened their market ardor.

At any rate the selling movement continued to gain momentum. It became rather ominous in some directions during the day, carrying various high grade issues which have been offering rather stout resistance up to now down anywhere from 1 to 4 points.

Steel and Can Drop.

American Can and United States Steel, for instance, were filched of 2 points or so each of the gains they achieved in last week's short lived little upturn, while less active shares such as International Business Machine, American Tobacco, Allied Chemical and Dye, and Norfolk and Western Railroad had to give up 3 to 4 points each.

The disappointing earnings statements, which have been coming to light in fresh droves since the beginning of the week, have convinced many that much of the talk of returning prosperity now being put out is just so much heated air. Certainly there is no concrete sign of noticeable improvement in the key industries so far, however, much the country wishes to see them make their start. The trade reviews, popularly looked to as authorities on the matter, concede as much.

Volume Is Small.

An encouraging feature of the decline, however, is that the volume continues small showing that the bear interests are not sure enough of their positions to push the reaction very aggressively. Thus only 1,300,000 shares were turned over today and blocks of 10,000 were few and far between. Yesterday's total was around 1,000,000 and that of the day before not much larger. Prices are sagging gently for the most part, today's being the widest of the week so far.

Oil shares continued to focus attention, particularly some of the Standard Oil issues in which selling has been concentrated for several days. Socony-Vacuum, Prairie Oil and Gas, Ohio Oil and Standard of New Jersey were particularly active at wavering prices. The bulk of the selling was reported to be coming from two or three houses and the street was puzzled to account for it. Nor did the readiness of one large firm, generally looked upon as representing Standard Oil interests, in absorbing the majority of the offerings tend to clear the situation.

Utilities in Disfavor.

Utilities generally were in disfavor, American Telephone, selling ex dividend, dropped 3 points. People's Gas, which has lately been highhatting its division, finally took the downward course, giving up 2 points of its recent gains. Consolidated Gas, Public Service of New Jersey, Brooklyn Union and the like lost from 1 to 2 points.

Kreuger & Toll was the butt of persistent selling, much of it reputedly for foreign account.

Auburn Auto distinguished itself on the upside again, scoring a gain of nearly 4 points. At one time the issue was up to 101½, but the close found it back below the 100 level.

One month ago ..... 5.50@6.10
One year ago ..... 8.65@9.00
Top yesterday, $7.50; average, $7.00.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 600; hogs, 9,000; sheep, 4,000.

Hogs reached new high prices in the early 5@10c bulge yesterday. Top closely sorted lightweights brought $5.10, the highest sale since Nov. 12. The general average gained 5c at $4.65. The trade turned reactionary after most of the early orders had been filled and later sales cheapened up as much as 5@10c in medium grades before the close of the session.

Large local packers became aggressive when weakness appeared and left only 1,000 pen holders unsold. The advance in the hog market since a week ago has been sharp. Underweights and pigs are selling 60c to $1.00 above a week ago, while strong weight light show advances of 40@60c. Butched weights have gained 30@40c. The average market for hogs this week has been the highest since middle of last November.

Cattle Trade Dull.

Yesterday's cattle trade was a rather lifeless affair, almost devoid of features. Buyers were hard to find in the classes of steers selling above the $6.00 line, but some action was noted in plainer kinds when smaller local killers came in for a small quota of the $5.00@6.00 cattle at the previous day's quotations. Sacrificing on the part of sellers was necessary before the $6.50@7.00 kinds could be moved, and some of the better grades are being held over for Monday despite the possibility of a larger run early next week. One load of good 1,150 lb. cattle sold at $7.25, yesterday's top.

Lambs Lose 25@50c.

Lambs came in for a drubbing yesterday and went down 25@50c on light supplies in face of advancing wholesale markets for dressed lamb. Eastern representatives bought at $7.50 and below while packers filled their orders for top kinds at $7.25 and obtained some good quality slaughter stock at $6.50@7.00 before the close of trading. Outsiders bought with more freedom on later rounds when reports of $8.10 lambs at far eastern points came on the market, but sellers were unable to reverse the trend again. Prevailing quotations are still mostly 75c above the previous week's close and right at the highest spot of the winter. Dressed lamb carcasses advanced another cent on active buying, closing at 12@18c, highest since September. This range compares with 11@15c a week ago and with 9@12½c a month ago, indicating the rate at which lamb is advancing in value.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, March 11.—(AP)—Although not very active, raw sugar was steadier today, prices rallying 2 points from the all-time low record established the previous day. The sales reported were 23,000 bags of Philippines for late March arrival late yesterday at 2.75c, while today 10,500 bags of Cuban sold from store to a local refiner at 2.76c and 31,000 bags for prompt shipment to an operator at 2.77c. Futures continued their downward movement, with the May position selling at .76c, a new all-time low record, while other deliveries went into new low ground for the season, with final prices 7 points lower for the spot month and 2 net lower on all other positions. Approximate sales, 38,350 tons. Prices follow:

Refined sugar was unchanged at 4.15c for fine granulated, but the further widening of the differences between the raw and refined product seemed to check demand with buyers limiting purchases to nearby requirements only.
